Point of Order

members could participate in the question period. That seems to be more undesirable than the difficulty we now face.

Mr. Oberle: Mr. Speaker, I rise on a point of order similar to that raised by the hon. member for Leeds. For two days I have been attempting, under Standing Order 43—which is a Standing Order providing for the discussion of matters of urgent and pressing necessity—to get Your Honour's eye. I also attempted throughout the question period to ask a question.

I understand the difficulty which Your Honour faces in recognizing all hon. members who wish to question the ministry on matters which are all important. However, it appears to me that when a member seeks the floor to raise a question of urgent and pressing necessity, and Your Honour does not recognize him for that purpose, it would be acceptable to recognize the hon. member during the question period because some of us do want to refer matters of urgent and pressing necessity to ministers, to this House and to the public. In this particular case it is a matter which urgently requires the attention of the ministry because it affects the lives and safety of Canadians throughout this country with regard to air traffic.

Mr. Speaker: I can help the hon. member to resolve that problem if he can help me to resolve the corollary problem, which is that when members put Standing Order 43 motions, and when they are not recognized later in the question period, many hon. members have felt they have been discriminated against in the past. It is a very difficult decision to make.

ELECTORS PRIVILEGE ACT

MEASURE TO IMPROVE COMMUNICATION BETWEEN MEMBERS AND CONSTITUENTS

Mr. Bob Kaplan (York Centre) moved for leave to introduce Bill C-406, respecting confidential communications between elected representatives and their constituents.

Some hon. Members: Explain.

• (1512)

Mr. Kaplan: Mr. Speaker, this measure would simply reinstate a bill from the last session which would ensure that constituents would be protected in confidences made to their elected representatives.

Motion agreed to, bill read the first time and ordered to be printed.
