

THE BIBLE AND THE CROSS... Each now that we feel for freedom and life... The value of history appears on the face... The former the language found us has cast... And now in his presence, and dark is his brow... As in vengeance he glares on the Bible and Cross...

On 1/10, '93, this cause every breath to fill... With the hollow air of civility's thrill... Because to avoid the meanness whose brand... Gleams gallantly forth for the weal of the land... In the breathless silence—the grass and the clover... As they boldly run on for the Bible and Cross...

Each silent distance but at the call... Absorb in the path of the spirit of all... Let the freer, strike by the freer's side... And stand in strong union with every side... Whose willows, embracing both quickly would... Strike, Protestants all for the Bible and Cross...

On 1/10, '93, this cause every breath to fill... With the hollow air of civility's thrill... Because to avoid the meanness whose brand... Gleams gallantly forth for the weal of the land... In the breathless silence—the grass and the clover... As they boldly run on for the Bible and Cross...
