

ONE MAN OF THE 26TH WOUNDED

Reports of heavy casualties in the 26th and the Ammunition Column persisted in the city yesterday without the slightest foundation. The official list contained no mention of either bodies. The only foundation for their being in a fight was the unofficial report of the wounding of one member of each of these units.

William D. Turnbull, aged 22, Petticoe, a member of the 26th, was wounded according to advice received by his wife, Mrs. Bessie Turnbull. Walter Peacock, of the Divisional Ammunition Column that left here under Lieut.-Col. W. H. Harrison, has also, according to a card written by himself, been wounded. The card was received by his mother who lives in Kennedy street. It is one of the service cards and all the lines except "I have been wounded" have been scratched out.

Many letters from members of the 26th and the Ammunition Column were received in the city yesterday and some of them told of the officers of the battalion having an exciting tour of the front line trenches, immediately on their arrival at the front. While the troops were billeted behind the lines, the officers made the tour and found the trenches dry and comfortable with every means of protection. To give them an idea of the surroundings they were taken out at night, and it was a moonlight night, too, in front of the wire entanglements before the lines and ventured as far as the listening posts within sixty yards of the German trenches. They were sighted and though bullets came their way they were not so close that all did not return in safety. The experience gave them an added sense of the responsibility of taking men under fire.

Mrs. J. L. McAvity, wife of the officer commanding the battalion, received a letter, dated September 26, from her husband saying that the 26th was in the trenches.

Signaller Swift, writing to a friend, tells of moving up from the coast and of a stiff march to which the 26th was equal as they were equal to anything. The field kitchens, he said, came in very handy as the men were able to get hot stew and tea immediately after the march. He told, too, of the friendliness of the French along the line of route and added that the men could buy almost anything in the way of eatables at any house on the way. The French peasant seemed to have the motto "Business as Usual," for many of them were busy ploughing and working well within the sound of the guns even the women seemed unafraid, so confident did they seem of the British defence.

Frank P. Curran of Paradise row has received from his son, Signaller George Curran a field post card saying that he has been wounded in France and is in hospital in Bedford, England. The last name has not yet appeared in the casualty list, though the card was written on September 24. The young soldier's condition was not stated, but his friends will hope that it is not serious. He is in the first contingent.

ORDNANCE PLANT FOR CANADA POSSIBILITY

Montreal, Oct. 8.—Announcement that Sir Frederick Donaldson, chief superintendent of ordnance at Woolwich arsenal, and Lionel Hitchins, of the Cammell Laird Company, were coming to Canada to assist in the work of further organizing munition and gun manufacturing plants in the dominion, was today made by A. E. Thomas, representative of David Lloyd George, British munitions minister, who has been touring the United States and Canada inspecting shell making factories.

Mr. Thomas was the guest of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and made this announcement in the course of a speech in which he dealt with the whole shell situation in Canada.

Mr. Thomas said that at first Canada was behind on orders given for shells, but had speeded up now. The shells being produced were of good quality. It had been suggested that an ordnance plant, under government control, should be constructed, and when Sir Frederick Donaldson and Mr. Hitchins arrived that matter could be gone into. Personally, smaller would be to see such a plant constructed.

He hoped the result of the visit of these gentlemen would be the placing by Great Britain of orders for big shells as well as small shells.
