Recalls Great Horse Race Of 27 Years Ago

Edgar, Speculation and Eddie Wilkes in Contest

St. John Horse Made Record

Cruelling Test With George Carroll's Entry Taking Second Money—Old Timers Remember Race as One of Best Ever Seen in Province

(St. Croix Courier.)

Always, when we have had great racing on the St. Stephen track, like that of last fall, and a lot of people are declaring that it was the best racing they ever saw, some old fellow in the grandstand class will attempt to take the joy out of life for the youngsters by remarking: "Yes, it was almost as good as the Edgar-Edgar-Edgar-Eddie Wilkes race, and the 'mere youngsters' who think that he has seen the best ever, goes away wondering what sort of a blooming race that was, anyway."

That race was on the second day of a meeting held Monday and Tuesday, September 7 and 8, 1892, and the following account of the events of the second day is from the columns of the Courier of that week.

The late "Major" Hugh McAdam, of Milltown, was at that time supplying horse notes to the Courier and he, who was the author of the report of the racing.

"Tomah," that won the colt race at St. Stephen track that afternoon, had afterwards a distinguished turf career. Soon after the race, he was purchased by Geo. W. Leavitt of Boston, and while owned, or managed, by him, won a race record of 2:10 for his day and generation. He was the fastest of all the get of Edgar. Later he was purchased by George G. Hall, of Boston, now deceased, who drove him in matinee races, where he was a great favorite.

After his "great days" were over, his then owner, desiring that he should have a comfortable home in his declining years, shipped him to Henry S. Murchie of Calais, in whose hands he was a very faithful "driving horse" for many years, and no old champion ever had better care and treatment than had "Tomah" in his last days. Perhaps the same cannot be written of his great sire, Edgar, for the last that the horsemen of the St. Croix remember of him, he was crippled and impaired and was rapidly passing from one ownership to another. The career of Tomah was mercifully ended, and the stalwart big chestnut was placed "under the sod" three years ago last fall.

But here is the report that was published more than a quarter of a century ago:

The Second Day.

The second day of the St. Stephen races was a greater success than any ever seen on the track. About 1400 persons were present to witness the finest trotting that ever took place in the maritime provinces. There were three events. The first was for a purse of $125, divided, for colts three years and under, half two in three. Four colts entered in the following order: Molly (pacer), c. f. by Harry Wilkes, Thomas Driscoll; Lady Jane C., by Edgar, c. f. by Harry Wilkes, Thomas Driscoll; Lady Jane C., by Edgar, c. f. by Harry Wilkes, Thomas Driscoll.

Concealed Rank of Colonel To Enlist as Private

A Hero of Gallipoli

Hard Hit There, Sent Home as Training Officer—Went in Under Assumed Name as Private—Recognized in France and Decorated With C. M. C.

London, Dec. 12.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The story of a colonel of Australian infantry who was wounded in the Gallipoli campaign and sent back to Australia, but who concealed his rank and re-enlisted as a private to serve with the Australians in France, added to the esteem in which Charles Melville Macnaughten, the hero of the story, is hailed as a man of gallantry and grit.

He was the son of Sir Melville Macnaughten, chief of the criminal investigation department of Scotland Yard, says the Daily Mail, and was practicing law in Australia when the war began. He was the major in command of the first brigade which landed at Anzac Cove, on Gallipoli peninsula. Within two days he was wounded three times. After recovery in England he returned to Gallipoli and led his battalion in their immortal charge at Lone Pine.

After the evacuation of Gallipoli he served for a time in Egypt and was sent from there to England suffering from wounds and fever. Surgeons refused him permission to return to active service and he was sent to Australia as second in command of an Australian training camp.

One day he slipped away from the camp and joined a replacement battalion in Queensland under the name of Charles Melville and soon afterwards was back in England training on Salisbury Plain as Private Melville. He was quickly promoted to be corporal and one day was asked by his commanding officer, "Corporal, do you think you could drill this company?" Having commanded a brigade, the corporal put the company back in France again he was recognized by officers who had known him in Gallipoli as the daring and brilliant soldier they had called "Fighting Mac."

General Birdwood, with whom he had served at Lone Pine, sent for him and gave him a commission. Not long afterwards Colonel Macnaughten was again summoned to Buckingham Palace to receive from the King a decoration as a gallant soldier.

St. George, which had been conferred upon him several years before for his rank in France as "Corporal Melville," he had been personally congratulated by the commanding general for valor at Messines Ridge.

Macnaughten's fighting days are now over and he is compelled to recognize this fact for, as one of his men put it, "he is riddled like a colt and it is only his fighting spirit which keeps him alive."

GARBAGE AND ASHES

Concerning the matter of removal of garbage and ashes a correspondent writes to The Times-Star:

"Can you explain why it is that when any of our commissioners introduces something that will be a benefit to the city and help us to get out of our eighteenth century methods it is always turned down? Economy is the usual time-worn reason given and don't we suffer for it? Our worthy commissioner
