NEW YORK METHODS.

Mr. William Loeb, Collector of the Port of New York, was discussing the wondrous speed and simplicity used in the transaction of American business.

"In a banker's office the other day," he said, "I saw a door open, a head stuck itself quickly into the opening, and a voice demanded:
"Quartermaster?"
"Yes," the bank president replied.
"Month?"
"Yes."
"Four half?"
"No, five."
"Right."
"The head withdrew, I exclaimed in wonderment:
"What kind of cipher is that you are talking?"
"No cipher at all," the president replied. "That was one of Chicago's leading financiers, and I have just arranged to lend him twenty-five thousand dollars for a month at five per cent."

QUITE DIFFERENT.

In Dublin a car driver was caught by a zealous policeman in the act of driving furiously. The policeman stopped him and said: "Ye must give me yer name." "But I won't give ye me name," said the driver.
"Ye'll get yerself into trouble," said the policeman, "if ye don't give me yer name." "I won't give ye me name," said the driver. "Phat is yer name, now?" asked the angry policeman. "Ye'd better find out," said the driver. "Sure, and I will," said the policeman. He went around to the side of the car where the name ought to have been pointed, but the letters had been rubbed off. "Aha!" said the policeman, "now ye'll get yerself into worse disgrace than ever. Yer name appears to be obliterated." "Ye're wrong!" roared the driver. "Tis O'Brien."

DREW'S BARBAROUS TALE.

John Draw has always been noted for his clever retorts, says the Chicago "Inter-Ocean." His latest, which is credited with having occurred in a Broadway barter shop, somewhat dumfounded the tonsorial artist.

Mr. Draw has very fine and silky brown hair. It looks a little thin when it is uncombed, but properly arranged it shows itself to be very thick and comely.

As the barber laid his moist, cool palm on the actor's skull, he said:
"You are somewhat bald, sir. Have you tried our special tonic?"
"Yes," returned Mr. Draw. "But that wasn't what made my hair fall out."

THE DISCREET HUSBAND.

Smith and Jones were discussing the question of who should be the head of the house—the man or the woman. "I am the head of my establishment," said Jones, "I am the breadwinner. Why shouldn't I be?"
"Well," replied Smith, "before my wife and I were married we agreed that I should make the rulings in all major things, my wife in all the minor." "How has it worked?" queried Jones. Smith smiled. "So far," he replied, "no major matters have come up."

YOU CAN MAKE MONEY IN Carmangay
"The Star of Alberta"

PAST The splendidly strategic site of Carmangay was discovered by a far-seeing, shrewd railway engineer attracted to the district by the lure of the finest wheat in the Canadian West. He mapped out lands where the wide canyons of the Little Bow River narrows to a point. Here must all railways cross. The C. P. R. came and the shipping center created went ahead by leaps and bounds.

PRESENT Carmangay to-day is a thriving incorporated town, with not less than 53 business places. Her up-to-date electric and natural water supply systems are owned and operated by the people. Carmangay boasts an eight-roomed schoolhouse, two banks and four big elevators, shipping over a million bushels in 1911 and 1 1/2 millions in 1912. Carmangay has coal mines operating, and the entire district is underlaid with coal of finest Galt quality.

FUTURE Carmangay grows as Alberta grows. That means a wonderful future. Four new railroads are heading for Carmangay. Four new elevators are trying to cope with the tremendous wheat yields of the district. The mines are opening up splendid prospects. Carmangay is being rapidly developed into one of the greatest towns in the Canadian West. YOU can just as confidently invest in Carmangay as her own people do, who are building in brick and stone for a tremendous future. Carmangay has her own supply of finest brick clay and stone right at her doors, and will soon supply her sister cities in Alberta.

CITY LIFE.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, apropos of pure Christmas foods, said the other day in Chicago:

"I know a woman, fresh from the country, who complained to her cook during the holidays:

"Our cider is watery; the turkey has no flavor. I can't find any meat in the mince-meat, and back home they'd hardly give to the pigs such a mass of adulteration as that timed plum pudding we had for yesterday's dinner."

The cook smiled tolerantly.

"You'll get over them rural notions after a while," she said.

The Nova Scotia "Lumber King" says:

"I consider MINARD'S LINIMENT the BEST liniment in use.

I got my foot badly jammed lately. I bathed it well with MIN-ARD'S LINIMENT and it was as well as ever next day.

Yours very truly,
T. G. McMULLEN.

Canon Stuart, who recently visited Canada, said he was almost inclined to think the name of the Church of England was unfortunate and ought to be the Church of Canada.

"There's immense loyalty to the King, but there's more loyalty to Canada. Every little city thinks it is going to become the city of the universe."

Do you know that more real danger lurks in a common cold than in any other of the minor ailments?
The safe way is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, a thoroughly sible. This remedy is for sale by all

TRUE AND BRAVE WOMEN.

To be able to look cheerfully and hopefully through clouds of poverty and distress is an accomplishment bestowed by nature upon every true and brave woman; and, no matter how poor or humble her home may be, the magic power of smiles can brighten its shadows and lighten its cares.

Upon the troubled mind of a feeling husband a wife's smile falls like a sunbeam on a flower. And how much more beautiful it makes the face that wears it than a frown!

When a wife and mother, forgetting sorrows and hardships, smiles away her tears, there is a loveliness in the act that speaks to a man's heart more eloquently than words.

Houseless Town.

Southern Tunis boasts of a houseless town having a population of 5,000 people. They are troglodytes, whose fathers before them lived in similar caves.

Dialects.

Of the 3,424 known dialects in the world over one-fourth are Asiatic.

Washington's Hand.

George Washington's hand was described as that of a giant. On the last occasion of General Lafayette's visit to this country he remarked to Mr.
Custis when referring to a former visit:
"You were holding to a single finger of the good general's remarkable hand—the greatest feat you could perform at that time."

A Foe to Books.

The most ancient destroyer of books known was the Babylonian king, Nabonassar, who in the third century B. C. destroyed all the records of the reigns and rulers precedent to himself.

Complexion Masks.

Ladies of quality originally wore masks either to protect their complexions from the burning sun or out of modesty to prevent them from being recognized while out of doors. Poppaea, the wife of Nero, was said to have been the inventor of the mask, but the common use of it in public was not observed till the end of the sixteenth century.

$15,000 FUR COATS.

Black And Silver Fox Bring Amazing Prices.

London, Jan. 25.—According to London furriers the most expensive furs now on the market are pelts of black and silver foxes from Prince Edward Island. These are so costly that they can only be obtained by private sale.

A single pelt of the black fox brings $75 to $1,750, and for a woman's coat at least four pelts are necessary. At a public sale at the beginning of the winter one pelt brought $1,550.

Harrison Watson, the official agent for Prince Edward Island, states that he himself was skeptical when he heard of the fabulous prices commanded by fox pelts in the open market, but he was assured by the Minister of Agriculture that the figures were correct.

"Six pairs of breeding foxes," said Mr. Watson, "have been sold for £20,000 ($100,000) to a Russian syndicate, which intends to compete with the Canadians. The supply of furs for the next five years will be small because the foxes are to be kept for breeding purposes."

Inquiries among the furriers of the west end show that recent purchasers of fur coats, ranging from $5,000 to $15,000 included five members of Parliament, eight peers, eleven bankers and three actresses.

THE OLD OFFENDER.

"If New Year's resolutions only lasted, what a fine world it would be."

Judge Ben B. Lindsey was talking to a Brooklyn reporter about young offenders. He continued:
"An old offender took the pledge before me one New Year's Day in Denver.

"How long are you going to take this pledge for?" I asked.

"For life, of course; I always take it for life," the old offender answered haughtily."

THINK OF SOMETHING ELSE.

A little girl and her mother were visiting at a friend's home, and the mother, a Christian woman, whose path had been shadowed by many minor sorrows, was constantly referring to her troubles and picturing to herself the afflictions that she was sure the future had in store for her.

The little child, says a writer in "Zion Herald," at last grew weary of the constant complaining, and said to her mother, "Think of something else, mamma, and don't worry." Like a flash there came to that mother a picture of herself and a message half reproof and half cheer. She had suffered, but brooding over her past misery was utterly useless. The future might have sorrow for her, but there was no reason why she should bear it twice.

The mother is living today, but she has not forgotten the child's message of long ago. It may be there are many mothers or fathers who are worrying over past and future.
Their worry wears and weakens them.
It burdens other lives, and clouds even the skies of childhood. Surely the children's burdens will come soon enough, prove heavy enough, without the weight of our sorrow, weak shoulders. It is true in this connection, "One sinner destroyeth much good." A worrying mother makes a wearisome home. Work is a good antidote to worry. Try it, and take the child's quaint saying as a word of helpfulness—"Think of something else, and don't worry."

Bridgetown Might Have It.

Nova Scotia wants a jam factory.
The loss in plums alone this year in Nova Scotia was very large.

Mr. J. A. Hanson visited the greatest plum orchard in this Province, near Kentville, this last fall and he says it was distressing to see immense quantities of the finest plums that the owner never intended to pick. There was no profit in going to the expense of harvesting this fruit.

Every bushel of this fruit could be utilized, and more would be grown, if some capitalists would invest a little money in a jam factory.

The location for such a factory is right here in Central Truro—right in this Hub—right in the town that is the best distributing centre in this fruit-growing Province.

Come, get to work, Board of Trade and make a move to add another factory to Truro's many good and prosperous industries.—News.
