

SHOWER OF BREAKFASTS

Dishes and All Down a New York Hotel Airshaft -- English Visitor a Candidate for Bellevue.

New York, April 19.—Alburt H. Thomas was removed from his room in the Hotel Manhattan to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital last night after he had kept the management and half the bellhops in the hotel on tenterhooks for a day. At the hospital he said that he was a poet, that he had only been in the country three weeks and that he planned to go back to Paris in two days.

Dressed in clothes of London tailoring, Thomas appeared at the desk of the Hotel Manhattan at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning, without baggage. He paid for a room on the twelfth floor and went thither immediately. Early yesterday morning a telephone call came from Thomas's room. He wanted cigarettes in a hurry. Hardly had the bellboy taken the cigarettes to his room, when he telephoned downstairs for more, and these he wanted in a hurry. Another bellboy made a speed record from the lobby to the twelfth floor.

That messenger was still in transit when a phone call came for telegraph blanks. The blanks went up to the Englishman's room immediately. Then he ordered two breakfasts served in his room. He gave each order by telephone, and the second order came before the first had been filled and served. When the two waiters, each with a tray, went to Thomas's door the guest opened it cautiously and surveyed them for a long time before admitting them. They saw that he had the door barricaded with chairs and a table on the inside.

Hardly had the waiters turned their backs when a tremendous jangle of dishes sounded from the bottom of the shaft upon which one of the windows of the Englishman's room opened. Manager Shanks had a white-faced waiter run to him to tell him that two breakfasts lay at the bottom of the shaft, which had come down 12 stories, were twisted and battered, and while scrambled eggs and coffee smeared the cement bottom of the shaft.

After that the hotel manager went up to interview the eccentric guest, but he was not admitted. From a room on the opposite side of the shaft the manager could see Thomas pacing back and forth across the carpet gesticulating and smoking. Shanks brought Dr. Synnott, the hotel physician to take a look. The doctor could not persuade Thomas to open the door of his room, so after a long wait a policeman came from Flower Hospital.

Dr. Hanton, the ambulance surgeon, succeeded in getting into Thomas's room. He told the man that he would have to go to the psychopathic ward for observation and when Thomas demurred Dr. Hanton said it was a case of going quietly or in a straight jacket. Then Thomas went.

At the hospital he said that he had been born in Paris, though his father was English, and that Paris was his home. He gave as the name of a friend in New York that of Miss Hennessey, whose address he said was 424 Fifth avenue. Dr. Fleming, who was in charge of the psychopathic ward last night said that he believed Thomas was suffering from cocaine.

HEIR TO AN ESTATE
HE QUILTS THE SERVICE
Sergt. Aldred, of the R. C. R.,
Has Bought His Discharge
and Will Go Into Business--
Has Served 12 Years.

Fredrickton, N. B., April 19.—Quarter-master Sgt. H. A. Aldred, R. C. R., who has been in charge of the orderly room at No. 3 military depot, has been granted his discharge by purchase from the Royal Canadian Regiment.

The discharge will go into effect immediately upon the arrival of Sgt. Thompson, who is being transferred here from the headquarters at Halifax to take up the duties of orderly room clerk. Quarter-master Sgt. Aldred has been stationed here since the removal of the R. C. R. from St. John's, P. Q., and has served twelve years all but seven months in the regiment.

He comes from a well known English family and some time ago his father died leaving a large estate valued at upwards of a quarter of a million dollars. Quarter-master Aldred was one of three or four heirs and last year made the trip to England on business in connection with the estate. Business matters now necessitate his making another trip to England and he will likely remain there for some time before returning to Canada when he will go into business in the west.

ZULU PRINCE DEAD IN CHICAGO HOSPITAL

Chicago, April 19.—Chas. Stevens, former prince of a tribe of Zulu warriors living along the Zambezi River, East Africa, is dead at the county hospital. In his last moments he pictured his early boyhood. He was 65 years old. His real name probably never will be known. He was brought to the United States over 35 years ago by Charles Stevens, of Joliet, an explorer. While travelling along the Zambezi river, Mr. Stevens' boat overturned. He was rescued by a powerful Zulu warrior, Mr. Stevens brought his rescuer to the United States with him. Later they separated, and the Zulu adopted the name of Stevens.

Novelty In Trimming

Ribbon, which takes such a prominent place in millinery this season, is the most practical of trimmings. When used in a large flat loose bow, with compact wreaths of small flowers, it is most charming in effect.

The Great Record of a Just Administration

Provincial Government's Work in Westmorland County -- Further Details of Mr. F. B. Black's Great Address Before Moncton Conservative Club--Honest Collection of Revenue.

(Moncton Times, April 19.)
Members of the Moncton Conservative Club were given a treat last evening in the address of Mr. F. B. Black of Sackville. He dealt largely with provincial affairs and after hearing him all were more firmly convinced than ever that Mr. Hazen and his associates are showing themselves worthy of the confidence reposed in them at the last general election.

The president of the club, Dr. O. B. Price, occupied the chair, and after routine, which included the reception of several new members, Mr. Black was called upon. He congratulated the club on the comfortable, commodious and well-equipped quarters occupied. He was astonished to see such rooms established and they were a credit to the club and the city. He had been present at the recent meeting of the county conservatives and was delighted with the enthusiasm shown. He was much surprised, however, on picking up an evening sheet published in Moncton to learn that there had all been a fight on the subject of the meeting among lawyers that when you had no case it was good policy to abuse the plaintiff's attorney. He was satisfied that the discord in the Liberal ranks had given rise to the Trans-Canada's disordered state of mind.

Provincial Affairs.
Mr. Black said he would like to deal more particularly with provincial affairs. It was unnecessary that he should give a full resume of what the Hazen Government had done and he would like to refer to a few matters.

They had promised an audit and had introduced and passed a measure that had safeguarded the interests of the public as they had never been safeguarded. They had promised cheaper school books and we had school books at 40 to 50 per cent. below the former price.

In the last election campaign the opposition had referred to the construction of the bridges but they had understated rather than overstated their condition. In fact conditions were even worse than the people imagined. The Hazen Government came into power late in March, 1908, and up to October 31st of that year they had wholly neglected or carelessly neglected the bridges of 20 foot span or over in Westmorland county alone at a cost of $5800. In 1909 to October 31st, they had built or repaired 84 great bridges at a cost of $14,586 and to 31st December, 1909, at a cost of $3700. Of these 35 were entirely new structures. Thus in less than two years the Hazen Government had spent on great bridges in Westmorland county alone $26,000.

The custom of the former government had been to charge many of those bridges to capital account, but the present government, with one exception, where the specifications had been drawn up by the contract let by the late government had paid for all this work out of current revenue account.

This was due either to the getting of more revenue or the better application of it, probably to both. The Hazen government had secured in its first year $116,000 more revenue than its predecessors and in its second year $173,000 more, a betterment in two years of $289,000, though there had been no change in the business or other conditions. This larger revenue was simply due to a more honest collection of the revenue.

In addition to the above 210 small bridges, under 20 foot span had been built by the road commissioners, not including culverts and sluices. So that 329 bridges of different sizes had been built and repaired in this county alone since the Hazen government came into power. If any person had said two and a half years ago that this number of bridges in Westmorland County

CHIMPANZEE FAD

New Building of the International Bureau at Washington Provides for That Possibility.

Washington, April 19.—Canada may join the Pan-American Union. That this possibility is taking a definite form is shown in the magnificent new building of the International Bureau of the American Republics, where, at least, provision has been amply made for her membership.

There the Canadian escutcheon is side by side with those of the other twenty-one American countries, a pedestal awaits the bust of an eminent Canadian and one of the bronze friezes depicting the history of American nations show Champlain negotiating with the Indians.

These facts were impressed upon a reporter who visited the building, which will be formally dedicated by President Taft and Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the donor, on April 26. When asked for an explanation of these decorative features, Mr. John Barrett, director of the bureau, said at first that he had hoped that nothing would be made public regarding these matters until the day of the dedication, but when pressed for a statement of some kind said:

"That Canada not only with the hearty consent of the twenty-one American republics, but by her own wish and by the ready acquiescence of her mother country, Great Britain, may presently join the Pan-American union and become one of the constituent members of the International Bureau of American Republics, would seem a possibility that is not only probable and even greatly to be desired."

"Such action would be based on the idea that Canada is a government directly interested in the great material and commercial work of the bureau, and would not concern the fact that she is not a republic, or a colony of Great Britain."

Such membership would in all probability include representation at the Pan-American conference, such as is to be held at Buenos Ayres this summer. There important questions are considered that affect Canada as well as the United States and other American nations. Canada would also find membership a valuable addition to her already superb service of commercial agents.

In the interior of the new building is a typical Spanish-American patio covered with a movable glass roof, filled with the rarest tropical plants and having in its centre a striking marble fountain of art and line ornamentation, while high and conspicuous upon its walls are the escutcheons of Canada and the twenty-one American republics.

On the second floor is a grand foyer opening into a large assembly room or "Hall of the Republics." In this foyer are being placed on Langdon marble pedestals the busts of the noted statesmen and heroes of the Americas.

HAILS KITCHENER AS GREATEST SOLDIER
Joseph H. Choate's Tribute to British Field Marshal at Pilgrims' Dinner--Lord Kitchener's Speech.

New York, April 19.—The greatest living soldier in the world, was the tribute, said by Joseph H. Choate to Lord Kitchener, Field Marshal of Great Britain, at the dinner given in honor by the Pilgrims at the Waldorf Astoria. More than 450 distinguished guests honored the British visitor. Lord Kitchener, in his reply, praised the United States Military Academy at West Point and referred to the recent globe-circling voyage of the Atlantic squadron as a great promoting event.

Two members of President Taft's cabinet, who attended, voiced the President's regret at being unable to meet the distinguished visitor.

Lord Kitchener said in part: "I have recently been in Australia and naturally heard there a great deal about the visit of the American fleet. What seems to have struck everyone in the Commonwealth was not only the great courtesy and frank goodwill of the admirals and officers, but also the good behavior and smartness and preparedness for war of the men and ships of the fleet."

A few months ago I recommended that the Australian and New Zealand governments take West Point as their model for the military college they require, and I hope the ideal I have thus placed before them will not appear to them unattainable."

men and the Liberal party all the bad men, but he thought the records of the two parties in comparison was all in favor of the Conservatives. He did not condemn the getting of a competence, he rather admired it, but he thought there was something higher than this and that every one should seek to make the country a little better for his having lived in it.

Mr. W. F. Humphrey, moving a vote of thanks said the Conservatives who had erred had been punished, the Liberal policy seemed to be to punish the Conservatives. He moved that the Empire to which we were entitled we should keep down that class of public men. We want men who have in their hearts the glory and the pride of their native land--men who will give their best efforts to advance the general welfare, not men who seek to enrich themselves at the public expense. He did not say that the Conservative party contained all the good Monkeys Brought from Africa are Trained to Sit at Table and Wear Clothes -- The London Season.

London, April 19.—Nearly every week one hears of a new hobby or craze which society has hitched on to. Chimpanzees and umbrella handles. These are the latest crazes. If you want to be the fashion over here just now you must own a chimpanzee as a pet. Inquiring of this fad of a well known live stock dealer in the West End, a correspondent was told that chimpanzees were fast becoming the fashion.

"These monkeys," he said, "which are brought from Africa, have perfect reason and are very intelligent before they are saleable as pets. They are trained to sit at the dinner table and are educated to generally comport themselves more or less like behaved children. When that stage is reached we find a ready sale for them, chiefly to society people, at anything from $200 to $500 and even more."

Another Fad.
The umbrella handle is likely to become an even more expensive fad. Already they have appeared in the West End, and jewellers are busy now preparing for the summer with jeweled handles for smart society dames' parasols and for the canes of their gallant consorts. A correspondent saw a set of six jeweled parasol handles so constructed that they may be screwed into any parasol stick, the result being a fresh parasol handle every day of the week save Sunday.

"For some years past," said the manager of the umbrella firm showing these handles, "the screw handles fitted with emeralds, topaz, rubies, diamonds, pearls or amethysts have been growing in popularity, especially among the American customers. One's purse must fairly be elastic. One such handle alone may cost anything from $50 to $500."

The craze for elastic walking sticks for men seems to be growing also, and as much as $1,000 has recently been paid for a single cane by reason of its jeweled handle.

At last, too, there is to be a share in the "Chantecler" fashion. It is, however, only a minor sartorial part that is to play, and the innovation is confined to the opposite sex. The "Chantecler" is the latest novelty, it is made in a plain colored material and has a representation of a rooster comb and wattle in the case of feminine dress. "Chantecler" fashions are with the men and women in the case of feminine dress "Chantecler" fashions are with the men and women in the case of feminine dress "Chantecler" fashions are with the men and women in the case of feminine dress.

ROYAL BEAUTY TO VISIT GREAT BRITAIN
Crown Princess of Roumania Daughter of the Late Duke of Saxe Coburg, May Go To England.

London, April 19.—The prettiest princess in Europe, it is now definitely settled, is to be among the royal visitors to England this summer. This is the Crown Princess of Roumania, one of the four beautiful daughters of and late duke of Saxe-Coburg. The princess and her husband will probably be here for Ascot, and other royalities expected in London about the sailing time are the King and Queen of the Belgians and the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden. Nearly as beautiful as their mother are the children of the Crown Princess of Roumania. All the royal families of Europe are interested in their children, for they can boast descent from Queen Victoria, from Charles I., from Henry IV. of France, from the Empress Maria Theresa, from the Tsar Nicholas I. and Peter the Great, and also from the humble village innkeeper who was the father of the Murat.
