Henry Glendinning, Manila; A. S. Forster, president of the society; Robert Miller, Stouffville; Jas. E. Brethour, of ome of the latest popular music. The upper over the speech-making began.

The first speaker of the evening, Mr. Robert Miller, addressed the gathering on "Live Stock Records," laying special stress upon the recording of theroughbred cattle in this country, and the management of beef cattle and heavy horses.
He said it was more profitable for the present day farmer to feed his products to his stock, and likened this to a factory where the raw material is worked into the finished article. General farming and live stock raising in this manner were most profitable. The farmer should not only improve his position socially, but financially, as the great need of the present day is capital to develop the resources of the earth's surface. The land loses its fertility through lack of proper cultivation. If the plan outlined was developed systematically, instead of the farmers paying for the stock, the stock would pay for itself.
Mr. Henry Glendinning, of Manila, a very able authority on alfalfa, spoke on the feeding of this product to cows for the cheaper production of milk. He emphasized the feeding of the proper kind of food and plenty of it. Food for cows should be bulky, suculent, palateable and cheap, containing the pro-cows should be bulky, suculent, palateable and cheap, containing the proper nutrients and milk producing properties. Corn, insilage and roots are bulky and suculent. The cow should have the proper nutrients, the most important of which is protein, a nitrogenous compound which, when fed to a cow, goes toward producing the curd in milk. A food which produces milk must not contain fat. The most adaptable foods are those containing a high percentage of protein, such as bran, oil cake, glutton feed peas and oats, as they contain a little over 12 per as they contain a little over 12 per cent. protein. Although these foods are adaptable, it would not be as profitable to use them for feed purposes owing to the high prices. The cost of producing alfalfa is $2 to $3 a ton, and it contains 11 per cent. of digestible protein. This shows the advantage of feeding the cheap growing alfalfa as compared with the higher priced foods. Alfalfa can be raised to the best advantage in a dry soil containing a large amount of hums and lime; it should be sufficiently rolling that the ice

Large Attendance From All Parts of the Country

The third annual meeting of the Trafalgar Agricultural Society was held last evening at the Hotel Decker, Oakville. The object of the society is to educate the people along agricultural lines and create a more general interest in the betterment of existing conditions in this class of work.

There was a large gathering, about two hundred and fifty, mostly stockmen, from all parts of the country, at the event, among the notable ones being:
J. C. Ford, Reeve of Oakville: J. P. Griffin, Reeve of Nelson; A. Dudley Alton, of Appleby: John F. Ford Reeve of Trafalgar; J. Brockbank, of Taris, Henry Glendinning, Manila; A. S. Forster president of the society. Robert

While the climate and scenery of Ontario appeals to lovers of nature in the summer months, there is no denying the fact that a great many people find the changeable spring months hard to bear, and they long to visit the milder climate of the sunny south, California, Mexico, Florida, etc. The excellent service of the Grand Trunk Railway and connecting lines makes these tourist resorts easily accessible, moreover, the rates are very reasonable, placing a trip within reach of not only the rich, but also those in moderate circumstances. Full information regarding rates, etc., may be obtained from Chas. E. Morgan, C. P. and T. A., or W. G. Webster, depot agent.
