

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Make One Friend a Day.

One of the busiest men in a busy city says, "I try to make at least one friend a day." That seems more than most of us can manage, and yet the wayside spring of a country road makes a friend of every passerby.

Sulphur Bleach for Fruit Stains.

Stained table linen follows the return of the fresh-fruit season as surely as night follows day. For removing such stains there is nothing more effective than the sulphur bleach. Lay a spoonful of sulphur on a plate, and sprinkle with a few drops of alcohol. Over this place a tin funnel with the point upward. Touch a right match to the alcohol, and hold the spot over the opening in the point of the funnel. The sulphur fumes will remove the most obstinate stain, seldom requiring more than one application. Rinse and wash the linen at once to prevent staining the material.

Tight Lacing and Street Cars.

Tight lacing makes women get off street cars backwards. This is a discovery that street car men say takes rank with the discovery of the circulation of the blood, the law of gravitation, and the capture of electricity. The servant whose name may go ringing down the ages by virtue of the fascinating addition to the sum of the world's scientific knowledge is Fred C. Baer, superintendent of the car barns of the Chicago City Railway at Seventy-seventh-street and Vincennes-avenue. Mr. Baer has found that silken stays laced tightly are responsible for most of the accidents that occur to dainty women when she tries to get off the street cars while facing the wrong way.

By reason of Mr. Baer's discovery, which includes a finding to the effect that women are rising to keep on lacing just the same as if the discovery had not been made, the company has adopted the new door-opening device to compel women passengers to get forward when getting off the cars, no matter how tightly they may be laced.

The device has been put in operation on 40 cars on the State-street line, and so far, motormen have reported that girls with 16-inch waists have faced forward when getting off, with few exceptions. It would have been difficult for them to get off any other way.

The puzzle which has racked the brains of psychologists ever since street cars were run and women began getting hurt by getting off backwards was solved when representatives of The Tribune were with Mr. Baer, watching Miss Florence Silwell and Miss Grace Townsend, of the "Top of the World" show, experimenting with the new cars. Mr. Baer did not say that Miss Silwell and Miss Townsend were too tightly laced—no indeed—but like an inspiration the solution came to him.

"Girls and women get off backwards because they are laced in tight corsets, causing their bodies to be rigid," he said momentarily. "The consequence is that when getting off an ordinary street car they are obliged to support themselves by holding on to something until both feet are on the ground. 'Heretofore they have taken hold of the handle of the sliding door at the front end of cars, which was to their right when the door was opened, and they were standing on the platform. With their right hands the women would hang to this handle until their feet touched the pavement, the result being that they turned as on a pivot until they faced the rear of the car. If the car was moving ever so slowly, something happened—at least a bad fall."

"Under the new system the motorman opens the door by a mechanical device. The handle has been removed from the door and there is nothing for the women to take hold of with her right hand. To her left, however, is a substantial wooden rail which it is almost compulsory for her to grasp with her left hand."

"As a result, no matter how tightly laced she may be, she is pivoted towards the front of the car and lands on the street, facing the proper way."

"Do all women wearing tight corsets get off the ordinary cars the wrong way?" Mr. Baer was asked.

"There are some young ones," said Mr. Baer, "who are agile in tight corsets and by their young strength overcome the binding of the stays to a degree that they can get off properly. It is the large, fat women, laced to the last point of endurance, who have

THE PIANO WITH THE UNION JACK

A Unique Showing at the Exposition. Thousands upon thousands of visitors made their way to the piano exhibit of the old firm of Heintzman & Co. at the exposition last year and asked to see the $3000, gold-enamelled piano that had been made up specially for the Hon. Mr. Parent of Quebec. This year the attraction of the Heintzman & Co. exhibit is the magnificent diminutive grand piano that was selected by the Prince of Wales and used in his apartments at the Hotel, Quebec, during the recent anniversary week. It is a proud, and one may say a patriotic curiosity, that will influence thousands to call at the Heintzman & Co. exhibit and view this beautiful piano, attractively draped with the Union Jack.

SIR ROBERT HART NOT SANGUINE OF REFORM

Edicts Similar to the One Recently Issued at Peking Have Been Made Before.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Sir Robert Hart, who is here on a year's leave of absence from his post, in an interview concerning the granting of a constitution to the Chinese people, did not appear sanguine of any immediate reform in the direction of Chinese government. He said that edicts similar to the one recently issued at Peking, promising a constitution within a stated period, had been issued before. It is impossible to say, he added, when parliament will be summoned; it may be next year, or perhaps not for a decade.

He pointed out that China did not assimilate western ideas quickly and it was to be feared that even if a constitution was constituted the 400 million of Chinese in the interior would remain passive. He did not think the imperial power would be lessened by the granting of a constitution, still he was of the opinion that China was feeling her way and preparing the foundations for progress and when the new generation began to build, China's pagoda would tower high among the nations.

BIG PROGRAM OUTLINED TOWARD MORAL REFORM

Presbyterian Board Outlines Work for Its Conference Here Next Week.

The moral and reform board of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada met in this city on Wednesday night. Some of the more important of the subjects to be discussed by the board are:

The organization of the Presbyterian Brotherhood in the congregations throughout the Dominion.

The extension of the moral and social reform interdenominational movement.

The co-operation of the Presbyterian Church with the labor men in pressing for reforms approved alike by the church and the labor forces.

The teaching of sociology and practical reform in the theological colleges of the Presbyterian Church and in non-denominational universities and colleges.

Plans for the securing of amendments to the criminal code dealing with race-track betting and social vice.

One of the most important subjects to be considered will be how to deal with bribery and other irregularities in elections.

The pushing of the policy of the general assembly in the interests of the church and the labor forces.

The subject of provincial police forces, and in particular the more adequate and satisfactory policing of the non-Ontario cities of the newer portions of the Dominion.

The suppression of immoral literature.

MILK COMMISSION MOOTED

Would Have Full Charge of Distribution of Lactical Fluid.

There is a movement on foot in Toronto for the appointment of a milk commission, the purpose of which would be to have charge of the distribution of the supplies of such of the dealers as would join in the expense. Provision would be made for the handling of the milk according to the scientific idea from the time it is produced by the cow till it is delivered to the customer. There would be rigid medical inspection and the most up-to-date methods of extending the life of the milk would be employed. Plans are not completed, but medical men are discussing the question and it will be brought before the academy of medicine in the near future.

One gentleman, who is endeavoring to interest the medical fraternity in the proposal, made the statement the other day that the formation of the commission would result in an increase in the price of milk of at least five cents a quart. This would be necessary owing to the heavy expenses that would be involved.

Dr. Hodgset, of the provincial board of health was asked about the proposed commission. He said his own idea was that the question of distribution must come down to complete municipal control. He outlined his scheme recently before a gathering of all who use milk, where the idea was well received.

FIRE AT UNIVERSITY.

Cigar Stub Causes $750 Damage in Tower.

A fire in the tower of Toronto University did damage amounting to about $750 yesterday afternoon. Some visitors came down from the tower and reported the outbreak to Fred Haskin, the university's fire warden, who turned in an alarm, and the firemen from Yonge-street, Yorkville-avenue, Ross-avenue, College, Richmond, Lombard, Queen, Portland and Bay-street station, with two steamers, responded.

Meanwhile the university authorities brought their Babcock extinguishers into play and held the blaze in check till lines of hose were drawn up into the tower, nearly 100 feet from the ground. The pressure was not strong, but the place was flooded and the blaze put out before it had a chance to spread.

The origin of the fire is supposed to have been a cigar stub, which ignited the floor covering.
