

I
t s
-
r
i.
7
,
e t
s
a
r
7
i
s
e s
e l i
s e
l

which explains why the pot must be made by anyone who wishes to profit by the accessibility of pot-stone. The Kañhiŕyūármīūt do, however, sell a considerable number of made copper snow-knives—long two-handled double-edged knives which they and other tribes copy faithfully in iron, when the iron is available.

The Parry Peninsula
July 25, 1911.