

GO-PARTNERSHIP NOTICE.

WE, the undersigned, have this day entered into partnership under the name, style and firm of

THOS. W. SMITH & SON.

for the carrying on of the retail meat business.

MERCHANT TAILORS

—AND—
GENERAL OUTFITTERS,
at the old stand heretofore occupied by THOMAS W. SMITH, on Queen Street.
—Dated this 25th day of June, A. D. 1881.

THOS. W. SMITH,
H. LABARON SMITH.

CARD.

To our Customers and the Public generally—

MR. T. W. SMITH, aided by his son, has succeeded in establishing on a firm basis, by the addition of his own capital, and the assistance of his friends, a new and complete establishment, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, at the old stand heretofore occupied by THOMAS W. SMITH, on Queen Street.

A First-Class Modern Tailoring and

OUTFITTING

ESTABLISHMENT,

and has been induced from his growing trade and the increasing demands of the public to enlarge his business so as to supply every article required for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

SHOEMAKING

ESTABLISHMENT

to his former limits, and has also largely increased his premises and work-rooms.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

T. W. Smith & Son

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Head to Foot.

and at the lowest prices, and in the most complete manner, for the carrying on of the retail meat business, and to enable him to fulfil all orders, by his association with his son, Mr. H. LABARON SMITH, who is well known to the public, and has added a customer's name.

are now, therefore, prepared to furnish any gentleman with a

Complete Outfit from

Maritime Farmer.

FREDERICTON, N. B., July 21, 1881.

NOTICE.

Remittances to the "Maritime Farmer Association" should be by Bank Draft or Post Office Order, made payable to Julius L. Inche, Fredericton. When this is not convenient, money may be sent by Registered Letter.

The Political Grounds.

The Province has been in a state of political excitement for the last six days. A comet with a tail has appeared in its political horizon, and has set some people wondering what the unusual visitation might portend, whether the beginning of fierce political warfare, or the fall of government. The Province has, (to drop the general metaphor) been stirred, on the eve of a general election, by the presence of Ontario Statesmen, but this has been the first time that it has been invaded by political politicians from the Upper Provinces in the midst of profound political calm, for the purpose of stirring up party feeling and action. On the whole, the people have been pleased to see two gentlemen, well known by name and fame, as Mr. Blake, and Mr. Huntington in their midst. Their visit is a pleasant diversion to them in this holiday month, and their speeches are a godsend to the daily papers, and give their animated efforts a glorious opportunity to spread themselves (like the famous Methodist hymn) by the liberal press and press, Mr. Blake, has been hailed, as the coming man, the leader of the next government with most confident presumption. If that can be said and blind him, he will feel like saying with the hooded fellow of Rome, "veni vidi vici," but if he is a sensible man, who reads the morning papers regularly, he will have grave doubts as to the wisdom of his political mission in New Brunswick, at this time and of its eventual issue in 1883.

No one who has seen and heard Mr. Blake will deny that he is a man of power, and a solid speaker. But he is in place in a grave deliberative assembly, than on a platform, before a mixed audience, who demand of a speaker that he shall arouse, excite and amuse them, and who if he fail in these respects will put him down as a bad failure. In his speeches, Mr. Blake told them who care about politics, nothing concerning the Canada Pacific Railway, the N. P., and the government expenditures, but what they have read in his speeches over and over again in the debates of Parliament, and in his articles at the banquet in Montreal and Toronto. It was hardly worth his while to come down to the Province, so long time in advance of the general election, with his thrice told tales. Any impression he has made will be weakened by the pungent oratory of Sir Charles Tupper, and the familiar eloquence of Sir Leonard Tilley, who follow him next week, and the effect of his mission will be well away before the time of election comes. But that is his own and his party's look out. Apart from party interest we are glad that the people of New Brunswick have given such two distinguished visitors a pleasant welcome. Being veteran politicians they will take the criticism of the press as a matter of course, and will be all the more impressed by and grateful for the general courtesy that has been extended to them by the people at large. In their reception of Messrs. Blake and Huntington, the people of New Brunswick have but justified their reputation as being less prone to give way to fierce political matters than the people of other Provinces.

The Twelfth in Toronto.

"The glorious twelfth" was celebrated with great pomp of banner and band in Toronto; 130 lodges and 32 bands took part in the procession. About 5,000 members of the Orange Body walked, and many more looked on. The weather was splendid, but the heat was terrific, and the third procession, the consumption of "lanterns" was prodigious. There was no drunkenness or offensive display of party feeling. The bands playing party and popular tunes made the air lively, and enlivened the heat oppressed crowds who were kept standing in the sun for hours waiting for the starting of the procession. When two or three bands in close proximity, kept playing different tunes, the din was excruciating. The procession entered the Exhibition park, into which 25,000 people found their way by ticket, and amused themselves with dancing, games, and copious liquid but innocuous refreshment. The speech making had little attraction, for out of the enormous crowd, only 400 collected about the platform. From the resolutions passed and the speeches made it is strongly evident that the Orange Body is loyal and patriotic to the backbone, and is a factor of Goldwin Smith, and sanguine ideas. A declaration in favor of a confederation of the British Empire was made and the well known Rev. Dr. Wylie, went so far as to say that, "the influence exerted by benevolent and religious societies, all tending to the more complete federation of the white race, and the means the final federated of the whole world under one throne and liberty," a wild kind of idea truly. If the principles set forth in the resolutions passed animated the whole Orange Body throughout the Dominion, the constitution and civil and religious liberty are safe, and sectarian and ecclesiastical influences in civil legislation have powerful and determined opponents.

The Windsor Volunteer Review.

The late volunteer review in Windsor Park in presence of the Queen, and members of the Royal family, and under the eye of the Duke of Cambridge, was the most successful event of the kind that ever occurred in England. Never since an English army, say the papers, metred, in the reign of Edward II, for the invasion of Ireland, (which by the way came to grief considerably, at the battle of Bannockburn) has such a numerous force, 65,000 in all, gathered on English soil. Not only in the number of men under arms, but in the brilliancy of the tilted crowd was the review a noteworthy event. The volunteers concentrated in the Royal Park, were drafted from the regiments of 28 counties in England, and two of Wales, and represented about two thirds of the whole volunteer force of Great Britain.

The mustering of so large a force at one point in brief time, is a gentle hint as to what England could go under the pressure of necessity, and in the excitement of danger did "hangry gaul invasion threat," or any foreign power attempt to land an army on her soil. Were her whole regular army out of the Kingdom engaged in some war in Europe or the East, she would still have over three hundred and fifty thousand volunteers, yeomanry and militia, to meet any invaders and hurl them into the sea.

Only $1.00 a year for the FARMER.

The Emigration Cause.

The Irish Land Bill progressed favorably in the House of Commons until the 28th Clause, relating to emigration, was reached. Emigration, as a means of relieving the distress in Ireland, is opposed both by landlords and land leaguers. Extensive emigration would remove the thrifty, industrious part of the population, decrease the competition for farms, and raise the rates of labor, and consequently would tend to put up and to aggravate under which tenants and laborers groan and stop agitation. The objections of the landlords and land leaguers are both, surely, selfish. The emigration, under the Bill, would not likely be on so large a scale, as very materially to alter the position of the one, and as the emigration which would take place, would much improve the condition of those who went away, and tend to benefit those who stayed at home, it should not be opposed by the land leaguers if they are patriotic men, and not men interested in keeping Ireland crowded and miserable, and ever ready to be played upon by agitation. We should think that it would be a good thing for Ireland, and not a bad thing for the Dominion if a number of Irish families were settled on free farms in the North West.

Industrial Art.

Both in Halifax and St. John the question of establishing a School of Design has been mooted. In the former city, the subject was brought forward in the address of the President, at the opening of the Royal Canadian Academy of Art, and in the latter, at the meeting of the Educational Institute of New Brunswick, by Prof. Walter Smith of England, who was introduced by Dr. Rand, the master of elementary drawing in the schools, New Brunswick is before Nova Scotia; but, further instruction is needed here, and hence the necessity of establishing an Industrial Art School. Industrial drawing is an essential element in education, Prof. Smith says, the three "R's." It educates the intending workman's eye and hand, and refines their taste, and incites their inventive powers. In England, where it has been systematically taught thirty years, and in America for ten, the designs of textile fabrics, etc., have been improved by the public taste corrected. From the lectures, historical and practical, which Prof. Smith gave, he impressed his audience with a conviction of his thorough knowledge of his subject. A meeting was held in the Mayor's office on the 13th inst., to talk over the subject of Industrial Art, and a resolution was passed, endorsing the desirability of establishing an Industrial Art School in connection with the Institute. We hope that the manufacturers and mechanics and liberal gentlemen of progressive ideas, will persevere in their attempt to establish the school, and will not be discouraged by not receiving any additional aid from the government. The proposed school cannot be incorporated into our school system, as the Chief Superintendent, who, nevertheless, is one of its earnest supporters, took care to say, St. John should show that in a matter like this it can act independently of the government.

Hard on "New Rugby."

People are again speaking of "Tom Hughes," Rugby settlement in Tennessee. Everybody who has read "Tom Brown" has a liking for his author, would be glad to hear that the scheme of planting a bit of English life away down in the States, was likely to be successful. But the accounts that are given of New Rugby, are persistently unfavorable. The soil is light and sandy, and its highlands are well adapted for the cultivation of cereals. It would grow vines, tubers and hardy fruit trees, and make good pasture for sheep, but not, not fitted for wheat, corn, and the like. The soil is not adapted to agriculture, and the raising of grapes and mulberry. But that would not pay. Tom Hughes, however, is not yet discouraged. If "Rugby" cannot be made a prosperous agricultural colony, where, in the intervals of a day, the gentlemanly colonists can amuse themselves with law-tennis, cricket, and shooting, it may be turned into a sanatorium where the yellow fever refugees from the south; may—paying handsomely—recover a wholesome state of health. Practical people scout at the idea of the colonists of Rugby being able to live in a living by the game, and building houses for invalids. If all the stories that are told concerning the dissensions among the governing Board, of the dissatisfaction of new comers from England with the soil of Rugby, and of the ill success that has attended attempted agricultural operations, are facts, Tom Hughes scheme is doomed to failure. As the world would be so much worse for its failure, we hope that the stories are not all true.

Telegraph Amalgamation.

Great dissatisfaction, even alarm and regret, is expressed by business men in the Upper Provinces at the proposed amalgamation of the Montreal and Dominion telegraph companies with the Western Union of the United States. Business men fear that if it takes place, the Yankee monopolists will treat them as they do the business men of the States—charge exorbitant rates for telegraphy. At a late meeting of the Board of Trade of Montreal, a resolution was passed calling on the Dominion Government to prevent the amalgamation. The Government, however, are not likely to do anything of the kind, as they seem to be satisfied that the amalgamated companies will not charge more than twenty-five cents a message, which is deemed a fair and reasonable rate. The Western Union Co., anxious for amalgamation, are too busy to charge exorbitant rates as a first; but what will hinder them when the amalgamation takes place, and they have absorbed and can control the whole telegraph business of the continent from charging what price they please for messages?

Another Comet.

Astronomers are awaking the sky with their telescopes, have discovered bright nebulous matter moving very slowly, whether from or towards the earth, they cannot determine, which they pronounce to be another comet, the expected comet of 1812, one, thinks, A. M. Schaber, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, has put in a claim for the $200 Warner prize. That prize fund would need to be large, to reward all discoverers of nebulous matter moving invisible to the naked eye among the constellations!

Into its Wool.

Canadian wool, the Monetary Times says, which formerly found quick sales at prices (ranging over a term of years) from 30 to 40 cents per lb., has, during the three years, found but a dull market at about 25 cents, or less. The average farmer who cannot understand why this should be, resolves to hold his wool until the price advances, consequently he cannot pay all his debts, and thereby puts a drag upon trade. The complete answer to the question "why has the price of Canadian wool fallen?" is that—

"Fashions have changed, soft wool-goods are 'in'—worsted are 'out.' Let it be borne in mind that our Canada combing wools are suitable for worsted goods only, and the whole question becomes simple. Our farmers have but two markets for their wool—England and the United States. To-day England has a surplus of last year's wool, there is in Canada at this moment last year's domestic wool, owned by American mills, not yet consumed. One of the largest American mills sold its make of worsted at a great loss (alpacas at 8c, that cost 12c) and it is now running on fine wools—a fair indication of the state of trade there. While in England, three-quarters of the combing wools are of the quality of the combing wools of Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worsted mills in Canada. There is prospect of one or perhaps two being built in Bradford, where a great enough machinery apparently to supply the world with worsteds, are idle. With the surplus of combing wools elsewhere, we need not trouble ourselves other than to bear in mind that there is a surplus. The question for us is how to remedy matters at home. There are no worst