The Roach Case.

The refusal of Dr. Keegan to take in Roach on Saturday night, after he had met with a broken leg and was suffering from hemorrhage, in the interest of other patients who were occupying beds in the surgical ward, naturally gives rise to the query: What is to be done with such cases?

A man who has sustained such a fracture as Roach did and has lost the blood which had soaked his pants and covered the bottom of the carriage in which he was conveyed to town, and had endured the agony of a long drive to town in such a condition, surely needed, and needed urgently, surgical attention. On the other hand the Superintendent of an hospital is the guardian of the life and health of those who are already in the hospital, and it is his duty to protect them. In their interest Dr. Keegan declares that he refused admission to Roach, and that his action was justified by what took place in the ward after his decision was over-ruled and Roach was admitted. It is very clear Roach could not be allowed to remain in the state he was in, in great agony, and with a possibility of bleeding to death. If there is no accommodation for such cases at a General Hospital, it is time provision is made either at the General Hospital or elsewhere. Dr. Keegan is of opinion that an accident ward should be provided at one of the police stations, where appliances and what is needed could be kept, and a police surgeon immediately summoned, or if that is not found feasible, that a casual accident ward should be erected at the General Hospital. If Dr. Keegan is right to refuse such a case under such circumstances, then the Government is wrong in not providing a casualty infirmary. Nothing can justify the absence of accommodation and means of treating immediately such serious cases. A man must not be left in agony and bleeding to death because he is drunk and noisy; nor must other patients be imperilled by uproars in a hospital ward. It is up to the Government to take up the matter and see that accommodation and attendance are provided for such cases of accidents.

Mischievous Boys.

To-day a report went about the city that some kind of accident had occurred on the railway line. A Telegram reporter interviewed Supt. Rioux and he informed him that such was not the case, but that spikes had been found driven in the joints of the rails on the Trepassay Branch road. Detective Sergt. Byrne is investigating, and the outrage, for such it is, is thought has been committed by mischievous boys. These spikes might derail a train and kill a crowd of poor workmen. These boys should be taught a lesson if captured, and we learn the Company will make an example of them.

Tramped to Town.

Yesterday a number of young men autoed in a hired car to Petty Harbor which failed to come for them in the evening. They had to tramp to the city in the rain storm last night, and when they arrived in town all were saturated.

DEATH OF MRS. LUCY DODD.—Mrs. Lucy Dodd, of Torbay, died 2 o'clock this morning and will be buried on Wednesday. She is the daughter of Richard Crowe and leaves three children, to whom we tender our sympathy.

SIMON ROACH Meets With a Terrible Accident.

Refused Admission to Hospital
—Dr. Keegan's Explanation.

Simon Roach of Middle Cove, a planter, who is well known in this city, was the victim of an accident Saturday evening which was of a most serious character. Mr. Roach stated to the police that he believed a rig collided with his horse and cart but the general impression is that as he drove along the wheels of the cart on which he sat went into a rut or groove, overturning the vehicle and that the horse took fright so that in running away one of the wheels went over his left leg breaking it badly. The man sustained a compound fracture of the thigh, the broken bones protruding through the flesh and causing goring wounds from which the blood flowed so copiously that the man's pants and the floor of the carriage in which he was conveyed to town were soaked and covered with blood. Roach was picked up by his son and a resident of Torbay on the road and they telephoned the police for assistance, then taking the unfortunate man, who was all the while bleeding badly, they drove with him to the city. They were met by Detective Sergt. Byrne, who rendered all the assistance possible and drove the injured man to the hospital with all despatch. Roach is of excitable temperament, had some liquor taken and when he arrived at the hospital probably from this and the pain he was enduring he was bawling and shouting. Dr. Keegan refused to take him in the hospital in his noisy condition. He advised that he be taken to the police station, a doctor procured and temporary treatment afforded him, until he quietened down and then he would take him in Roach was then driven to Dr. Macpherson's surgery, and on arrival that gentleman saw the gravity of the situation and gave first aid treatment immediately. In fact the doctor, had there been any room in his house would have taken the man in and cared for him, as he was now very weak from loss of blood. He then had him driven to the police station and there gave him all the attention he could in the absence of antiseptics and proper appliances. Dr. Macpherson appealed here to Dr. Keegan to take Roach in, but again absolutely refused to do so. The police authorities and the doctor rang up the Premier, but he was out of the city, and also the Minister of Justice and the Colonial Secretary, but neither of them could be found. Eventually Mr. Hutchings, the Deputy Minister of Justice, was communicated with, and when he ordered that Roach be admitted to Hospital, Dr. Keegan accepted the order and Roach was conveyed there in the ambulance.

DR. KEEGAN'S STORY.

The Superintendent of the General Hospital, Dr. Keegan, rang us up about the case of Roach. He told us he refused to take in Roach on Saturday night in the interest and for the protection of the general body of patients there. Although Roach sustained a serious accident in breaking his leg, and while there was hemorrhage, he was noisy, bawling and drunk. The only aid that could be rendered was temporary. All that was necessary was for a doctor or even a policeman to render him first aid and for a watch to be kept over him if he did not admit him into the Hospital, because he knew that he would create disorder there by bawling and shouting and keep the whole place in uproar and prevent the other patients from taking their proper sleep. He advised them to take him to the police station and to get a doctor to render such immediate aid as was necessary, to keep a watch on him and then to bring him to the Hospital when he was sober and quiet. While he was engaged in a serious operation in the operating room between midnight and 1 a.m. on Sunday, he received a telephone message from the Minister of Justice ordering him to take the patient in. He had to comply, but he considered that the admission was improper. Roach was admitted and a body of nurses had to be kept with him, he was exceedingly noisy and kept the ward in an uproar and disturbed all the other patients. They could not treat him with chloroform and handle the case in the state the man was in. So disturbed was the ward kept that at 3 a.m. they removed him out of the ward and put him in a corridor to give the other patients a better chance of sleeping. Dr. Keegan considers that Roach would have done equally well in the police station with the attention that Dr. Macpherson had given him. In support of this he says they did not find it possible to remove the splints that Dr. Macpherson had put on until 11 o'clock on Sunday morning, when they did what was necessary in the way of setting the bone and putting on splints and bandages.

How Are the Mighty Fallen.

To-day the usual number of sycophants and heelers, hardly amounting to a corporal's guard, were at the station waiting for the "Big Chief" to come along. "Not a drum was heard" upon his arrival, and the idea is that possibly the "funeral note" will soon be heard and many of the martial followers who were with him in his success are now developing "cold feet." He has stumped Burin, but that district it seems, despite glowing promises and "coddling," is as averse to Tory representatives as ever.

Police Court News.

In the police court to-day 6 drunks were recorded as being released upon making the usual deposits yesterday. A fireman of LeMarchant Road was charged with deliberately breaking a pane of glass in the store of J. J. St. John, and valued at $40. He must pay the damage. Inspector General Sullivan summoned a man for cruelty to his horse in sitting on the cart while the beast was hauling a load of coal. Defendant was fined $5 or 14 days. Head Sparrow summoned another teamster for doing the same while the horse hauled a load of coal. He was fined $4 or 14 days. Three young men were summoned for fighting on the public street recently. Mr. Ayre prosecuted and Mr. Higgins defended. Two were released and the third was fined $5 or 14 days, he being in fault.

Would Starve First.

The strike on the s.s. Rescue continues and the ship is yet tied up at the wharf without a stroke being struck on her. Fifteen men were brought here from Bay Roberts and went to work discharging the ship this morning, but after an hour at the labor and for the first time they found that unintentionally they were acting the part of strike-breakers, and to use the language of one of them, they "jacked the job up" and would prefer to starve than to take the bread and butter out of the mouths of laboring men and their families who were conserving their rights. Delegate McGrath saw the men after they quit work and they said they had not the wherewithal to get their breakfast, but he soon put them easy on this point and brought them to a restaurant where they were given a good feed. Not alone that, but they will get their dinner as well, and so pleased are the members of the Laborers' Union with their manly conduct that they will pay their fares back to their homes in Bay Roberts out of the funds of the Union. All the laborers are delighted with the stand they have taken in the premises. The men were not told in coming here that they were to take the place of men who were on strike, and they are indignant with those who thus deceived them.

Both were shot twice. The shooting was done by Ohu Tu Hun who escaped in a taxicab. Mey Dong Tong is a cousin of Frank Moy "King" of Chinatown. Lands a Tuna.

Monster Fish Taken With Rod and Line off Cape Breton Coast. The Greatest Catch Ever Made.

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 30.—The efforts of Mr. J. K. L. Ross to land a tuna with hook and line have at last been successful and yesterday he arrived in port towing the largest fish probably ever hooked by man in American waters. The tuna was hooked in St. Ann's Bay, and is over 6 feet long and weighs exactly 620 pounds. He secured another, but it brought only 75 pounds. Mr. Ross has been fishing for this kind of fish for the past three years and has hooked many, but after fighting them from minutes to several hours he had to let them go. He hooked the prize winner yesterday morning and played him into the inside bay and after about five hours hard fighting he landed him on Bel Cove, only the rod line and reel being used. Mr. Ross used an 8 foot dory, two men were on board beside the fisherman, Capt. W. L. Ross and Percy McRitchie, who assisted in setting the beauty to gaff. The fight between Mr. Ross and the tuna was watched by crowds on each bank.
