

Who Can Provide In-Market Assistance?

Trade Commissioner Service (within DFAIT)

The Canadian Trade Commissioners help new and experienced companies who have researched and selected their target markets. Residing in Canadian Embassies, High Commissions and Consulates abroad, they provide six core services to help Canadian companies sell products and services in international markets.

How?

Connect with Canada's Trade Commissioners abroad and use their six services to help you sell in foreign markets:

- market prospect - help in assessing your potential in your target market
- key contacts search - a list of qualified contacts in your target market
- local company information - information on local organizations or companies you have identified (credit checks are generally referred to specialized agencies)
- visit information - practical advice on planning a trip to the market
- face-to-face briefing - a personal meeting to discuss the most recent developments in the market and your future needs
- troubleshooting - call for help if you have an urgent business or market access problem (Trade Commissioners cannot enter into private disputes)
