The Iroquois Hotel

TORONTO, CANADA.

THIS HOTEL, situated on the south-west corner of King and York Streets, within two minutes' walk of the Union Station (Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways) and the wharves at which all the magnificent fleet of steamers arrive and depart. It is centrally situated and very convenient for Pleasure Seekers, Commercial Men, and the General Public. Street cars pass the hotel for every part of the city and suburbs.

It has been renovated throughout, several thousand dollars have been expended in plumbing, steam-fitting, electric lighting, etc., and its sanitary arrangements are up-to-date. Inspection is courted. Attention to travellers and customers is the first order of this establishment. Reputation made on service given. Attractive drawing rooms and parlors, airy bedrooms—rooms with bath and en suite.

Mr. Graham is an hotel man in every sense of the word, and, since taking possession of the Iroquois on the first of last year it has become one of the most popular hotels in the city; and either ladies or gentlemen favoring the hotel with their patronage may be assured of a hearty welcome and courteous treatment. The table is supplied with the best the market affords. The bar is stocked with choice liquors and cigars. When you visit Toronto on either pleasure or business you will find the Iroquois a comfortable and convenient place to stop at.—"A HOME FROM HOME."
