THE TARIFF AND THE PEOPLE.

It is safe to take the third batch of amendments to Sir Leonard Tilley's tariff as already constituting part of the law of the land, for there is not enough independence on the Conservative side of the gical phenomenon which has been made House to dictate resistance to any of the public by Rev. J. Spangles Ke ffer, of the proposed changes. The tariff, therefore, as Parliament will have it this sesson, will contain every one of its discriminations against the farmer. The tariff, as last amended, does nothing for the lumbering industry, but continues to levy a new and special tax of $1 on every thousand feet of lumber produced, thus diminishing the number of American and European markets in which it is possible for our lumbermen to compete, and therefore actually diminishing the amount of work performed in the woods, as well as the rates of wages which the lumbermen can pay. Nothing is done for the salaried classes, consisting mainly of persons who are living from hand to mouth, and have no re sources to fall back upon in order to meet the increased cost of living caused by the tariff. Nothing is before this class but retrenchment, doubly distasteful at a time when other classes, not a bit more there is no tariff imposed upon the imand bookkeepers, who would swarm over

There seemed to be two forms, one on each side, pushing me along through the tunnel, and I appeared to move as if I was floating, touching nothing above or below. At last it appeared to grow lighter, as though we were nearing the end of the passage. It grew brighter every moment and then I seemed to observe two shining beautiful forms on each side of me. had a feeling of perfect peace and wellbeing, and heard, as though it was a part deserving of success, are launching out into profuse expenditure and display; for ing and delightful music.
