Wonderful Things in Toytown

Things that amaze the grownups as well as amuse the children. Well, well; actually if ther aren't crows and grasshoppers, the biggest I ever saw, walking about, tamer than chickens, and cowboys riding real wild bucking bronchos, cats and mice, taxi cabs with lights, and street cars running about. You must keep your eyes open to avoid being run down or jolted about by the Toytown merry dancers. "What did you see in Toytown?" a boy was asked after his visit the other day. "OH, EVERYTHING," was the reply, and that is about as near as you can get to it-EVERY-

With all, except the Children, the next three weeks will seem but days. So much to do-so little time. Of course, from the children's standpoint the next three weeks look like years, and they are now wondering if Christmas will really ever come. Not so with the grown-ups, who, on the other hand, would prefer to stop the hands of time and hold the calendar back at least a month.

Christmas shopping will begin in earnest next week. Wise shoppers will begin early, as the wisdom of so doing has been more clearly demonstrated already this season than any previous year, even nearer Christmas.

Shop early in the day, and as early in the week as possible—by so doing you will avoid the afternoon and Saturday crowd; your shopping will be better, easier and more pleasantly done. Kindly carry as many small packages as possible from now until Christmas.
