On the organization of this province he was at first proposed for the position of attorney general, but that office fell to Jonathan Bliss, and Ward became solicitor general. He was also for a time advocate general, and was the first recorder of St. John. He is credited with the authorship of the city charter. In 1786 Ward Chip-man married Elizabeth Hazen of the Portland Point family, and at that time began the building of the house which still stands four square to the winds on Chipman Hill, and is now tury after the declaration of independence. The result seems to have been that while the Lower Cove ticket got the most votes the others got the seats. There was a scrutiny and something like a riot, and finally the popular ticket was thrown out on a technicality. Thus Ward Chipman and his associates got into the legislature. But they did great work when they got there as the statutes of the first decade show.

It was then the residence of the late Mrs. Chipman, who removed to the residence of her brother, Mr. Wright, and placed the house at the service of the authorities, by whom it was freshly decorated and furnished. The special correspondent of the London Times with the royal party, described the appearance of the school children who were collected on the lawn, to sing the national anthem and strew with flowers the path to the doorway. He says that they lost their self-control, sang terribly out of tune and threw the flowers at the prince instead of on the path. It was all very charming, however, and the royal visitor was delighted. This writer remarks that "the house, . . . though very small, had been very well decorated and furnished with everything new, save the table, easy chair and a few articles of furniture which had been used by his grandfather, the Duke of Kent, when staying on a visit there, which though very many years had since elapsed, had been carefully preserved as relics. commissions were immense. He was days of the two Ward Chipmans the successful as to the determination of grounds were spacious and well kept. The garden and lawn extended to Union street, including the site of the High School and Oddfellows' Hall. Eastward the grounds included several blocks of the town as it is now The few old trees still standing on the right of way along Hazen avenue and Chipman Hill are survivors of a beautiful grove. Even so late as 1847 Ges ner says of the city of St. John: "A number of private buildings are tastefully built, and the residence of Chief Justice Chipman, situated in a small park, is quite in the European style." Northward the property included the site of the present depot as well as of the old one, and as mentioned above the ground on which the Valley Church stands was part of the property.

> From papers in the possession of Dr W. O. Raymond the following extracts are taken. They relate to the building of the Chipman house:

Solicitor General Ward Chipman wrote to his agents in London, Messrs. R. Rashleigh & Co., under date 30th Oct., 1787, a letter, in which he says: "I am engaged in building me dwelling house, and I doubt not a number of the articles which will be wanted to complate it may be better laid in and be lefs expensive to me by importing them myself than by taking the chance of purchasing them here. am to request your particular attention to the inclosed memorandum, which I wish to have executed by pro curing the best articles of the kind, and sending them out in the first good vefsel that sails immediately for this port in the fpring; but by no means n a vefsel that goes to Halifax only." Under the date of Nov. 14th, Nov. 1787, he writes again to the same par-ties, as follows:

"I wrote you by the Boreas — from this port for London, the 30th since which I am without any of your gest that all the doors for the eighary to have les for the ring handles of a suitable length for such doors, exclusive of the depth of the lock - the door for the mortise locks. spindles for these locks must therefore be of a length sufficient for such doors, exclusive of the depth of the proper escutcheons for them. Argus fin-And a Man-Eating Shark ally managed to give it the "coup-degrace" by thrusting the bayonet into its stomach, piercing the heart. The brothers Holt towed the dead fich to Bocabec and from there hauled it into town on a wagon, and put it in the American house barn, where a large number of people went to see it and an ugly looking customer they saw. It easured as it lay on the bern the nine feet from snout to end of tail in, and girthed around the body five feet. It has three rows of teeth, each in the upper and lower jew, the teem of fish hook shape. After it was deembowelled the cavity was stuffed with straw and the fish was put in a box made for the purpose, well iced and shipped by the C. P. A spirited discussion on this repo followed, opened by Miss Brown and participated in by Miss Davis of Ce and Miss Thorne. A report was also city by Mrs. Harry Chestnut, which showed that thirty-one families had been assisted during the year, $161.42 had been raised from different sour and $120.73 had been expended in cha table work. Miss Mabel Gaynor sub mitted a report from the circle of the Fredericton High School, which has beeen accomplishing good results.

Reports from the St. John branch will be submitted later. Miss Mellish of Charlottetown read an interesting report from Prince Edward Island, which showed that most encouraging work was being done by the four branches there. A paper on Ruts, prepared by Miss Knowlton of St. John, was read by Miss Ella Thorne.

The meeting was then adjourned until this evening at 8 o'clock.

This afternoon the visiting delegates were entertained by the Fredericton circle to a drive about the city. At the conclusion they repaired to the hall a Carleton street, where tea was served FREDERICTON, Sept. 13.—A public meeting was held this evening at the close of the regular service at St. Paul's church in the interests of the order of King's Daughters now in con-vention here. SERGT. KILPATRICK

WAS THERE,

the Sunday Excursion Was a Great Success.

The excursion to John O. Vanwart's hotel, Evandale, on the river Sunday by steamer Beatre E. Waring was a success in point of numbers and as an outing. Fully two hundred ladies and gentlemen took passage on the fine new craft, and the sail was most enloyable. A more orderly crowd never ft the city, and many unable to allow a little holiday trip to encroach upon a working day took advantage of the excursion. There were no discordant notes vocal or musical on the way up river or down, in fact nothing to grate upon the Sabbatical sensibilities of those aboard. Meals were served on the steamer, but through a misunderstanding no food was provided at Vanwart's. After a three hours' stroll around the green fields the city folk boarded the Waring and were home again at 7 o'clock. Among those on board none enjoyed the trip than Sergt. Kilpatrick of the horth end division. The sergeant told the Sun last evening that it was an
