AIRPLANES COLLIDE

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4—Two army aviators, Roque Campos and Rodolfo Briton were killed yesterday, when their airplanes collided at an estimated altitude of 5,000 feet during army aerial manoeuvres at the aviation field near Mexico City. The planes dropped with such force as to drive the engines about three feet into the ground. The aviators were in their early twenties.

TWO ARE DROWNED

ROME, Aug. 4—Two officers on the dirigible N-2 were drowned yesterday when they fell into the sea as the airship was forced to come down upon the water.

The dirigible started from Spezia to meet at sea the steamer Conte Biancamano, on which General Umberto Nobile, of the Amundsen-Ellsworth North Pole expedition, was returning to Naples. The dirigible was towed ashore by warships in a damaged condition.

SAFE WITH $20,000 WITHSTANDS THUGS

Yeggs Work Six Hours But Fail to Open Vault of N. Y. Firm

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—Several inches of steel safe wall stood between a band of safe crackers and $20,000, withstood their violent attacks, and frustrated their plans to rob the offices of the Yawman & Erbe Company, manufacturers of office furniture, at 368 Broadway.

The wreckage caused by the activities of the band was found early in the morning by employes of the company reporting for work.

The men evidently gained entrance to the offices from fire escapes. They roamed through the five-story building, disturbing papers and files on all floors, and from the shipping room took an assortment of sledges and crow bars to the offices in which there are two safes.

The combination was knocked from the first safe and the outside badly damaged, but the door remained fast. The attack on the second safe was more violent. It too suffered the loss of the combination knob, several of the bolts were removed, and one of the door bolts cut through. Both safes withstood the attack, however, and were not opened.

Realizing that their efforts were futile the yeggs "rubbed down" both safes with a pair of gloves to destroy finger prints, and left without having attracted attention. Police estimate that the work required at least six hours.

MONEY BILL PASSED BY FRENCH SENATE

Action Assures Triumph of Poincare's Financial Measures

British United Press.

PARIS, Aug 3—Final triumph for the financial projects of Premier Poincare has been assured by the Senate's vote of 250 to 13 in favor of the measure.

The financial bill, which carries with it a huge burden of taxation for France, now goes to the President for his approval, which is practically assured, and it will then become law.

Passage of the projects did not come without some criticism in the Upper House of the French parliament. Former Premier Francois Marsal made the chief objection but nothing like a serious attack was heard. Poincare's policy regarding debt payments was praised.

CONSIDER 100 ROOM WING FOR BEATTY HOTEL

Saint John's New Hostelry May Enlarge Sooner Than Expected

TOURIST TRAFFIC GROWS IN VOLUME

More Conventions Coming to This City Is the Expectation

If the patronage which the Admiral Beatty Hotel has received since it was opened, thirteen months ago, continues it may mean the erection of an additional wing of 100 rooms in the near future, it was said last evening by an official of the company. Plans were made for this addition at the time of construction, but it was not then expected it would be built for some years.

Last night the Admiral Beatty was crowded. Nearly 450 guests were registered. All available space was taken up, extra bedding and supplies were in service in sample rooms, corridors and out-of-the-way places. Scores of visitors were cared for in private homes. At this particular hour still another train was to bring its quota. The management stated it was an extraordinary situation but there were unmistakable signs that the tide of tourist traffic was setting in very strongly towards the Maritimes, due in no small measure to publicity given through the United Hotels' Company's inter-house literature and co-operative bookings.

CONVENTION QUARTERS

Since early in the summer, conventions, more numerous than ever before in the history of Saint John, have made the Admiral Beatty Hotel their headquarters, notably the Rotarians and national gathering of the Daughters of the Empire. Maritime conventions were also held in this city and today the Royal Arcanum is holding its tri-province annual here. The coming of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Masaschusetts in October and the Canadian Bar Association will be conventions that will tax and perhaps overtax the capacity of the new hotel.

TO MAKE WING NECESSARY

"It is these conventions," the hotel company officer stated, "that will make the building of a wing a definite necessity before long. We have had some pretty large gatherings already but there are indications that Saint John and this part of Canada hold so much merit as an alluring novelty to Americans and Upper Canadians—judging from the gossip of those who have already been here—that before long a flood of conventions will be coming this way, bigger gatherings than any at present contemplated. Officers of business, fraternal and social bodies all over the continent are continually casting about for new and attractive places to hold their get-togethers and Saint John and the Maritimes are at present commanding a lot of attention."

The hotel company official stated that the same spirit of conviction that impelled the Admiral Beatty Hotel Company to proceed with the erection of the hostelry is impressing the members with the approaching need of another hundred rooms at least. It was a matter of gratification to local investors who organized the hotel company and proceeded with its erection to know that in a year's time there were prospects of making additions and hitching up the extra boilers and piping services already installed for such an eventuality.

JEALOUS HUSBAND TORTURES FRIEND

Used Whip and Fire as Punishment For Suspected Intimacies

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 4—Walter H. Fletcher has confessed to the police that he tortured his lifelong friend, Edward Horrigan, a city fireman, with fire and a blacksnake whip for more than five hours while the victim was handcuffed to a chair and Roy Kleinsmith, an 18-year-old boy, stood over him with a rifle pointed at his breast.

"I did it," said Fletcher, "to teach men not to play with other men's wives."

Horrigan, recovering from the ordeal, in which he was asked again and again to admit intimacies with Mrs. Fletcher, denied that he had ever been overly attentive to his friend's wife. He repudiated the resignation as a fireman he was forced to sign by Fletcher. He said that after every word he wrote Fletcher applied a lighted match to his body until it burned out.

Summoned by a mysterious telephone call to a house on West Seventh street, policemen found Horrigan handcuffed and bound to a chair and nearly unconscious from torture. Standing guard over him was Kleinsmith, armed with a rifle, and also in the room, preparing, the policemen said, to resume his torment, was Fletcher, apparently insane with rage. Horrigan had been beaten, burned with matches and lashed with a whip.

The police arrested the torturers and released the victim. Later Fletcher, Horrigan, Kleinsmith and Mrs. Fletcher were questioned at Police Headquarters. Denying that he had shown any improper attention to Mrs. Fletcher, he said she lived next door to him and he had frequently ridden downtown on the same street car with her. This, with casual conversations, was the extent of his association with her, he asserted.
