From the New-York Mirror. THE QUEEN OF ENGLAND.

Lady of England—o'er the seas Thy name was borne by every breeze, Till all this sunset clime became Familiar with Victoria's name!

Though seas divide us many a mile, Yet, for the Queen of that fair isle From which our fathers sprung, there A blessing from this land of groves!

Our fatherland!—fit theree for song!— When thou art named, what memories throng! Shall England cease our love to claim!— Not while our language is the same!

Then, royal maid so live and reign That when thy nation's swelling strain
Is breathed amid cur forests green,
We too may say "God save THE QUEEN!"

MISCELLANEOUS SELECTIONS.

To-morrow .- Who can tell how much is unbraced in this expression? Though but few hours intervene between it and us, though it will soon commence its course, who is there that can read its single page and pronounce the character of its events?

 To-morrow! Those who are now gay may be sad—those who are now walking the avenues of pleasure, led by the hand of Hope, may be the subjects of immense sorrow,—Possperity may be changed into adversity,—Those who are on the summit may be in the valley. That rosy check may be overspread with pairness—the strong step may failer. Death may have overtaken us.

ness—the strong step may failer. Death may have overtaken us. To-morrow! it may entirely change the course of our lives. It may form a new era in our existence. What we fittle expect may occur. What we feat, may not happen. To-morrow! Away with anxiety. Let us lean upon Providence. The fate of Racing Horses.—Ambo, the fastest mile horse of his day, and that won the Holy well Mostyn Stakes three years in succession, was consigned to drag an opposition coach that ran through Shrewsbury. When no longer capable of that, he was degraded to yet lower Labour, and was at length found dead in a ditch from absolute starvation. Historimiss, a good racer, was, during the last years of his life, seen drawing coal in a higgler's cart in the same town. Mameluke is at this ise drawing a cab in the streets of the metropolis. And Guidford, after having won for his different own in seventien years, was offlicted with incurable string-halt, and was sold at a repository for less than £4! Thence the hero of the turf was doomed to an omitius; there he was cruelly used, the spasmodic convulsion that characterises stringhalt sady agravating his torture. The skin was rubbed from his shoulders, his hips and haunches were continually and painfully coming in contract with the pole. In this situation, he was sent by the veterinary surgeon to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and bought in order to be slaughtered.

Extraordinary Will and Discovery of Property.—An individual, named Wright, formerly a door-keeper in the House of Commons, expired at his residence in Beaumont-street, Marylebone, leaving, it is said, property to the amount of between £150,000 and £200,000, as great portion of which he had divided amous, his wife (hit third,) his friends, and servants. The remainder is bequethed to the children of his only daughter, who is now but three years of age, "if she have any," with the restriction, however, that none of them be permitted to "keep a carriage." A case of Suicides—Mr. Woodman Wheeler, of Petersham, (Vt.) was found hanging dead in his bain on Tuesday of last week. The cause of this suicide, as it has been fold us, is somewhat singular. Mr. Wheeler, a month since, was a hearty old bachelor verging on three score and tee. But though old his heart was not insensible to the "tender office and affairs of love," an an unguarded hour, as it seems he plighted his troth to a fady—we cannot exactive say how far. The Lady was tenacious, and our ba-chelor generously offered one hundred dellar for a discharge. The lady gleaded plighted hopes, and, tearful as became her sex, would only accept twice that sun. The repeatan lower thought this extortion, and refused; the nontingious areast called him a trible; lover thou slit this extortion, and refused; the petinacious angel called him a trifler, and threatened a 'suif for breach of promises. He took counsel legal, then of his purse, andmerred her. On the day of the wedding he left her, and never saw her more. The day of his suicide was the day fixed for her removal to his house. "Liberty or death," thought the sighing husband—and debarred of the former, he embraced the hatter. The means were emblematic of his fate: to escape the chafing of a silken cord, he hung himself with a log chain.
