

A GRAND MEDICINE FOR OLD PEOPLE

"Fruit-a-lives" Restores The Health and Strength of Youth.

Grande Ligne, Que., Jan. 2nd, 1910. "I heartily recommend 'Fruit-a-lives' to all who suffer from constipation and the painful consequences. I am now over 80 years of age and suffer from more than 15 years with 'Fruit-a-lives' have tried all kinds of medicines, but nothing cured me.

About four years ago I received a sample of 'Fruit-a-lives' and after taking a few doses, I felt that 'Fruit-a-lives' were doing me good. As 'Fruit-a-lives' were sold here then, I wrote to Ottawa for several boxes.

After taking four boxes, I felt well—my bowels were regular and the piles had disappeared. By taking one 'Fruit-a-lives' tablet half an hour before meals—or one or two at night—old people can correct all stomach, liver and kidney troubles.

"Fruit-a-lives" the famous fruit medicine is mild and gentle in action—pleasant to the taste—yet no other remedy has been found to be so effective in keeping old folks in good health.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. All dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

CAVE IN IN JAPAN
Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5.—Emma Cave, the prima donna, is seriously ill in Kobe, Japan, and her forthcoming American tour has been cancelled.

Mme. Cave started eastward from Europe some time ago on a concert tour around the world. In India she was royally received, and she sang before many of the native Indian potentates.

During her engagement in Calcutta, Mme. Cave contracted a species of slow fever, and by the time she reached Japan she was so ill that at Kobe she was forced to abandon the tour and submit to expert medical treatment.

The prima donna's condition is favorable, but she will not be able to sing for some months.

ATTACK ON EVANGELISTS MADE IN TORONTO

A $26 a Week Bill at One Hotel and What the Printer Did When He Heard of it

(Toronto Telegram.) "Don't tell me that the revival was a spiritual success when it failed to draw three cents out of each pocket for the whole campaign," said J. M. Wilkinson in Massey Hall last night in answer to the question, "Was the Chapman-Alexander campaign worth its cost?"

"The Lord have mercy on their stinging souls," continued Mr. Wilkinson, "213 cents from 400,000 Canadian citizens. What is Canada coming to? The sooner we have reciprocity with our neighbors the better."

While the speaker was in sympathy with revivals there were several features of the campaign which did not appeal to him. "It will be recalled by those who were present at the first meeting of the campaign in this hall, that the great leader of the movement stated that they were 'shaking Toronto.' That is one of the weaknesses of great leaders. I think it unwise in this materialistic age to make such statements, which always incite the mirth, if not the scorn, of the unsaved portion of the community, who experience no trembling sensation."

"I do not know just what the expenses of the four weeks amounted to, but it must have been a huge sum, when the executive committee, who worked hard to make it a success, find themselves over $4,000 in debt. Perhaps it is not my business, nor yours, to ask where the money went, and I would not refer to it, if I had not been asked by a friend to state here that the churches in this district gave their evangelists $700, and asked me if I thought that the executive committee should have to pay his hotel bill, which would be considerable."

"One man told me on Friday night that one of the bills at the Queen's Hotel amounted to $260 a week. When I told that to a printer in one of the newspaper offices, he ripped out an oath that made me feel sorry that I told him."

He stated in conclusion that this large amount of money could have better been spent on cleaning up the slums, on homes for the poor, and feeding the hungry.

FEARFUL DEATH
TOLL ON RAILROADS
Nearly 3,000 People Killed in United States in Three Months

The Interstate Commerce Commission of the United States, has issued its first annual bulletin under the new law. It includes many accidents that were not included in previous bulletins bearing on the subject.

The number of persons killed in train accidents during July, August and September was 211 and 292 were injured. Accidents of other kinds, including those to employees while at work, to passengers getting on and off cars, to men in freight houses, and to trespassers and others, bring the total of casualties up to 22,323 (2,948 killed and 19,380 injured) on steam roads.

These totals show large increases over corresponding periods in previous years, because of the inclusion of highway crossing accidents and those to trespassers on the tracks, etc. At the same time the total of certain classes of accidents or employees are diminished by the exclusion of accidents which are not peculiar to railway operation, such as injuries to men in freight houses, and to those engaged in outdoor work where no cars or engines are involved.

The accident statistics of those electric lines on which interstate traffic is carried, and which therefore are subject to the federal accident law, show that there were 146 persons killed, and 1,070 injured on electric roads during the months named. In the class known as industrial accidents there were 11 killed and eight injured on electric roads.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Midgie Station, N. B.—One can hardly believe this as it is not natural, but it was my case. For ten months I suffered from suppression. I had tried different doctors, but none helped me. My friends told me I would go into a decline. One day a lady friend told me what your medicine had done for her, so I wrote you for advice and received your reply with pleasure.

I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and at the second bottle I was improved. Now I am perfectly well and never so well in my life as I am now. Please publish my letter for the benefit of others. Mrs. W. H. Hicks, Midgie Station, N. B.

Indian Head, S. B.—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is indeed a boon to women who suffer from female ills. My health is better now than it has been in many years. I am married and I thank you for the good your advice and medicine have done for me. I have spent hundreds of dollars on doctors without receiving any benefit. Mrs. FRANK CORCORAN, Box 448, Indian Head, Saskatchewan.

The most successful remedy for the cure of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

TOPICS OF THE WEEK IN LONDON

Twenty-five years the stalwart muscular Scot was known at all sorts of public meetings and was active in every social reform movement. He was the eyes of the nation, and was present at every meeting in which Canadians in London were interested, and was a marked man in England, for it is largely emptying the workhouses of old married couples who with 10 shillings a week prefer to live with their folks outside the workhouse, whereas in England the old folk are not leaving the workhouses for any means of living, which 3 shillings or 10 shillings a week can procure them inside.

The experience of the last few weeks seems to suggest a new classification of workhouse inmates and perhaps the drafting of respectable old folks to cottage houses where they can live on their old savings, and where they can have a moral atmosphere, degraded by the respectable poor.

The great heart of Canada and of Great Britain will join with England in mourning the somewhat unexpected loss of Sir Charles Dilke, who at the age of 68 has ended a great, but on the whole, a sad and tragic career. His name as the best informed and most far-seeing of modern statesmen who appreciated the future promise of Great Britain which in Dilke's youthful days was often referred to by great parliamentarians as "those wretched colonies."

Throughout his great career in the House of Commons, Sir Charles Dilke taught his followers to think imperially. His work on Greater Britain was the result of his travels as a youth in Canada and throughout the empire. He was, beyond question, one of the greatest intellects of his time, and one of the greatest workers.

His enthusiasm for education, for law, for reform and the radical program generally, marked him for high office, thirty years ago.

He was a citizen of the world—an accomplished French scholar, an athlete, a sportsman and a man of wealth and proud family traditions. The world was at his feet till the blow came which caused him to fall like Lucifer—never to rise again.

In 1880 the scandal which involved him as a correspondent in the Boer war, ruined his public career and, although many political friends believed in his innocence, the rigid ethics of the late Queen Victoria made Dilke impossible as a minister of the crown while she lived.

For twenty years he was out of public life and when he was returned to the House of Commons, a new generation realized the great loss England and the empire had suffered by the eclipse of so powerful and so versatile a political genius.

REDUCING THE WAIST
LIKE IN BOTH SEXES
Men and women with heavy, pendulous abdomens who wish to reduce them quickly and safely are usually advised to go in for certain strenuous twisting and bending exercises that, as a matter of fact, they should carefully avoid as being dangerous rather than beneficial.

to the attention of those whose esteem they desire to cultivate.

Thus we see evolved "monkey" dinners. Little Egypt's supper, and dinners of various sorts, more or less eccentric, risqué and unusual. "The Widow," who testified that she lived at the Waldorf-Astoria on nothing a week felt she could not afford to subject her wealthy clients to the mortification of making public their names and decided that as a business proposition it would be adverse to her interests to have the examination continued. Wherefore society is breathing easier now.

Emma Eames
Though the song bird herself has studiously abstained from confiding her plans to the public, positive announcement is made that Emma Eames, the grand opera soprano, who divorced Julian Storer several years ago, will be married shortly in Paris to Emile di Gorgorzo, the baritone. Like his fiancée, the latter has gone through the divorce mill.

He accompanied the diva on a concert tour in the United States and Canada in 1908 and, it was subsequently claimed by his wife, became madly infatuated with Emma Eames who was subsequently by the aggrieved spouse of reciprocating his deep interest in her and with sealing her sadistic affections. This last impression on the prima donna vigorously denied, though she never disclaimed her high regard for the baritone, who separated from his wife in 1909 and gave her a divorce some time later.

Since that time Mme. Eames has been much in the society of di Gorgorzo, but she repeatedly declined to affirm or deny that she contemplated marrying him. Robert Schmitz, violinist of di Gorgorzo's company, says: "I have let her let the cat out of the bag yesterday."

Schmitz said that when he left di Gorgorzo in a western city a week ago, he sang for him an important and lengthy written message to Mme. Eames, to be delivered to her as soon as he reaches Paris.

Paul D. Cravath, attorney for and director in many powerful corporations, undertook a defense for corporations in an address last night on "Problems of the Corporation," at the West Side Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association.

"One difficulty," he began, "is found in a peculiar social condition which has developed in this country in the last quarter of a century, and which seems to exist in no other fully civilized nation. I refer to the deliberate exclusion of the great leaders of finance and industry from any recognized part in the government of this country. This was not the case in this country fifty or even twenty-five years ago. It is not the case today in any of the nations of Europe."

A Hot Trust
"In England, Germany or France men like Mr. Morgan and Mr. Schiff, Mr. Vanderbilt and Mr. Rockefeller are not only welcomed into the councils of the government, but would be almost forced by the mere force of their numbers to do so, and their prominence in the business city, it was said yesterday, will become Plankinton in Milwaukee, the Heringsmead in Nashville, Tenn., the New Willard in Washington, the St. Charles in New Orleans, one in Atlanta, Ga., and one in St. Louis."

The plan, as outlined, is to form something like a hotel trust, without, so far as can be ascertained, a holding company. The hotels named as those which will participate in this community of interests are the Waldorf and Vanderbilt in this city, the La Salle in Chicago, the Plankinton in Milwaukee, the Heringsmead in Nashville, Tenn., the New Willard in Washington, the St. Charles in New Orleans, one in Atlanta, Ga., and one in St. Louis.

"I don't know. The last man had so much experience that we couldn't teach him anything."—Louisville Courier.

A Message to Men WHO ARE WEAK AND AILING

The failure of medicine, of quacks, and even of other so-called electric belts is no argument against Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt. No other treatment, no other belt, is in the same class with it. Everything else may fail, but Dr. McLaughlin's Belt will cure. It HAS cured thousands who tried other remedies without success.

Here's an Offer That no Weak Man can Afford to Miss.

Everybody Admires and Honors a Strong Man ARE YOU ONE?

This is a message to men. It is to men who want to feel like men, to look like men and act like men. This is to men who lack courage, whose nerves are shaken, whose brains are muddled, whose confidence is low and easily depressed, who are backward, hesitating, unable to venture because they are afraid of failure, who want somebody to decide for them, who are weak, puny and restless. It is to men who have part or all of those symptoms and want new life, new force, new vigor.

DR. McLAUGHLIN'S ELECTRIC BELT is no longer an experiment. It is hailed by thousands with loud praise because it has cured them. "It cured me. I am well and strong as ever. What more could I want?" writes a man with a heart full of gratitude.

Do not be in error. This grand appliance is like no other. It is new. It has all the good points that are known in electricity. It gives a powerful current, but does not burn or blister, because my special cushion electrodes makes the current a warm, gentle glow, which exhilarates and relieves at once. It is fully as good as you claim. It has made a new man of me. I have gained both weight and strength. Every word turned out to be true. I could not believe it first myself, but you claim for it. My friends tried to make me believe that your belt was no good, but I knew that the belt was good, and in two months' time I was completely cured. Now all my friends believe in the belt, but none stronger than I do. I have recommended your belt far and wide."—ALEX. McDONALD, Dundas, N. S.

Dear Sir—All I wish to say is that I feel like a new man. I have had no return of my old trouble since wearing your belt. It certainly is all that you claim it to be. Thanking you for your kind treatment, I remain, Yours gratefully, JOHN DALL, S. S. Mine, Halifax, N. S.

Dear Sir—You will excuse me for not writing before, but I was in the lumber woods, and did not return until this month. Yes, sir, my back is all right. It is better and stronger now than it has been for many years. It is the permanent cure. My head don't bother me, nerves are strong; I am better all over. You can use my name to certify that your belt is a good one. My back is all right. The benefit I received from the belt is well worth the price I paid for it. The advice alone is worth the money twice over. My friends tell me that I am looking fine. I tell them I don't know whether I am looking fine or not, but I can tell them I am feeling fine. I shall speak well of what you have done for me with your belt and advice. "Wishing you every success, I remain, Yours truly, W. H. BELDING, Chance Harbor, N. B."

I know no better way to prove my confidence in the wonderful restorative power of my belt than to ask my pay. Can anything be finer than that? My confidence in my method enables me to offer the belt on trial, and one who can offer me reasonable security can use my belt at his risk and
