THE BRITISH GUARD

Social Life in the Queen's Army-Offi cers Have a Good Time.

A Russian military paper not long ago informed its readers that the life of the officer in the British army was of the utmost ease and luxury; officer, even the humblest subaltern owned his yacht, his race-horses, and his box at the opera-when quartered that is to say, where such a luxury could be obtained (the yacht and the racing stud were everywhere)-while the more wealthy possessed their grouse-moors, their deer-forests, etc., the majority playing cards every night for enormous stakes, and spending large sums on presents to actresses and in other follies. Such a description is more picturesque than accurate, for although in many corps the cost of living is high, yet foolish extravagance is the exception rather than the rule. In her Majesty's Household Brigade, for instance, which is the corps d'elite, although the officers are nearly wealthy men, yet the style of living does not approach the magnificence with which it is credited in the imagination of the foreign journalist and by the facile pens of some of the prominent lady novelists. Life in the Guards is very pleasant, according to the British officer who writes of "Social Life in the British Army," in Harper's Magazine for September, if the member is blessed with good private means; his mornings, and occasionally the greater part of his day, are taken up with the drills and routine duties of his profession, which are no great tax on his intelligence or on his physique, and his spare time is devoted to those amusements common to young men of his class and education. There are usually great racegoers, and therefore habitues at the meets at Ascot, chester, and all the suburban meetings, his third daughter, the Countess Kuen-such as Sandown and Kempton, and in addition they have a meeting of their own, usually held at Hawthorn Hill, where, besides a number steeplechases and hurdle races, confined to members, there are always some races open to the whole of the army, and a race for the farmers. In summer there will be an exodus from the battalion of all the shooting men who can by hook or crook get leave for acotland or Yorkshire. In this matter of leave the guardsman is fortunate above his prethren in the cavalry; the subaltern of the Guards rarely finds any difficulty in getting away for four months out of the twelve, and his captain is even more fortunate, as he can generally count on six months' leave in the year. It naturally follows that the guards-men are great travelers; the "British officer" says, "that wherever the British pioneer has penetrated, some member of the brigade has ventured also at no considerable interval. The north pole itself appears to be the only of the brigade." Notwithstanding this picture of endaily life are simple enough, and the necessary expenses are not nearly so prohibitory as one might suppose. The guardsman receives the same pay as officers of corresponding rank in the, line, with the addition of £70 a guards' pay, so that it is possible for a coungster of an economical turn to live in the guards on an allowance of £300 a year in addition to his pay. But it is only fair to admit that it is not often not pay, and the farm is sold and does not fetch the amount of mortgage. Can C have any claim on B? Ans. Not upon the facts stated. HAVELOCK .- A rents a farm of B Can B seize or attach the crop or chattels of A three months before the rent is due, if there is, or is not, crop enough to pay the rent? Ans.—B cannot distrain or force payment in any way of the rent until after it is due and payable. ABUSIVE LANGUAGE.-What can be done to a young man and his sisters for using grossly dirty and offensive language to a woman? Ans.-If it took place on the public highway the offenders can be fined under the local bylaw, but if elsewhere the woman should treat it with the same contempt as she would the hissing of geese, which is perhaps the better course in any event.

BIGAMY-I was married in Ontario, and went with my husband to reside in Chicago, where we were divorced by the decree of the court, after a trial. I have returned to my home. Is the Chicago divorce legal in Ontario, can I marry again without being guilty of bigamy? Ans.—Upon the facts stated the divorce is a lawful one, which would be recognized in Canada, and you are at liberty to lawfully marry again; but you had better consult a lawyer upon full particul-

A. B.-Is there a law prohibiting the speeding of horses on the Sabbath Day on a race track? If so, what is it, and how is it to be enforced? Ans.-Section 3 of chapter 246, Revised Statutes of Ontario, "An act to prevent the profanation of the Lord's Day," provides that it is not lawful for any person to run races on foot or on horseback, or in carriages or in vehicles of any sort. Any person offending may be fined from $1 to $40 on summary conviction before a justice of the peace.

LIEN .- A has possession of goods, and B owes A money for work and goods, which he neglects to pay. Can A sell the goods if he gives notice to B that he will do so unless the sum owing him is paid within a certain time, say fourteen days? Ans.-No; his course is to get a judgment against B, and have the goods seized and sold under an execution by the bailiff. If he should sell them himself he is answerable to B for their full value, from which, however, he could deduct the debt due him.

MORTGAGOR-I mortgaged my property for eleven years, with the privilege of lifting after four years, by paying three months' additional interest. I have been informed that I can gin soil to some of the bolder spirits lift it after five years without paying any additional interest. Can I? Ans.-The statute provides that after joyment, the actual surroundings of his five years from date of mortgage, you may redeem, on payment of principal and subject to time of payment together with three months' further interest in lieu of notice. You must pay interest if you do not give notice.

AGREEMENT .- John bought 55 acres from his father, getting $1,000 on it as his share of the father's property, and a year after his father told him he would give him 25 acres free if he would let his brothers and sisters on the 55 acres, and he sends the children, but does not want to give any writings for the 25 acres. John has the agreement for the 55 acres, and is living on the place. Can John send the children off if his father does not give him writings for the 25 acres? Ans.-Yes; upon the facts stated the agreement is not binding upon either party at the present time, because it is not in

CORSET STEELS.

With dealers the buying of corsets is largely a matter of confidence, at least as far as the true quality of the boning is concerned.

In order that rusting may be guarded against each bone or steel should be covered before being placed and sewn in position in the corset. In ordinary corsets this is rarely done. The best corsets are fully boned, the cheaper ones are only partly so.

Ordinary corsets are almost invariably boned with cheap, poor quality steel and its cheapness manifests itself in brittleness. In first-class corsets specially to appred tigh quality spring steel is used; the better the stori the lighter the corset, for ir quality is strength. Never buy a light weight corset unless you buy the famous French, tailor-cut, handsewed corset, the
