GIRLS' CLUB CAMP

Through the kindness of J. A. Little, the members of the Girls' Club of the Playgrounds Association, enjoyed a very pleasant sail up the Kennebecasis on Saturday afternoon. Returning, the party landed at "Wo-be-lo-Camp," where supper was served on the beach. The evening was spent in playing games, and a stroll through the woods for fern roots and flowers.

The delightful woods and excellent facilities for boating and bathing make this camp an ideal place for a pleasant outing. A tent has been fitted up with sleeping accommodation for those who wish to remain over night, and the girls own a good-sized boat. There is no charge made for these privileges. Parties in charge of a chaperone leave for the camp every Saturday afternoon. The camp will be kept open until October 1. Any business or employed girl desiring further information can obtain it at the Girls' Club rooms, 92 Princess street, over every afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bullock, 187 Green street, have very generously given permission to the Girls' Club to use the spacious grounds at the rear of their residence for basket ball and physical culture. Owing to the unfavorable weather they have been unable to use these grounds on Tuesday, the regular gymnasium night. The girls are asked to take notice that the basket ball team will meet as usual at the club room on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The grounds will be used on the first fine evening this week, providing Tuesday is not fine enough for outdoor sports. All girls are cordially invited.

MATRIMONY MADE AN ALLY BY THE GERMAN RULERS

(Ignatius Phayre in Weekly Scotsman.)

There are courts in these tragic days, but only warring camps, with kings and princes roughing it in the field with the rest. And a glance at all this dashing royalty reveals many strange and dramatic situations. The Duchess of Albany, for instance, is one of ourselves, with a Civil List pension and a prominent place on relief societies, whilst her son, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg, is fighting fiercely against us as a staff officer of the Berlin Kriegsakademie! Bismarck was a great believer in matrimonial alliance as a source of German strength. It is notorious he could never get on with the Kaiser's English mother, who had no passion for Teutonicism, and was, therefore, in constant collision with his devotees. Today we see Teuton spouses set upon European thrones, all the way from Stockholm to Sofia, where Ferdinand the Coburgers hide ingloriously from the horrors of war. "What can you do?" asked his disgraced chief of staff, "with a man who shudders at the sound of guns and will never go near a hospital?" Pushing Marriage Policy

Now why do German Royalties pervade the European courts in this way? Firstly because there are so many of them; secondly, because of the pushful policy behind the marriages they make. Then the Greek Crown Prince—who is now perplexed King "Tino," bombarded with warning telegrams from Berlin, or Gräse Hauptquartier of the German army—was long ago marked out as a husband for the Kaiser's favorite sister, Sophia.

For several years young Constantine served as an officer in the Second Foot Guards of Berlin. Here the prince studied the strategy of great battles, and the "Schrecklichkeit" or terror-cult of Clausewitz, that apostle of ruthless war. King "Tino" today makes no secret of his lineage. "As a soldier," said he in one of his many interviews, "I say frankly that I view with alarm the prospect of attacking Germany. Not because I happen to be the Kaiser's brother-in-law, but simply because Germany has proven herself all-powerful."

I have hinted there are very many German Royalties. Do you realize that the aggressive empire contains four kingdoms, seven principalities, six grand duchies, and five duchies? The rulers of all these have large families. So the destiny of Teuton princelings seems to permeate foreign courts and form dynastic ties which it would be folly to ignore when reckoning the assets of Teutonicism, or Germanism, which we know to our cost is served with a patient devotion worthy of nobler aims.

We feel far-seeing vision and unvarying success these royalties have invaded Europe's thrones. Take Denmark. Here the male line died out over half a century ago, when Frederick VII. died, and the Great Powers proceeded to elect a new king. Of course the crown fell to Germany's nominee—Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg. And the present ruler of Denmark married Princess Alexandra of Mecklenburg.

Queen Victoria of Sweden was the Duke of Baden's eldest daughter. In a literal sense, this royal lady has been "in the wars." She was visiting her father in Karlsruhe when French aircrafts bombed the city disastrously, and wrecked part of the huge semi-circular Schloss, or castle, from whose spires plazas the streets of Baden's old capital radiate like the sticks of a fan. Now as to Holland, so dearly coveted by the Pan-American dreamers. The maiden Queen, Wilhelmina, needed a consort to share the cares of state, and possible partners were canvassed here and there. Once more the German won, the successful suitor being Prince Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. However, of this marriage perhaps the less said the better. No one pretends it has been a happy one, either from the Dutch people's standpoint or that of their queen—those kindnesses to her Belgian neighbors, by the way, will long be remembered, especially during the awful retreat from Antwerp.

Even the Belgium Royal Family is German on both sides, but there is one conspicuous "failure," one broken link in the chain of Deutschum, wrought so carefully and so long ago. King Albert's father was Philippe of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha; his mother, Princess Marie of the Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen. And the devoted Queen of the Belgians—that wandering Queen of the Flemish trenches, now housed in a lowly villa on the sands of the North Sea—was Elisabeth, daughter of the famous oculist, Duke Karl Theodore of Bavaria.

She and her mother and sister helped the royal surgeon in his operations, and Princess Elisabeth it was who turned into a hospital for the suffering poor her father's stately castle on the lovely Tegersee.

Little Luxembourg's "strategic" throne was duly marked by the German Emperor since war broke out. He put forward Prince Josephin, his own unmarried son, as a suitor for the hand of the reigning Grand Duchess, Marie Adelaide. But that spirited young lady scouted the idea, even with imposing evidence of German power around her picturesque palace. For Prussia is just now in possession of that tiny state. The Luxemburgers ignore the fat Landstrum who guard the station and streets of their capital. They speak French, these people, and defy the Kaiser himself and all his matrimonial scheming.

The Roumanian Queen was formerly Marie of Saxe-Coburg, and to Tsar Ferdinand was given Princess Eleonore of Kottbus-Reuss. But the new and short-lived Kingdom of Albania was surely the most glaring case of German "planting." Here the Kaiser put forward as candidate William of Wied—from which the name of the German power around her picturesque palace. For Prussia is just now in possession of that tiny state. The Luxemburgers ignore the fat Landstrum who guard the station and streets of their capital. They speak French, these people, and defy the Kaiser himself and all his matrimonial scheming.

Prince Wilhelm's was a short reign, however, Albania was always a weak Moslem and Christian tribes, who love war before any peace. Soon the palace windows of Durazzo one May morning with his wife and children, and stayed at a shabby Dalmatian hotel whilst his "palace" was being cleared of rubbish and rats!

Soon the palace windows of Durazzo one May morning with his wife and children, and stayed at a shabby Dalmatian hotel whilst his "palace" was being cleared of rubbish and rats!

I need hardly refer again to Greece nor to the exchange of vaulting telegrams between "Willy" and his masterful sister, the Queen of the Hellenes. Even Queen Amelie of Portugal is from the mighty Russia the Kaiser's cousin, a same branch.

The Camp Shave

MENNEN'S is especially advantageous when shaving under difficulties. In camp or while travelling you may not always be near hot water—or soft water. But Mennen's is independent of water conditions—hot or cold—hard or soft water—Instantly produces a rich abundant lather that softens the beard, and makes even a dull razor rejoice.

There's no free caustic in Mennen's and there's no "rubbing" required. Mennen saves you time and trouble, and turns the nuisance of shaving into the most pleasant pleasure to a pleasure that shaving can ever hope to be.

Be sure your kit contains Mennen's.

MENNEN'S SHAVING CREAM

Send no etc. for medium sized trial tube and try can of Mennen's "Facsimile" for 10c. Dept. 12A. H.F. Rhinck & Co. Ltd. Sole Agents. 25 MacKay Street, Toronto, Ont.

FINANCIAL

Princess of Hesse-Darmstadt, shares the Kaiser's throne. But German influence in the opulent Russian Court is now known for a crafty and mischievous force. That it had gained power—quite incredible power—Russia was to learn to her cost when war broke out.

There was no resisting the German "mole," whose world-wide burrowing extended literally from China to Peru. Of course, the Czars themselves are rarely "political creatures" in the Aristotelian sense, and readily adopt the country of their consorts, as the much-loved Belgian Queen has done. "I pretend myself," says the French proverb, "proud as a patrician."

But beyond all doubt Germany aimed at pacific penetration by means of these European alliances, followed up by steady intrigue of an unbrotherly kind. For which reason Sweden, say it anything but pro-Ally. Deluded Bulgaria was dragged into war by her pinceps, Coburg-Gotha, who has immense properties both in Austria and Germany. Ferdinand has a superstitious reverence for the Kaiser, and views with uneasy eyes his namesake of Roumania—who, by the way, was a Hohenzollern prince. And the Kaiser's daughter of Portugal is from the mighty Russia the Kaiser's cousin, a same branch.

FREDERICTON PERSONALS

(Gleaner Saturday)

F. P. Colter of the Customs House, who has been in ill health the last two weeks, is leaving St. John today for Montreal, where he will consult a specialist. He is accompanied by W. T. H. Fane.

Miss Nellie Lipsett, who has been visiting her home at Glenora, returned to Boston this morning.

Mrs. Wm. Fleming and daughter, Miss Grace Fleming, B.A., of St. John, are spending a week here, guests at Robt. Colwell's.

Mrs. Frank Baird and children, of Woodstock, are here visiting Mrs. Baird's old home for a week en route to their summer home at Chipman.

Miss Mary Thompson of Ottawa is here visiting Mrs. George Allen.

Mrs. J. Z. Currie, of Cambridge, Mass., is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Spurdon.

Miss Jennie Hodge and Miss Lucille Hawkins have gone to Nova Scotia. Miss Hodge will visit her sister, Mrs. Duncan Davidson in Weymouth.

The Misses Helen and Winifred Everett will leave this evening for St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, where they will visit their brother, Charles S., and Mrs. Everett.

Adam Musial of Stevens Point, Wis., is credited with having made the best catch of the fishing season in his neighborhood. The fish was only a big nicker, but in its stomach was a perfectly good diamond ring.

If you're going to sail the ocean blue, oh shun the cheap serge. Here's the good old reliable fabric, true blue at $20, $22.50 and $25 per suit, that will stand the beating of the sun without fading, and the soaking of the waves without shrinking.

For shore, here's the shore thing in a gray suit at $20.

Barracough, assisted by Rev. Captain G. M. Campbell and Rev. Mr. Ticks, the president of the N. B. Methodist Conference. Rev. Mr. Barracough paid tribute to the noble Christian life of Mrs. Shenton. The many floral tributes from relatives and friends in Sackville and this city, bore testimony to the love they bore her. Interment was made in Fernhill. The pall-bearers were Senator Daniel, Dr. A. P. Barnhill, R. D. Smith, A. B. Gilmour, Alfred Edmonds, and Captain Potter.

NATIONALISTS APPROVE OF REDMOND'S STAND ON HOME RULE BILL

London, July 23, 3.30 p.m.—A meeting of the Nationalist members of the house of commons in London today approved the demand of John Redmond that the Irish home rule bill be introduced without delay and that it should not go in any respect beyond the terms of its settlement agreed upon. The meeting adjourned until Monday, by which time it is expected Mr. Redmond will have been advised of the course adopted by the cabinet at its session today.

SOME STRAIGHT TALK FOR PREMIER CLARKE

(Chatham World)

Premier Clarke is talking of a comprehensive scheme for the improvement of the highways. We have heard it all before from Mr. Fleming. He made great plans and promises and did nothing. The present proposals, which include the expenditure of some money this season on the sections of the road that need it most, are suggestive of a provincial election. If the government cannot get a seat for the Minister of Public Works, or get another man for the office who can get a seat, it must necessarily resign or dissolve the house. Resignation would save it from the defeat that stares it in the face. The proposed road expenditure will not save it.

King George's Navy Plug Chewing Tobacco

Is Absolutely Good

It is made from leaf tobacco that has enough elasticity against the teeth to keep it together, instead of granulating in the mouth as most plug tobaccos do.

It has a delicious non-irritating, palate-tickling sweet taste—because medical authorities agree that the ordinary "strong", unsweetened plugs are injurious.

It is not affected by artificial heat or old age—does not get hard—because it is protected by a highly glossed tobacco leaf envelope.
