The Gaddy.

Now that the eminent theologian from Greenwich, who seems to possess the controversial spirit, has had his pleading desires for recognition at last fully regarded, we had hoped that his mind would rest in peace; but to our surprise he bids us to a long way toward solving the query propounded so modestly by the divine from Greenwich. It is a mighty question and very original, but the man who in this age would propound such a simple, meaningless query has our profound sympathy. Probably his original query will be, 'Is the earth round or flat?'

If Mr. Foster was vindicated in the recent libel suit, how is it that he is appealing? asks a liberal paper. The answer is plain, and to carry the Budget in its fullness. How a Nova Scotia libel suit has John Redmond these days, and all because Redmond asks the English liberal government to keep their election promise to the Irish party. Before six months we expect to see a strong Tariff Reform government in power in Old England, and the shouters, socialists and Little Englanders relegated to the back seats. England is already sick of the dominant socialist element in the liberal party, and will show them under at the very first opportunity.

Letters to the Editor.

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN. DEAR SIR:—As we have at last come to a decided course of action on the matter of streets in so far as the initial steps are concerned, and the opinion of the ratepayers being asked in the matter, perhaps you will allow a little space and your readers the patience to look into the subject to some extent.

In the first place, as it has been publicly stated, that macadamized roads are no good, I think we can safely dismiss that very crude statement, from the fact that for nearly one hundred years it has been and still is employed as the system of improved road building in some form or other, using more or less McAdam's original plan. In fact the Hassam system has for its foundation the very principle evolved by McAdam with the added improvement of filling with cement, it being, as I understand, a road bed prepared in the same way by draining where necessary, grading to a proper shape, rolling to compact the same and then covering with broken stone; again rolling until well compacted. McAdam's system (precisely the Hassam system) carries this on by completely filling this macadamized road with strong cement, so making a solid pavement—an undoubted improvement.

Now, sir, as we have but a limited amount of money, it is well to move with great care towards the object we all wish to attain.

While no doubt the Hassam system is the best in sight, I feel in common, I think, with others that it is beyond our means, as to do from the Camps to Locust avenue would cost nearly double the amount authorized to be borrowed (and I would think be unwise to do any less than that extent with pavement) and leave us nothing to improve other parts of Main street with, to say nothing of the numerous other roads and streets of the town.

It would be well, I think, to purchase necessary machinery, procure and crush our own stone. In so doing we should have the screenings for filling the road bed, a very necessary thing, also we have in the town a great quantity of stone of more or less hardness much of which I might say is passing it crushed a year in advance of using, being exposed to the air becomes very much harder, and while not suitable for Main street, would certainly, if properly used, greatly improve the other streets and roads, in fact would probably be all that is required for that purpose, and in addition to this would furnish a quantity of excellent gravel suitable for side walks. There is another thing, too, in connection with doing our own work, that is the money expended would largely circulate among our own people, a matter I think of considerable importance.

Another thing not to be overlooked is that whatever system is ultimately adopted the gutters on the various streets leading into town must be filled to some extent with rubble, otherwise they will as at present, bring down quantities of sand, lumbering the street, filling the catch-basins, and endangering and choking the sewers.

Croup and Throat and Lung troubles are treated successfully with Allen's Lung Balsam.

The New Brunswick legislature has resolved to prohibit the exportation of pulp wood out on public lands.

Rink Notes

The rink closed this week after a very prosperous season. The first Wolfville hockey team crossed sticks with the Victoria on Tuesday night and defeated them by the score of 11-3. The game started out fast and the Victorias by their excellent combination playing netted the puck three times in about as many minutes. The senior team, not wishing to be defeated by the juniors, then started playing dirt, and from then till the British Victorias were kept busy trying to keep on their feet, to think much about scoring.

In the last and one of the best games of hockey seen here this winter the Wolfville team defeated the Windsor Swastikas, champions of the W. N. S. H. L. on Wednesday night by the score of 9-7. In spite of the advanced season the ice was hard, although wet. Both teams played excellent hockey, and the game was clean and swift throughout. 'Bush' Smith, of Windsor, referred satisfaction to both teams and only penalized one man from each team. Windsor drew first blood, but were soon followed by Wolfville who scored three goals in succession. The first half ended 5-4 in favor of the Swastikas. In the second half the excitement ran high, the outcome being doubtful till the last. First one side would score and then the other, but in the last few minutes Wolfville took the lead.
