so will not have so many chicks to feed."

No "hot time lull" with the Review this year, no time for the editor to accept many invitations to "go a-fishin'." See how she hums and buzzes.

Mr. Percy Grier is now secretary of the Owen Sound Association, vice, Mr. John Ramsey.

Mr. Frank C. Hare, Whitby, on the strong recommendation of Mr. A. G. Gilbert, has been appointed by Prof. Robertson to take charge of the different fattening stations which are now being opened up in various parts of the country. It will be the work of the stations, not alone to see that the poultry are properly fattened, but are killed, dressed and packed in a manner to suit the great British market. Mr. Hare's work will be the overseeing of these stations and will be important, and no sinecure.

Mr. Sydney Smith, Taipoo Tea Estate, Bagdopa, P.O., Sihgari, Bengal, India, feels he cannot longer do without the Canadian Poultry Review.

A curious coincidence is that another Indian fancier, Mr. W. Clarke, of Dibrugarh, Upper Assam, India, gives us a few notes of the poultry interests in India, written about the same time as the first letter referred to. Mr. Clarke writes: "Having been advised to subscribe to your paper on poultry, as I keep a few hundreds of country fowls for pleasure as well as profit (they are the very hardiest and easiest to keep, though not to be compared to English and American breeds, excepting three breeds, at all), the best three breeds being the Indian Game, the Chittagong and the Ghagus fowls, and this country being so bad as regards climate for all living beings. This is an awful climate for epidemics of diseases, of men and all animals, epidemics in which we poor animals have no chance whatever, they are so sudden, mysterious and fatal."

While on a recent visit to the United States, Mr. W. M. Reynolds, of Trenton, visited some of the leading white Wyandotte breeders and purchased several fine specimens to add to his already large flock. He has a lot of young stock that is coming on well.

Mr. Newton Cosh was in Toronto for a few days last month, and we enjoyed an hour's chat with him. Mr. Cosh is giving up his business in Brantford and is moving to London, or rather to a location two and a half miles from the centre of the city. He will devote his entire time to the poultry business, keeping nothing but pure bred stock, and has already taken up buff Wyandottes, of which he has a nice lot of young stock from eggs purchased from leading breeders. He has bought a well located place of about fourteen acres on light, warm soil, with water running through it, a never-failing supply, and will erect buildings to suit his requirements. He will have something "hot" in Andalusians, his old favorites, for the fall shows.

Through Mr. Cosh, we regret to learn that skunks have been playing havoc with the youngsters on Dentonia Park Farm, where Mr. Webber presides. We know it is an ideal spot for our fragrant friend, but skunks and chickens do
