

FARM CATTLE LIVE STOCK

FARMERS' BUSINESS METHODS.
"Businesslike methods in handling the affairs of the association and loyal support of the farmers in lean years as well as fat"—these two factors only are deemed necessary to successful farm co-operation by The Orange Judd Farmer, which has investigated and reported many undertakings in that line. It speaks especially of a Colorado fruit-growers' association with twelve years' satisfactory experience. The association not only markets the fruit at a cost of five per cent. of net returns, but also handles everything the growers need in the orchard, such as ladders, tools, fruit-wraps, spraying machines, bought in car lots and sold to members "cheaper than they can buy elsewhere."

There are many other instances of successful co-operation among fruit-growers—pointing the way to greater application of the co-operative method in marketing farm produce. "Hold-your-wheel" spasms, occurring sporadically in low-price years, are not likely to accomplish anything. Nor are denunciations of boards of trade such to the point. If the producer will not organize the market himself he must let somebody else do it for him. Most melancholy error of all is the program of assault and arson which is charged against those exceedingly dark tobacco-growers.

Belvoir sale of Shorthorns at Delaware, Minn. forgo.

Lots of corn is being planted this year.

"I can buy 300 tons of hay in a half-day's drive," says William Peak, livestockman of Pickering. Much old hay has been held past the discretion point.

Potato planting is the order now. Rows three feet apart, with one set in hills 12 inches apart, gave the best results at the O. A. C.

Crops throughout Ontario are looking extra fine. Meadow wheat and all spring grains are fairly leaping into life.

Spare the bumble bees, boys! Let them rest about the fields. They aid the red clover seed crop.

Rye is heading out. The lowest begins to loom up and everyone hopes for good crops this year. Good crops will turn many an idle factory wheel.

After all, it is wise to encourage industry that one failure of crops will bring to a standstill? Exotic industries must take such chances.

The farmers want more power on the farm. Everyone is talking about the elections now, but what about that cheap power for the farm?

The folly of holding on to hay when good prices are procurable has been well illustrated this year. Who ever saw it otherwise when a scarcity scare was on?

W. D. Gordon, writing from Manitoba to his Pickering friends, says that the weather there has been good for some time and prospects of crops are excellent. Potato, corn and root-planting is now in full swing.

W. C. Good of Brantford suggests that political meetings be closed with prayer. W. L. Smith of the Sun asks why not? Perhaps because elections are not won by prayers alone.

A sale of Hereford cattle takes place at Hagersville, Norfolk County, tomorrow. See James Main's advertisement in another column. There are some good bulls for sale there.

A great many beef rings will begin operation among the farmers next week. Consequently the suggestions of our correspondent may be in season. Any variations from this plan that would be of use will be gladly received.

HANNA AT BOWMANVILLE.

Defends His Position on the Three-Fifths Clause.

BOWMANVILLE, May 29.—(Special.)—Hon. W. J. Hanna spoke last night on an attentive but rather small audience than usual. He attended political meetings in this town, on the record of the Whitney Government.

The local option question is being made much of in West Durham, which is all under the local option except Bowmanville and Newcastle. He took full responsibility for introducing the 60 per cent. clause into the License Act and asserted that he was conscientious and decided in his opinion and position.
