Different Keyboards

Would you like what they call a flexible keyboard? That is, if you depress the wrong key in the column, by depressing the right one you automatically restore the wrong key to normal and set up the proper amount to be printed on the machine.

Other people like the lock-keyboard, which prevents any possibility of error in having your fingers strike the wrong key in the column after the right one has been depressed.

We make adding machines to suit people; to suit the conditions under which they have to work.

We make both kinds of keyboards.

Of course, we make the best of both kinds, because we scientifically standardize the results. We can't afford to do anything else because we take care of the machines after we sell them.

KING WILL BREAK UP HIS STABLE

London, Nov. 6.—King George has ordered the breaking up of his racing stable. Never again, after November will the famous royal colors of gold and purple that the British have cheered so loyally, especially in King Edward's day, be seen on the turf.

It is believed that the King's decision came partly about through the disfavor which racing has fallen in America and elsewhere, and partly because of his known slight interest in the sport. It is also rumored that Queen Mary had a hand in it on account of the fact that the gambling feature has become just as prominent in connection with British racing as when the sport got itself into trouble on that account in America.

The withdrawal of the King's horses is bound to be a severe blow to the British turf. Strong pressure has been brought to bear to have him reconsider, but the mandate went forth when the King visited York Cottage, last week, and his instructions to his manager, Marcus Beresford, were most definite. It is likely the King will only attend the track in the future on Derby Day, the Oaks Ascot meeting and possibly Goodwood. It is the royal intention that such horses as have worthily borne the King's colors—Minoru, who won the Derby for King Edward; Dorando and Pintadeau, who was in the last Derby—shall not be sold, but end their days in the paddocks at Sandringham.

Would you like to meet the man who owns a factory just like the one you intend to build?

You'd ask him how it was designed, what it cost, what materials he used, why he used them, how satisfied he has been with his investment—you'd probably fire questions at him for an hour.

—and then you'd want to see the building itself.

You might travel a thousand miles to meet that man and then find him too busy to talk to you.

But you can get all he knows without moving from the chair you're sitting in. Turn to your stenographer and dictate a note requesting a free copy of "Factories and Warehouses of Concrete"

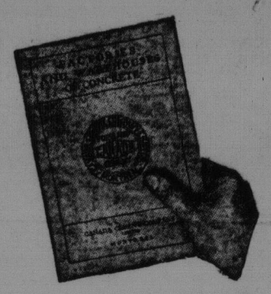
Return mail will bring you a book containing every scrap of information you could desire—from the man who has built a factory just like the one you are planning.



Yes, just like it, because over 235 factories and warehouses, housing 97 separate industries are described and illustrated with photographs.

Every question you would ask is answered—not in generalities, but in specific facts and figures.

It's a handsome book, as befits the most complete and authoritative publication on reinforced concrete factory and warehouse construction ever written. No dry-as-dust treatise for engineers, but a frank, plain description of reinforced concrete construction for business men.

SPIT BALL FLINGERS LEAD LEAGUE

Two first-year youngsters and one second-year stripling, all of whom dabble in the damp delivery, grabbed off the pitching honors in the National League this past season.

Charles Montainous Tesreau, Esq., who is just at present motoring over his estates down in the Ozark hummocks, lost the heaving championship by a splash.

Charles was horned out in the last few days of the season by Claudius Hendrix, the Kansas banker boy, who shoots for Pittsburg. Claude came to the surface with twenty-four games won and nine lost, for an average of .727, just topping Charles Mountainous, who won eighteen and lost seven, for an average of .720. Behind them splattered the slippery-elmish Larry Cheney, of the Cubs, with twenty-seven won and eleven lost, for an average of .711.

Lou Richie and Rube Marquard got into the .700 class, but all the other National League heavers are below .700. Otis Crandall's .684. Hendrix worked in thirty-nine games, Tesreau in thirty-six and Cheney in forty-two. All three were very wild, Cheney and Hendrix passing 112 batters and Tesreau walking 101. Charles allowed but 176 hits to Hendrix's 253 and Cheney's 260. Hendrix fanned 174 to Tesreau's 117, while Cheney whiffed 129.
