The following notice was posted Wednesday morning on Harvard university bulletin boards: "Whereas, the committee on athletics has advised the faculty may the game of football has been much improved during the past season. "Voted, on recommendation of the committee, that the faculty's prohibition of intercollegiate games of football be now withdrawn." It is just a year since this prohibition was passed, and it has caused mere discussion than any other faculty measure of the year. Class games were allowed, but nene with other colleges.

The American football union was organized in New York on Wednesday afternoon. Only clubs playing under intercollegiate rates are eligible to membership. The clube represented at the organization meeting were the New Brighton and Staten Island of Staten Island, the Polytechnic, Brooklyn Hill and Crescent, of Brooklyn; and the Cutlers and Victorias of New York. C. M. Smith of the Staten Island club, was elected temporary president of the union, and W. M. Denman, of the Victorias, was elected secretary. On Jan. 13 a meeting will be held, at which permanent officers will be elepted.

Two days before Clarence Whistler died in Australia he said to his landlord: "Tom, I have wrestled men, but this is the toughest content I have ever had. I am beaton." His illness began with inflammation of the lungs, which apread throughout his whole system. Although but a few years ago he was one of the most superb specimens of a man, his constitution was completely wrecked from drink. It is said by the Melbourne News that he drank thirty bettles of champagne in one day, taking a bath between every bottle. It is supposed that these baths brought on the trouble with his lungs. A great arowd attended the funeral.
