Peculiar Accident.

Adam Densmore, of East Luther, lost a valuable horse in a peculiar manner on Saturday. During threshing operations they made use of a horse to tramp down the straw and while the men were changing from one mow to the other, tied the horse to a cross beam. It so happened that just beneath this beam there was a hole, extending down between the tramped mow and one of loose straw, and into this the horse slid, the halter acted so as to turn him on his back, and the poor brute actually smothered to death despite herculean efforts of a dozen men or more to fork the hay away.

Wild Pigeons.

The Arthur Enterprise reports that Stephen Boulding of West Luther had been annoyed by a large flock of wild pigeons that made their headquarters in his barn. One night last week, he caught about eighty of the birds and put them in crates. After night the birds were very easily caught, and, of the large flock, only four were missed. On Thursday morning he took the birds to Arthur and sold them at the Fisher Produce market for 25 cents a pair. Mr. Boulding realized $10 on the transaction, but his main source of satisfaction is in being rid of the nuisance.

Chesley, Oct. 21.—The annual convention of the East Bruce Teachers' Association closed this afternoon with the election of officers as follows: President S. H. Anderson, Chesley; vice-president Henry Willoughby, Tara; secretary, C. E. Leppard, Walkerton; treasurer, J. M. McCool, Walkerton, delegate to O. E. A., Miss Clara Leggett, Chesley. The committee consists of Warton teachers, as the next annual meeting will be held there.

After the roll call, at 9 o'clock this morning, R. D. Cameron of Lucknow, government lecturer on annuities, was heard, following which A. Steveson, B. A., of London Normal, taught a class in exports and imports. He proved that these things may be taught without the students really appreciating the fact that they are learning incidentally, by using the things we eat and wear and use, as products which we either raise ourselves or get from other countries through merchants.

Miss Cora L. Fisher, of Paisley, who formerly taught in Chesley, told her experience as a Manitoba teacher, and compared the teaching of certain subjects in the two provinces. She said the work was much the same, except that in the West they put more emphasis on music, and that the entrance subjects were given a different percentage. They required 75 per cent to pass in spelling, and 60 per cent in grammar and composition, and the rest 40 per cent, with a total of 50 per cent.

J. D. Campbell, of Chesley high school, spoke on 1910 entrance examination in arithmetic. He drew attention to the practical part of the paper as being anything but practical and found fault with questions put on that were supposed to be practical and that no business man or any other man in Canada would use.

Mr. McDonald, editor of the Chesley Enterprise, delivered a most interesting address on "The Origin of Geographical Names in the County of Bruce," names such as Brant, from Joseph Brant; Saugeen, mouth of a river; Huron, Elgin, Walkerton, Greenock, and Paisley, old country names, many of them; and from the names of former governors-generals of Canada; Aarn, from the mouth of the Clyde, etc. Mr. McDonald also told of the time when for the sum of $6,250 the Indians gave up their right the southern part of Bruce Co., "as long as grass grew and water should run."

Atonement Day.

The most solemn twenty-four hours of the year commenced for Jews throughout the world with sundown on Thursday last, continuing until sundown the next day. This is called the Day of Atonement, and is symbolized by the total abstinence from food or drink, as commanded by Moses, and rigidly observed to the present time. The day is the conclusion of the ten-day term of penance inaugurated by New Year's Day, when special forms of prayer are recited in synagogues and in the homes. After a Jewish boy or girl has passed his thirteenth year, he or she must observe the custom of fasting on this day, and is expected to pass some time of the day in the synagogue in prayer and meditation of past sins. Enemies are supposed to forgive each other at this period—in fact the devout Jew prays to start again with a clean slate.

Mary And John.

Mary had a little lamb, its fleece was white as snow; it strayed away one day where lambs should never go. And Mary sat her quickly down and tears streamed from her eyes; she never found the lamb because she did not advertise. And Mary had a brother John who kept a village store; he sat him down and smoked a pipe, and watched the open door. And as the people passed along and did not stop to buy, John still sat and smoked his pipe and blinked his sleepy eye. And so the sheriff closed him out, but still he lingered near, and Mary came to drop with him a sympathetic tear. "How is it sister, can you tell why other merchants here sell all their goods so readily and thrive from year to year." Remembering her own bad luck, the little maid replied: "These other fellows get there, John, because they advertise."

How to Suppress It.

A clergyman remarked to a friend who was a medical man of wide experience: "My congregation coughed this morning. I could hardly make myself heard. It was most annoying." "Well," said the physician, "the next time they cough tell them to press the upper lip just beneath the nose. Pressing the nerves in that quarter will stop the most obstinate cough, and, by the same token, it will stop a sneeze, too. I'll tell you how to stop the hiccoughs. You press hard on the cheek right of the ear. These nerves there control the hiccoughs as money controls politics. You need only press—the nerves will do the rest."
