A Piano Anyone Can Use. The player-piano increases daily in popularity. By using the perforated music rolls anyone can play any kind of music on it, and, in case a member of the family or visitor wishes to use the keyboard it can quickly be adjusted to this use. One of the only drawbacks to this class of pianos has been the bad effects of the action by changes in weather conditions. This defect has been overcome by Heintzman & Co., 115-117 King-street W, who have in the'r new instruments aluminum actions: on which the weather has no officet.
