In reply Mr. Lake pointed out that the strike was in progress last June, and at that time the most alarming reports as to a coal famine had been received at Otfawa. Was anything done by the government?

He read despatches from various points six months ago showing the most serious conditions at that time. Hon, Walter Scott, the premier of Saskatchewan, had appealed to the Dominion government. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had replied in substance that it was not his business to furnish coal.

"Whose business was it?" demanded Mr. Lake. Mr. Lake.

True, a few weeks ago the prime minister had appealed to the president of the C. P. R. but Sir Thomas Shaughnessy had been more patriotic than the premier and had by some two weeks anticipated his request.

Belong to People.

There are vast supplies of minerals in the west, said Mr. Lake, but they belong to the people and they should be used for the benefit and for the comfort of the people, Since 1896, 110,000 acres of coal land were sold absolutely without condition and are being held in idleness by speculators who are waiting for an advance. The coal was deposited by God for the people and the people should not be deprived of it.

SHAREHOLDERS MEET TO-DAY

Geo. Reedy is Fifth Nominee for the Reorganized Directorate.

This afternoon, at 2.30, a special genral meeting of the Ontario Bank shareholders is to be held. It is not seriously anticipated that the shareholders will take any steps to interfere with what is generally recognized as the method of procedure most in their interests and which has been adopted. Should no minority opposition de-velop, the business will be brief, and velop, the business will be brief, and will consist of the reception of the resignation of the present directorate, the consideration of the proposal to reduce the number of directors from seven to five, and the election of new directors. It is generally anticipated that the five new directors to be chosen will be H. C. Hammond, E. R. Wood, Barlow Cumberland, C. S. Gzowski and George Reedy. The last mentioned is less
