

The Catholic

VOL. 4 LONDON, ONT., FRIDAY, SEPT. 29, 1882. NO. 207

NICHOLAS WILSON & CO., FASHIONABLE TAILORS. A nice assortment of Imported TWEEDS now in stock.

A Ballad of Things Beautiful. What the spell in the rimpled rill Who can tell? or the charm of roses? Or in the song the nightingale knows?

And he to whom myrtil souls were granted, And he of Florence who trod undaunted, The halls of Pisa and the terrible place—

THE BAZAAR. Extract from Pastoral letter of His Lordship Bishop Walsh: We solemnly promise and engage to cause a High Mass to be celebrated on the first Friday of every month...

A Splendid Speech Delivered by Him in New York. [Correspondent of The Republic.] New York, Sept. 19.

Mr. Alexander Martin Sullivan, formerly editor of the Dublin Nation, ex-member of Parliament for Meath and now a London barrister, made his first speech in Cooper Union last evening before one of the largest and most intelligent audiences ever crowded into that historic building.

RELIGIOUS TOLERATION. The emancipation bill was passed. The argument that prevailed most against this concession was that if the Irish population were emancipated after their long oppression they would ostracize every man who was of the Protestant faith.

THE RESPECT FOR LAW. I invite any man from Texas up to the St. Lawrence river to put his hands on a pile of The Times or any other London journal and find, if he can, when the London press foretold him as even probable any of the great changes which have come to pass in Ireland, where the reforms which are now being praised to the skies were not first declared to be impossible, monstrous and wicked.

THE LANDLORDS MUST GO. Instead of averting revolution by wise measures of reform, the landlords rushed forward to resist every reform measure. But in 1879 there fell on our country a shadow. There was a new generation born in Ireland.

A CONFESSION. I dislike the use of strong statements at this stage of the Irish question—if they can be avoided. I will use no stronger language than has been used by Englishmen with reference to Ireland's wrongs.

IRELAND'S HOPES. Mr. Sullivan told many laughable stories of boycotting which he had witnessed in Ireland, and resumed: "To the young men of this generation it will be given to see the accomplishment of the hopes which cheered the dying hour of many an Irish hero."

A BRIGHT OUTLOOK. In the further course of his speech Mr. Sullivan recalled the well known names of Irish history—the landmarks of persecution and rebirth—and made the statements stronger than I made in the face of the British ministry.

Mormon missionary work in the rural districts of North Carolina is attended with many perils and vicissitudes. In the western counties of the State many converts to the Mormon faith have been made, a Baptist church society, being broken up by its losses from this cause.

WALKERTON LETTER. His Lordship Bishop Cinnion of Hamilton, administered the sacrament of Confirmation to over one hundred young people in the church of the Sacred Heart here yesterday.

CHATHAM LETTER. The editor of the Chatham Planet, who, by the by, thoroughly understands school work, has been devoting recently some editorial comments to the late education syllabus of the Minister of Education.

LETTER FROM KNOCK. Knock, Ballyhannis, Co. Mayo, Aug. 31st, 1882. Dear Sir—Hoping it may prove interesting to your numerous readers I send you some account of my visit to this now famous shrine, which continues to be visited daily by pilgrims, rich and poor, clerical and lay, from all quarters, even from the remotest parts of the earth with unabated, or rather, increased ardor.

tion, the number of churches and priests in this section of country have more than doubled. There are now eleven churches in the South Riding of the county Bruce, and four convents. We believe that some proportion will hold good throughout the diocese.

BRANTFORD LETTER. A number of our people were somewhat inclined to go to a missionary meeting held one night last week. Though called for one of the fashionable churches, still the lecturer's name was Beauty, and he came from Montreal; and it was not hard to fall into the error of supposing that he would describe his labors one day in July when, with special constables as auxiliaries, he maintained order in the city and refused to give it over to a mob.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

tion, the number of churches and priests in this section of country have more than doubled. There are now eleven churches in the South Riding of the county Bruce, and four convents. We believe that some proportion will hold good throughout the diocese.

LETTER FROM KNOCK. Knock, Ballyhannis, Co. Mayo, Aug. 31st, 1882. Dear Sir—Hoping it may prove interesting to your numerous readers I send you some account of my visit to this now famous shrine, which continues to be visited daily by pilgrims, rich and poor, clerical and lay, from all quarters, even from the remotest parts of the earth with unabated, or rather, increased ardor.

BRANTFORD LETTER. A number of our people were somewhat inclined to go to a missionary meeting held one night last week. Though called for one of the fashionable churches, still the lecturer's name was Beauty, and he came from Montreal; and it was not hard to fall into the error of supposing that he would describe his labors one day in July when, with special constables as auxiliaries, he maintained order in the city and refused to give it over to a mob.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

tion, the number of churches and priests in this section of country have more than doubled. There are now eleven churches in the South Riding of the county Bruce, and four convents. We believe that some proportion will hold good throughout the diocese.

LETTER FROM KNOCK. Knock, Ballyhannis, Co. Mayo, Aug. 31st, 1882. Dear Sir—Hoping it may prove interesting to your numerous readers I send you some account of my visit to this now famous shrine, which continues to be visited daily by pilgrims, rich and poor, clerical and lay, from all quarters, even from the remotest parts of the earth with unabated, or rather, increased ardor.

BRANTFORD LETTER. A number of our people were somewhat inclined to go to a missionary meeting held one night last week. Though called for one of the fashionable churches, still the lecturer's name was Beauty, and he came from Montreal; and it was not hard to fall into the error of supposing that he would describe his labors one day in July when, with special constables as auxiliaries, he maintained order in the city and refused to give it over to a mob.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

tion, the number of churches and priests in this section of country have more than doubled. There are now eleven churches in the South Riding of the county Bruce, and four convents. We believe that some proportion will hold good throughout the diocese.

LETTER FROM KNOCK. Knock, Ballyhannis, Co. Mayo, Aug. 31st, 1882. Dear Sir—Hoping it may prove interesting to your numerous readers I send you some account of my visit to this now famous shrine, which continues to be visited daily by pilgrims, rich and poor, clerical and lay, from all quarters, even from the remotest parts of the earth with unabated, or rather, increased ardor.

BRANTFORD LETTER. A number of our people were somewhat inclined to go to a missionary meeting held one night last week. Though called for one of the fashionable churches, still the lecturer's name was Beauty, and he came from Montreal; and it was not hard to fall into the error of supposing that he would describe his labors one day in July when, with special constables as auxiliaries, he maintained order in the city and refused to give it over to a mob.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.

Archibald Forbes on Irish Valor. Archibald Forbes, in his lecture on the "Latter Life of a War Correspondent," says a need of praise to a few Irishmen. Of the pluck, determination, ability and generosity of the world-renowned Mr. McGahan, an American of Irish descent, whose untimely death took place while the Russian forces were encamped around Constantinople, the lecturer spoke in terms of the highest praise.