The speaker was Rev. L. P. Archibald, pastor of Upper Canard Presbyterian church, who gave a very fine address on Community Service. This may be accomplished first by beautifying the school grounds, thus keeping before the minds of the young the beautiful, and by beautifying the home and seeking as citizens to attract to our community strangers, through hospitality. Life is short; why not make it easier for others as they go along? Secondly, show the quality of friendship in the church. A little bit of love will change the whole complexion of things. Always try to pluck a thistle and plant a rose, where a rose will grow.

WE WOULD LIKE TO FIND
A horseman or farmer who does not think 50 to 75 cents is too much for a horse shoe, a blacksmith who doesn't think $7.50 to $9.00 is too much for a pair of shoes, a shoe retailer who likes to pay $50 for a suit of clothes, a gentleman outfitter that likes to pay the grocer 25 cents for a tin of tomatoes, a grocer who likes to pay a hotelman 75 cents for a meal, a farm woman that wouldn't take 35 to 50 cents a dozen for eggs, a coal dealer who is ashamed to take $16 a ton for coal, a machine agent who sells a binder at $250 who doesn't think an automobile dear at $560, etc.

A GREAT CANADIAN ATHLETE

GEORGE GOULDING

Goulding

Who never met his master on the track until that old enemy Time had snapped the best of his resources, was one of the greatest walkers who ever breathed a tape, and for many years he was undisputed Walking champion of the world.

For some years he tried to combine running and walking, but found they would not mix well, so he stuck to walking, and at Stockholm, in 1912, he cleaned up the walking events, and established world records.

He made a great come-back a few months ago, but although his spirit was willing, his great heart was unequal to the strain. Madison Square Gardens witnessed the unusual sight of thousands of United States sportsmen standing to their feet and singing Canada's National Anthem, a tribute to the tear-dimmed old-timer who stood broken before them. A superb sportsman and a credit to the game, George Goulding runs a sporting goods store in Vancouver.

Don't you think it's about time that we got used to the change in the standard of living? Isn't it absurd when you see a hen man or woman take 35 to 50 cents for a dozen of eggs, then yell to high heaven when she or he finds cotton 30 cents a yard? The blacksmith who shoes a shoe-man's horse and charges him 75 cents per then wants to buy a pair of shoes next day at the pre-war price? A workman who got $2 before and has $3.50 now wanting a suit of clothes for $20?

Who are the worst kickers? Does the above apply to you? Everybody seems to be as poor as before the high prices—nobody is building castles or over-modest homes—except the war profiteers, and that happens after every war—so who is ahead on the prices any more than they were on the dead and gone low prices? Factories are going bung every day. Our largest stores are failing one after the other. The farmer says he is busted. The business man is waiting for the bell—what has got the long end of the stick? Tell us, we want to know.

We can prove an alibi at any rate to getting rich or making even a decent living, this last year. Don't you think we had just better go along buying as usual? Forget the past and what our parents used to get things for. Keep the money going! Every time you tighten your strings, you boost the price of the next thing you're going to buy. Forget it! Undoubtedly, we all spent too much when money was easy. History taught us the after effects of war. We read and forget. A bad memory gets man into bad holes; also notions. Next time, we will take a look at our local monuments, remember. "No, not us; we will do it all over again. Just writing the above, we listened to a conversation in a store. The price of the article was $1.35, that left a 9 cent profit to the store (we were shown the invoice). The customer said it was too dear by a long shot. He is selling an article for $280 that 8 years ago was selling for $180. The store man called his attention to the fact. His argument was that "we don't make the price." The store keeper conceded the point, but asked him if his commission wasn't paid on the extra $100. This silenced him. The storekeeper informed him that "we don't make the price."— "Evermore" in Walkerton Telescope.

MURINE

"OUT FISHIN"

A feller isn't thinkin' mean,
Out fishin';
His thoughts are mostly good and clean,
Out fishin';
He doesn't knock his fellow men,
Or harbor any grudges then;
A feller's at his finest, when
Out fishin'.

The rich are comrades to the poor
All brothers of a common lure,
Out fishin';
The urchin with the pin and string,
Can chum with millionaire and king;
Vain pride is a forgotten thing
Out fishin'.

A feller gets a chance to dream,
Out fishin';
He learns the beauties of a stream,
Out fishin';
And he can wash his soul in air—
That isn't foul with selfish care,
An' relish plain and simple fare,
Out fishin'.

A feller has no time for hate,
Out fishin';
He isn't eager to be great,
Out fishin';
He isn't thinkin' thoughts of self,
Or goods stacked high upon a shelf,
But he is always just himself,
Out fishin'.

A feller's glad to be a friend,
Out fishin';
A helpin' hand he'll always lend,
Out fishin';
The brotherhood of rod and line
An' sky and streams is always fine,
Men come real close to God's design,
Out fishin'.

CRITICIZING THE PREACHER

No man has harder people to serve than the minister of the gospel. His critics are many, and the criticisms varied. A contemporary comments as follows: "The preacher has a great time. If his hair is grey, he is old. If he is a young man, he hasn't had experience. If he has ten children he has too many; if he has none, he isn't a good example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is pre-aching; if she doesn't she isn't interested in her husband's work. If a preacher reads from notes, he is a bore; if he speaks extemporaneously, he isn't deep enough. If he stays at home in his study he doesn't mix enough with the people; if he is seen around the streets he ought to be home getting up a good sermon. If he calls on some poor family, he is playing to the grand-stand; if he calls at the home of the wealthy, he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does, someone could have told him to do better."

If you would be well-to-do in your old age, be hard-up in your youth.—Kitchen Record.

BUY SOME LAND

Just one thing you can own with confidence and satisfaction and that's a piece of earth beneath your feet. That is real wealth, and that is why land that a man owns is called real estate. It is more real than other kinds of property. When you own a piece of land you are your own board of directors. You can supervise it yourself. It can't be stolen, thieves can't carry it away; it's there. Study real estate, take your time, and don't try to buy what you can't pay for, but when the time comes, own land.

THE BOY

We have heard about tariff and taxes and problems of ruling and state, We know about parties and platforms, and politics little and great, But midst all the din and confusion of struggles for riches and joy, Have you heard the new note that is sounding? Have you heard the call of the boy?

Louder and louder we hear it, a cry from the homes that we view; A call from the men in the making, commanding attention from you. It tells of the training of leaders, and this is the call we enjoy; It tells of defeat at the outset, 'tis a pretty grim call for a boy.

And when we are grown must remember, when tempted to watch them askance, That most boys who go wrong are not vicious, and all that they ask is a chance.

Just a chance to make good in the battle, amid all the strife and the noise, They are pleading for this, will you grant it, will you answer the call of the boys?

A woman in the suburbs was chatting over the back fence with her next door neighbor:

"We are going to live in a better neighborhood," she said.

"So are we," volunteered Mrs. Next-door confidently.

"What? Are you moving, too?"

"Oh, no, we're staying here."

THE ROAD TO FAILURE

My friends, have you heard of the town of Nogood.

On the banks of the River Slow, Where blooms the Waitwhile flower fair.

Where the Sometimeorother scents the air,

And the soft Goasys grow?

You have been intending to try "Red Rose." Why not now before you forget.
