GENERAL MERCHANTS IN FRENCH CALF MOROCCOS, KIDS, AND OTHER MANUFACTURES.

House in France: GUSTAVE BOSSANGE. 16 Rue du Quatre Septembre, Paris Weekly Test.

Corresponding week last year: 3,730. Increase.....178.

MONTHLY TEST Number of purchasers served during the month 16.727. ot Jan. 1878:-Corresponding month last year :- 15,670.

Increase..... 1057. HAPPY TIMES.

Happy times are expected next Summer. At least we think so by the quantity of White Cotton we are selling to be made up ready for the Summer

The Why. The reason why we can sell White Cotton so much cheaper than other stores is, first, because we buy them direct from the manufacturers; second, because we get paid for them at the time we sell them.

False | False | The cry other storekeepers raise against us, that we sell white cotton at, or below, cost price is false. For although our White Cottons are sold at such low prices still we get a fair living profit on them But what is a fair profit to us would be nothing to a credit storekeeper. The loss Montreal credit storekeepers have through bad debts is more than our profit altogether.

Three Specials

We have three special qualities of White Cottons this season. One is a very useful yard-wide Cotton at 10c, which is giving good satisfaction to all who have tried it.

Another is our favorite of the season, namely a beautifully made White Cotton 37 inches wide, perfeetly free from dressing or stiffening of any kind. Price 13½c per yard. The other is our very best White Cotton, at 18c per yard. This 18c White Cotton, although the highest price, is quite as good value as the lowest, and is one of the best selling Cottons in our store. Heavy Make.

Just received, a complete assortment of Night Shirt Cottons, plain and twilled. Sheeting Cottons All widths in double width White Sheeting Cottons, plain and twilled, commencing at 21c per yard, and up to Horrockses' best quality.

Something Wonderful. The sales in our White Cotton Department is something really wonderful. People at a distance are sending for three and four pieces of cotton at a time. Muslin Embroideries. To be sold next week, one case of Worked Muslin Edgings and Insertions, all laid out on centre tab-les in the fancy store. Each piece marked in plain figures. S. CARSLEY. 393 and 395 Notre Dame Street.

AGRICULTURE.

last baker it was now with our of the last

Working horses 25 years old, are very rare, and yet at this age a horse may be vigorous and useful The duration of a horse's life is 30 years, if he is well cared for and in his old age moderate work buildings, tools, implements, and other things upon may be expected from him. A large proportion of horses are ruined before they are 5 years old by over work, improper feeding, neglect, and abuse.

Neglect and improper feeding find more victims than over work, for if a horse in his prime is properly fed and cared for, he can scarcely be hurt by steady work.

INCOMING COWS.

Incoming cows, more especially those that are high-bred and have been well fed, should be judiciously starved for two or three weeks previous to calving, and for a week after after it. Feed such cows only dry hav, or partly hay and partly cut straw, with a little bran and a handful of salt. The milking of an incoming cow just previous to her calving, should be aveided, as tending to unduly stimulate the organs and produce the very trouble that is sought to be prevented.

LEISURE TIME. Leisure time should be usefully employed. The winter is the time for study and reading. This is work of the most useful and profitable kind. Many of the most intelligent farmers set apart a portion of their yearly income for the purchase of books and papers, and certainly no money can be put to a better purpose. In choosing these, the necessities of the mother and daughters should not be neglected, but should be provided for. The success of the farm largely, and the comfort of the household almost entirely, depend upon women's work, and the women should be provided with means for doing their work most effectively.

WHAT MAY BE DONE. Stone may be got out and hauled into heaps where it may be wanted for sale or for use. A well may be dug in the barn yard. Posts and rails may be got out in the rough, hauled to a convenient spot, and piled up to dry. Stabs from a saw-mill make excellent tence posts, and can usually be purchased very cheaply, and these may be drawn home. Springs may be cleaned out and walled up. Rocks may be undermined and toppled into large holes and buried. To a willing worker, there never comes a time when there is nothing to be done and much may be done now to prepare for the busier period which will soon be at hand.

WHEAT CULTIVATION. Experiments have lately been made in England in dibbling wheat and cultivating it like corn, with the loc. The seed was planted in drills, one foot spart and four inches apart in the rows. The spaces between the drill rows were carefully cultiv ated until the plants had attained sufficient growth te interfere with the work. The result was eightyfour bushels per acre. Another experiment with rows six inches apart and four inches apart in the rows resulted in yield of sixty-nine bushels per acre. Other cases might be given in which even greater success attended this method of growing wheat. An experiment in this wav of cultivating wheat, say on a square rod, very thoroughly manured and carefully cultivated, might be made by any farmer.

Farm life is not monotonous, is not hum drum; is not devoid of entertainment, and is not wanting in the elements which contribute to culture. The reason why farmers tire of their occupation is because they do not raise it above the level of drudgery. The mechanical part dependent entirely upon muscle, is in the foreground, at the foundation, and fills the hours, days, weeks and months, with too little of thinking—thinking which engenders observation and investigation, which gives life to any occupation, and thus renders it entertaining and satisfactory. There is no department of labor so full of opportunities for enlarging and rounding out the mind and heart of men as farming well pursued, and there is no vocation in which opportunities are so abused. The farmer has before him an endless amount of material open to original observations and although this sort of exploration may not make him rich in pocket, still it may not in the least injure his business while it adds greatly to his measure of happiness. The size of a man's farm, the amount of wheat, corn and oats he may raise, or the number of head of stock he may turn off, although it may contribute toward making him a member of the Legislature, does not determine his whole worth to the public But the man who puts thought into everything that he does, who is constantly striving to evolve some better plan of pro-cedure that shall be of u-e to all his brethren; who considers his farm a work of art to which he is constantly endeavoring to give an added beauty; who teaches by example and precept that within his domain there is an endless amount of opportunity for scientific study; and above all, who strives to bring those with whom he associates to appreciate, as he does, the possibilities of farm life, in the formtion of ideal manhood, is a benefactor. There is only once in a while a farmer who seems to aim at a position like this, and often those who attempt to make the most of farm life in adding culture to mind while making a living are sneered at, and while their mistakes are exaggerated their success is looked upon coldly. The truth is, we owe more to these men than we know. The men who know how and take time to collect notes, make comparisons and draw correct conclusions are rare, while our agricultural papers are teeming with the illogical claptrap of those whose observations even are ren-dered valueless by the falsity of their conclusions. We need more thinking men, educated men among our farmers—not necessarily men who have been within college halls, but educated men in the broadest sense, wherever their culture may have been obtained; and let not the farmers decry the means of culture which brings to them these benefactors. The future of agriculture is not to be measured by the yard stick of those who know everything about the business already, but by the chain which is modeled by those who thoroughly appreciate the possibilities of the vocation and see how hort of true success we now stand .- Western Rural.

THE FARMER'S REVIEW. A new year now begins, says the American Agriculturist, which promises to be one of eventful interest to the agriculturist and all others engaged in productive industry. For many years the nation has been undergoing a severe process of liquidating debts, casting off fictitions ideas of values and, to use a common expression, "coming down to hard pan." At the outset of this revulsion, which was inevitable after the previous years of an inflated and deceptive prosperity, farmers were the first to suffer. and the most seriously afflicted. Nearly every one was in debt for borrowed money or for property, machinery, implements, or stock. Price of produce first fell, but the cost of all things needed for the farm and household, together with the price of labor, kert up, and farmers had more than their share of adversity. Along with the business trou-bles, came unfavorable seasons, fatal disease among stock, and the "hateful grasshopper," with other pests. But out of adversity grew an improved condition which now appears to have placed the farmer beyond the reach of trouble, and to promise him in the future a lengthened season of prosperity, should no untoward accident occur. After the disagreeable experiences of the past years we now have good reason for congratulation. Circumstances of all $5 To $20 per day at home. Samples worth $5 reason for congratulation. Oircumstances of all kinds favor this. The bottom has been reached. No. 19 8 land, Maine. jan 30 78-25 For the past 20 years the prices of many things May 2, 77 which the farmer purchases have not been lower than now. Labor is lower than ever before. Hundreds of thousands of laborers are waiting for work, yet there is work for every one. What a change for the better would it be if all this labor could be turned at once to productive account! Considering the vast amount of work that is waiting to be done, the necessary improvements of roads, fields, which the prosperity of agriculture depend; the vast field in fact which is opened up by the absolute need for the best and highest culture of our soil, and the most profitable exercise of the farmer's art. one is amazed as he ponders over the results that might, and would be, attained, were all this labor employed, and all these improvements set in operation and made. What fruitful fields, where now a:e barren wastes or worthless weeds; what wealth, where now is poverty; what populous villages, where now are wretched hamlets; what comfort and enjoyment where now misery and destitution pre-vail! Here is the labor and there is the work to be done; what keeps these apart, and hinders the desirable result? Certainly every farner in the land can do something at this time to change all this, and hasten the looked-for prosperity.
