THE POSTAGE STAMP

24

HOW IT IS MADE BY UNCLE SAM'S EXPERT WORKMEN.

The Hannfacturing Process From the Engraving of the Steel Die to the Finished Gummed, Pressed and Perforated Printed Sheet.

The first mechanical process in the manufacture of a postage stamp is the cutting, or engraving, of the die. This is a piece of steel of the finest quality, on the polished surface of which a man slowly and patiently cuts, line by line, the portrait or other emblem which has been adopted for this particular stamp. A steel engraving is what is called an incised plate—that is, every line which is to show in the finished print is cut into the surface instead of being left in relief, as in wood engrav-

The die which the engraver cuts is a "negative;" in other words, a reversal of the design which the stamp will show. The reason for this soon be comes apparent.

When the die is finished and proofs show it to be satisfactory it is hard-ened and fixed in the bed of a powerful press. Over it is then passed a steel roller, the circumference of which is several times, perhaps four times, the diameter of the die. Immense pressure is applied, so that every line on the surface of the die is impressed upon the surface of the roller as many times as the circumference of the roller is larger than the area of the die. In this way four perfect copies of the die are reproduced on the roller, but reversed. Each of these impressions is a "posi-in order that it may transmit the impressions once more, this time to the plate from which the actual printing is to be made. This plate is also of steel. The size is sufficient to print a whole sheet of stamps—from 200 to 300 at a single impression.

Into the surface of this plate the impression on the roller is forced by great pressure, once for each stamp in the subsequent sheet, and then the plate is hardened. These impressions are negatives, so that the prints from them the stamps themselves will be posityes.

The reason for all this preliminary work is most interesting. In the first place, printing could not be done from a single die because of the vast quantities of stamps required. In the second place, it could not be done from ond place, it could not be done from the roller, because on that the lines are in relief instead of being incised, and in the third place, it would not be feasible to have several dies or a large number of them engraved, both be-cause the expense would be prohibi-tive and because no two would then be absolutely alike. The present system makes it certain that every stamp of a certain lot is exactly like every other of the same lot—a great safeguard against counterfeiting.

When three printing plates have been made they are all fastened to the bed of a special printing press. When the

it is like a mirror. The wiping removes all the ink except what clings in the lines of the 200 duplicate engravings which dot the surface.

Over the plate is laid a sheet of ampened paper, the plate is slightly warmed in order to permit the ink to swell, and heavy pressure is applied.

Meanwhile the second plate is received. Meanwhile the second plate is receiving its ink, and then the third into play, so that, although all three are on the same press, each is at a given moment undergoing a different process from either of the other two. This has wrought a great saving of time over the old process of printing by hand. When the printed sheets are dry they go to the gramming machine by hand. When the printed sheets are dry they go to the gumming machine, in which they pass between a dry roller on one side and one moistened with mucilage on the other. From these rollers they are cast out, wet side up, upon an endless web, which carries them through a steam heated box.

these rollers they are cast out, wet side up, upon an endless web, which carries them through a steam heated blox.

They come out dry, ready for the perforations, which permit them to be torn apart easily. These are very easily made by passing the sheets between one cylinder studded with steel pins and another perforated with holes to match the pins. The two together act like the jaws of a conductor's punch.

The last process is pressing the sheets by hydraulic power to counteract the tendency to curl, which is imparted by the mucliage.

The printing of stamps, like the printing of gold and silver certificates and bank notes, is subject to the most careful and constant inspection.

Every sheet of paper is counted before it is delivered to the printer, and before he goes home at night he must return exactly the same number of sheets, either of perfect stamps or spoiled paper, and no "seconds" or samples are given away to visitors.—Edward Williston Frentz in Youth's Companion.

The Elephant's Eye.

"To my mind two things strike the observer vividly when standing close to wild elephants in their native haunts," writes a traveler. "The one is the gigantic size and his own comparative smallness. The other is the expression of the eye. This organ, which is surprisingly small in proportion to the size of the animal and set far back in the head, is of a pale blue color much resembling that of a wall eye in a horse, Even when an elephant is at rest his eye has an uncomfortably cold and sinister look."

A Man Is the Age of His Arteries. While some persons are in full orsanic decadence at thirty-five years, some others may not yet at fifty years ave undergone the modifications of nutrition which are the beginning of old age. The capacity of a man for violent exertion is determined by the more or less complete integrity of the interial tissues. In some cases arterial sclerosis is nothing but the guadual of age, but assumes a rapid pace that cases we can see young persons pre-senting the same physiological reac-tions against fatigue as the elderly man. One of the first symptoms of man. One of the first symptoms of that acute aging of the arteries which is called arterial sclerosis is the dyspnoea of effort. All elderly men, are in different degrees tainted with arterial degeneracy, and all ought to avoid excessive muscular effort if they would not wear out their arteries before the time that its result arteries before the time. ore the time—that is, would not grow id prematurely—for every man is "of the age of his arteries."

Friday and Thirteen.

In Great Britain there are two particular superstitions which have probably the largest following—that Friday is an inlucky day and that thirteen is an unucky number. Friday's bad character was derived from the fact that it was the day of our Lord's crucifixion, as well as the one on which Adam and live ate the forbidden fruit, and likewise the day of their death. Sallors have still a strong objection to beginning a voyage on that day, although modern conditions often make it imperative. In Christian countries, too, perative. In Christian countries too he superstition of thirteen at dinner being unlucky and that one of the dinars will die before the year is out is also of Biblical origis, being revived from the last supper of our Lord with ils twelve apostles, but the superstition is much anterior to Christianity. Thirteen at dinner in old Norse mythology was deemed unlucky because at a sanquet in the Valhalia Loki once in ruded, making the thirteenth guest, and Baldur was slain.—London Globe. erative. ONE BOX OF DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED DROPSY.

Dropsy is not a disease in Itself, as many people believe, but is an evidence of very severe kidney trouble. Dropsy is enused by metery particles coming through the walls of the arteries when they are distended by unusual pressure, which can easy be caused by obstructions in the hidneys. The symptoms of Dropsy are puffiness under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, urine changed in character and appearance, smothering feeling from exertion or excitement. The only rational method of treating this disease is to reach the kidneys and restore them to a healthy condition.

The most successful remedy for this purpose is Doan's Kidney Pills. Read what Miss Agnes Creelman, Opper Smith-ville, N.S., says of them:—"I caught a cold, which settled in my kidneys, and turned to dropsy. My face, limbs, and feet became bloated, and if I pressed my fanger on them it would make a white impression that would last fully a minute before the flesh regained its natural color. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and found by their use that I was cured in a very short time. I have never had any tennils with it since,
