KING ELI THROWS BOMB INTO CAMP.

Intimates That Parks Board Had Better Keep Out of Beach Park Business.

Finance Committee Recommends That City be Redivided Into Five Wards.

If the City Council on Monday night adopts the recommendation made by the Finance Committee, made yesterday afternoon, the city will be divided in five wards, with three aldermen from each for the next municipal elections. This can be done without submitting a by-law to the people.

The sub-committee, composed of Aldermen Farmer, Cretzer and Hopkins, to which the matter had been referred, held out strongly for eight wards, with two aldermen from each. They proposed to have all the wards with the exception of number 7, remain as at present and make Wentworth street the dividing line for the eighth ward. With sixteen aldermen, four controllers and the Mayor, they pointed out the Council next year would be the same size as at present.

Ald. Lees suggested four wards with four aldermen from each, but City Clerk "But explained this was impossible, even if endorsed by the people, unless the city had a special act of Parliament. This could not be secured before February next and would put the city to the expense of submitting a by-law later in the year. The municipal act permits the Council, with the sanction of the people, to reduce the number of aldermen from each ward, but not to increase them.

On motion of Ald. Lees, seconded by Ald. Cooper, it was decided to divide the city into five wards with three aldermen from each. Ald. Guy supported this and it was carried on the casting vote of Chairman Peregrine.

KNOCK FOR PARKS BOARD.

The Beach Commission threw a bomb among the aldermen and parks commissioners who are in favor of the city spending $20,000 purchasing a park on the Beach. It came in the shape of a letter from Chairman Eli VanAllen, who said the Parks Board appeared to be taking for granted things that might later not turn out to be as represented. The Board talked of purchasing twenty-five acres—the Freed and Henderson properties. Mr. VanAllen said there were only about fifteen acres, as the Government owned the ten acres of swamp land, and the Beach Commission controlled it. The Commission, he said, had not been asked to deed this land over, and might not feel inclined to do so. One park, he thought, was enough on the sandstrip. There was a feeling that the property might be held for a few years by the city and then secured by an amusement company, such as was broached three or four years ago. Mr. VanAllen reminded the aldermen that a by-law prohibiting such a park was still in force. He also called attention to the fact that the roads the city proposed closing up would be required later by adjoining property owners.

Chairman Bruce and A. A. Lees, of the Parks Board, who appeared in connection with the request that authority be granted to issue debentures for $36,000, of which $20,000 is for the Beach property; $9,000 for the Holland A. White property and $7,000 for the properties adjoining North End Park, were heard.

Mr. Bruce, who is opposed to the scheme on the ground that the Board now has all it can do justice to in the properties it controls, said that he feared there might be some difficulty financing the scheme, and he did not think the property was worth what it was proposed to pay for it.

Mr. Lees had a different story. A majority of the Board, he said, agreed that the scheme could be financed. With all respect to Mr. VanAllen's views, Mr. Lees said that the property included the water lots, for which the owners held patents. He did not think there would be any difficulty getting the Government's consent to use that part of the shore controlled by it. Some of the park properties, he admitted, were a little neglected at present, but this was because the Board was eager to purchase property while it was reasonable. George Hope, a member of the Board, had agreed at any time within the next three years to give what the city paid for the property, if the Parks Board could not handle it.

Ald. Hopkins painted a rosy picture of what the Beach Commissioners were going to do in the way of establishing parks at the piers. He said the Commission was fighting on a twenty-five acre park, with all necessary equipment, for pleasure seekers. The property the city proposed purchasing would cost from $40,000 to $60,000 before it was in proper shape. It would be nothing but a frog pond for many years. The Chairman of the Board, he told us they can finance it, and we have no business voting the people's money away," he added.

SCHOOL DEBENTURES.

A dozen tenders were opened for the purchase of the $80,000, twenty-year, 4 per cent. school debentures offered for sale. The highest bid was from Aemilius Jarvis, of Toronto, who offered $7,377, or $77,901. The aldermen thought this was a very bad time of the year to sell the debentures, and it was suggested that the Board of Education be requested to permit the matter to stand over for a few months. A representative of the Wood-Gundy Company, who tendered, offered to take an option at a little better than 98, but the aldermen did not think they would be dealing fairly with the other tenderers to do this. It was agreed to consult with the Board of Education before Monday night.

An old account of $160 from Munro & Meade, who prepared plans for enlarging the jail, was ordered paid. In connection with this Chairman Peregrine announced that the miscellaneous fund was overdrawn. It was decided to transfer $4,000 from the contingency fund to the miscellaneous fund.

OPTIONAL TAXATION.

The committee decided to defer action on the request of the "Central Canada Citizen," asking that the City Council support a petition requesting that legislation be passed permitting municipalities to tax improvement values at a Clean Milk a Power as a Baby-Saver.

Milk Commission's Work For Three Months.

Medical Society Hears Interesting Address.

The Hamilton Medical Society held its regular meeting this week and the members heard some very interesting reports on the work of the Hamilton Milk Commission, and an instructive address on the campaign that is being conducted for clean milk in Canada and the United States was given by Dr. Hastings, Toronto.

A few weeks ago some figures relative to infant mortality during July were published, and these showed that there had been but a slight decrease in the rate as compared with July of last year. The members of the Commission were not in the least disheartened by these figures, because clean milk had at that time been supplied to only a limited number for about half of that month.

The figures that were submitted for August and September told a very different tale, and were received with every indication of satisfaction by the members of the Medical Society. The most striking figures were with reference to cholera infantum. The larger part of the deaths among infants during the summer months is caused by this complaint, and it was shown that the number of deaths from it during the two months mentioned in this year was 30 per cent. less than the number for the corresponding months last year. The report of the commission was presented by its chairman, and in doing so he gave a brief resume of the clean milk campaign in Hamilton. A few years ago, he stated, Dr. W. F. Langrill, who was then medical health officer, urged that some effort be made to supply bottled infants with clean milk during the summer months, but not enough interest could be aroused at that time to start the matter. The appalling number of infant deaths last year in the baby ward at the City Hospital brought attention to the question again, and a number of medical men in the city considered it carefully, with the result that efforts were made to interest the Board of Health. These were successful, and then the matter was taken before the Finance Committee, which was asked for a grant with which to establish a plant in which the clean milk should be bottled. The Finance Committee refused this, but the Victorian Order of Nurses advised the commission to go ahead with its work, and guaranteed to supply the needed funds. With this assurance a farm was selected on the mountain on which there was a herd of cattle entirely free from tuberculosis, and on this the plant for sterilizing the milk was placed and work was begun. Everything about the place was sterilized, said the chairman, with the exception of the milk itself, which was bottled direct from the cows in its natural state, and put up in feeding suitable to the ages of the babies for whom it was intended. In July when the milk was first offered for sale 31 feedings were taken, and when its sale was ceased 856 feedings were being distributed daily, this supplying 338 infants. The commission obtained reports on 216 of these infants, and compiled them for the inspection of the medical men of the city. During the period that clean milk was supplied to these infants only 22 of them died, and this was considered a very small number, while on the other hand nearly all the infants who were given it increased in weight and improved greatly in health.

This report was supplemented by some mortuary statistics which seemed a convincing argument in favor of clean milk. During August and September of 1908, the total infant mortality from cholera infantum was 50, compared with 90 for those two months last year, and the total number of deaths from all causes was 91 compared with 126 last year.

The commission intends to continue the work next year on a larger scale than it was able to attempt this year, and the members will be closely watched by the medical fraternity.

After these reports were presented Dr. Hastings gave an interesting address on the campaign for clean milk in Canada and the United States. He stated that the American Milk Commissions, of which there were 56 in the United States, were formed on a plan originated by Dr. H. L. Coit, of New Jersey. Up till the present time the work of the commission has been limited to certifying to the cleanliness of milk. Dr. Hastings here made the statement that only one-tenth of one per cent. of the milk supplied to the people of the United States came up to the standard set by the milk commissions, and he added that as a result of the educational campaign among milk producers in Toronto they were in a position to more than supply the demand for it, and he thought that there was plenty of room for educational work among the people. They did not care to pay 15 cents a quart for clean milk when they could get it ordinarily for 7 and 8 cents, because they did not appreciate the superiority of the certified milk.

Dr. Hastings then gave statistics of what had been accomplished in various parts of the world, but particularly in the United States and Germany, by the use of clean milk by infants during the summer months. In Canada he advised that all milk that did not reach the standard of certified milk, as "clean milk" is commonly called, be pasteurized under the supervision of the boards of health in the various municipalities, and that as soon as possible the entire milk supply of the Dominion be placed under the rigid inspection of the various health departments so that all milk, from producer to consumer, might be supplied clean and germ-free to all.

BABY STRANGLES.

Saginaw Mother, Searching For Her Missing Child, Finds Tot Dead.

Saginaw, Mich., Oct. 8.—"Why, there's the little fellow, tangled up in the swing," exclaimed Mrs. Shepherd, a neighbor, to Mrs. George H. Rambo, 236 Webster street, as they were searching for the latter's 18-month-old boy, Geo. Henry. But when they went to the swing in the yard between their homes and unwound the ropes, the boy's head fell limply to one side and it was discovered he was dead. The child had been playing with Mrs. Shepherd's children, and on the way home climbed into the swing. He accidentally fell out in such a manner that the rope twisted about his neck and strangled him to death. His tiny feet were just touching the ground, but he was powerless to extricate himself or cry out.

WIRES AND WIRELESS.

Prince Rupert to Have a Telephone Exchange.

Winnipeg, Oct. 7.—Mr. A. B. Smith, manager of telegraphs of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, left on Tuesday evening for Prince Rupert, and vicinity. He will also proceed eastward along the Skeena River to Hazelton. Under the general powers contained in the charter of the Grand Trunk Pacific Telegraph Company, arrangements are now being completed for the establishment of a modern telephone exchange in Prince Rupert. The Dominion Government is also erecting in that city a wireless telegraph station.

GOOD SHORT STORIES

SHE KNEW.

At a dinner the other evening, Dr. Charles F. Alred—familiarly known as the pastor of Rockefeller's church—told the following story about a daughter of a fellow minister:

"It was the custom of the household to have dinner at noon on Sunday and to have a very light meal at night. One Sunday evening little Helen's father was absent and her mother said to her, 'Papa is away to-night. Suppose you say grace.' 'Helen was hungry. There was very little to eat on the table. Casting a sweeping glance over the board, she tilted back her head and said solemnly: 'For pity's sake! Amen.'—Leslie Weekly.

Not long since, in a village in the north of Scotland, the parish minister meeting a farm servant who is a member of his flock, the following conversation ensued:

Parish Minister: "Well, John, and how are things doing with you? I hope you are keeping well." Farm Servant: "Well, sir, it's hard work I have to do; nae rest from morn till night; work an' work, an' nae minute's peace for me."

Parish minister—Well, John, we must all do our share in the work of the world. Remember, it is only the preparation for a better world, where there will be no more work to be done." Parish minister—Well, John, we be for the likes of you; but I'm no sae sure that there will be naething for me to do in the other world. It will be the same thing there, and I'll be told, 'John, light the sun,' 'John, hang out the moon,' 'John, light the stars,' an' so on. I've nae doubts they'll find always something for me to do, unlucky man that I am!"

"Now, sir," bellowed the ruby-visaged K. C. taking off his pince-nez and pointing them at the unhappy husband. "You deny any cruelty towards your wife. I understand? Kindly tell us whether it is a fact—here he turned triumphantly toward the jury and put on his pince-nez again—"that for three months you did not speak to her?"

"It is," answered the husband.

"Well, sir," thundered the K. C., "why didn't you speak to her, may I ask?"

"Simple," replied the husband, "because I didn't want to interrupt her."—Answers.

The following odd story of an African prince was recently told by an after-dinner speaker:

"This prince entered Oxford or Cambridge—I forget which—and amused himself with motor-cars and bull-dogs till examination time drew near. Examination time frightened the young prince horribly. He began to study, and he cabled home to the king, his father: 'Examination next week. Most difficult. Implore aid of gods in my behalf.'"

A few days later this reply came

SUDDEN CALL.

Minister Falls Dead as He Finishes Sermon.

New York, Oct. 8.—Wilbur F. Meminger, aged 52, field superintendent of the Christian Missionary Alliance, whose New York headquarters are at the northeast corner of Forty-fourth and Eighth avenue, died suddenly last night as he finished a religious discourse during an outdoor meeting of the alliance, in front of the headquarters.

Ms. Meminger arrived recently from Portland, Ore., and intended going to Northern New York in a few days. While in New York he affiliated himself with the local branch of the organization. He talked to a crowd of persons last night and tired himself. As he was stepping from the platform he staggered and fell into the arms of several of his colleagues. They took him into the headquarters and summoned Dr. Smith, of Flower Hospital, who pronounced Mr. Meminger dead.
