Moscow Enjoying Boom in Building.

MOSCOW.—Moscow to-day is passing through a building boom more than anything of the kind the world has experienced in several generations. Real estate improvement has been virtually at a standstill since early in the world war, and after the revolution which practically brought the seat of government back to the ancient capital, Moscow, became one of the most crowded cities on the face of the earth. This fall, however, under the new private enterprise, including the new economic policy, which places on property and buildings for years, the rush to gain concessions by local investors began, with German, French and other foreigners also clamoring for privileges. The government itself has also improved many buildings. Hundreds of business houses, as well as fine old homes, were so badly damaged during the revolution that it was necessary to rebuild them. Walls of scores of other buildings, ruined by fire, are still standing in various parts of the city, but provision has been made for remodeling most of these next spring.

RESUMPTION OF FREE TRADE.

Store space is in great demand, due to the stimulus given by the resumption of free trade, and numerous one-story affairs have been put up in the shopping districts. They resemble the stores erected in a boom town in the United States. Small wooden shacks for the retail selling of books, fruit, clothing and various necessities, have been built temporarily here and there throughout the city, but these will be pushed aside with the resumption of trade through the ordinary channels. Entire blocks have been cleared for apartment houses, with shop space on the ground floor, and thousands of men and women—usually more women than men—have been employed in this work, carried on with great speed to get as much done as possible before the cold weather begins, when all outdoor tasks of this kind must cease until spring. There is scarcely a block in Moscow these days upon which some repair work has not been done, or a new building of some sort erected.

A Sane Opinion.

There are various ways of showing intolerance. In Ireland, for instance, the followers of De Valera wreck the offices, smash the machinery and assault the editors of the newspapers that print opinions different from their own. In Canada and the United States more diplomatic methods prevail. Here the liberal-minded ones simply stop their paper and withdraw their subscription, hoping thereby to dry up the source of adverse opinion. Either method shows a degree of publicity as likely to injure a cause that is not capable of being defended. It is a poor case that cannot stand discussion and must thrive on the intimidation and muzzling of its opponents.—Catholic Register.

Frozen to Death in Sunny Italy.

ROME, Dec. 13.—Italy is suffering from an exceptional cold wave. Five persons have been frozen to death in Rome and several similar cases are reported from other cities. The Apennine mountains are completely covered with snow. Wolves, driven desperate by lack of food, have descended to the plains and are seen almost at the gates of the capital.

The Office Cat Will Get You.

Oh, Junius, the Office Cat, has come to town to stay. An' talk about the good folks, and all the things they say. An' look into the scandals and help to spread them too. An' make folks feel quite awful, just like all old cats do. So, if you have a skeleton within your closet lid. Just take it out and bury it beneath a castron lid. For Junius is sneakin' and a pokin' all about. And the Office Cat will get you if you don't watch. Out.

An' if you are a married man, a slyin' An' tryin' to make a chicken think you have no wife at home; An' if you have some moonshine brewin' in your shed; An' if you use Sage Tonic on a very bald old head. An' if you take your sweetheart out and hug her in the park. An' if you have a birthday and then keep it in the dark. You'd better be real careful, for I know without a doubt, That the Office Cat will get you if you don't watch. Out.

Italy to Grow Flowers For The Perfume Trade.

Italy is developing a new industry, the growing of flowers for the distillation of perfumes and essential oils. Flower production for these purposes is encouraged in the Southern provinces, and it is represented that the profits to be expected are large, compared to standard returns from other crops. Experts have studied the situation and report hopefully. They say Italy is favored climatically, and that she has a monopoly already in the production of bergamotte, a basic essence used in virtually all perfumery. Bergamotte, on the Italian Riviera, promises to be a center of the new industry. The perfumes manufactured in Italy already have been favorably received both at home and abroad, especially in South America and the Near East.
