NORTH SHORE MEN IN CASUALTY LISTS
Interesting items of news from the battlefront in Europe continue to come through to New Brunswick of the men who left in the first contingent.

Mrs. Chesley Gray, of Millbank (N. B.), yesterday received notification that her husband had been wounded with the 10th Battalion.

Another New Brunswick man in yesterday's list was Sergt. Edmund Sargent, of Campbellton (N. B.).

Corp. J. P. Ryan of St. John, has been in the hospital for several months, writes. He saw three years' service with the 1st Canadian Mounted Rifles in the South African war, and at the close of that war he joined the Royal North West Mounted Police, which service he spent six years. In a letter to his father, received here on Saturday, he announced that he had just been transferred from the 10th to the 14th Battalion.

A letter received by Mrs. W. G. Ginter, of 74 Chapel street, from her son, Bert, who is now in the Royal Hospital, Richmond, Surrey (Eng.), tells of his confinement to the hospital for several months. He has been given. His wounds are only slight, he says. An X-ray examination had disclosed five small pieces of shrapnel in his right forearm and another in his left leg. He was also bruised on one of his legs.

Mrs. Margaret Bonnelle, of 282 Main street, received a letter yesterday from her husband, Mr. Bonnelle, who is with the Canadian forces in France. He said he was well and had escaped injury up to that time. He had been appointed special interpreter for the battalion.

On one of the narrowest escapes so far chronicled in the letters from the boys with the 8th Anderson's (Moncton) Battalion was that of Gunner William Walter Gunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Gunn, who would have lost an arm but for the presence of a small watch on his wrist. The watch was shattered but turned aside the bullet. After telling the story he adds:

"I have had dozens of very narrow escapes from death and have seen some awful sights—the worst slaughter of men and horses that I never want to see again. I have been in places that I never expect to get out of, but I did, and I guess I can thank the Lord for it."

North Shore Soldier Killed.
Private Dan O'Keefe of Campbellton, killed in the battle of Ypres was the third son of the late Daniel O'Keefe, who was a well-known hotel keeper. He was born 35 years ago and joined the 18th Battalion in 1914. After arriving in England, he is in company with others from his hometown who were sent to the front with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Patrick Gallagher of the Minto Hotel, Moncton, yesterday received a telegram from Ottawa, stating that his son, Pte. John Walter Gallagher of the 18th Battalion is officially reported missing since April 24. He enlisted in Montreal with the 8th Royal Scots regiment, which was subsequently designated the 18th Battalion and brigaded with the other Canadian Highland regiments.

A most welcome letter from Lance Corporal Byron Greer was received by his mother, Mrs. M. Greer, of Hampton. He says: "We have had our first baptism of fire. I have been in the thick of it, but I think I have done good. I have won for Canada. We don't get enough letters from friends. Please also send us some chocolates."

MONTREAL MEN GIVE $100,000 FOR MACHINE GUN BATTERY
Ottawa, Ont., June 1.—The sum of $100,000 has been given for the purchase of a machine gun battery for the third contingent by Huntley Drummond and James Caruthers, of Montreal. The former is a brother of Guy Drummond, killed at Langemarck.

Need More O'Leary's.
Undoubtedly we need more O'Leary's in this war. It will be remembered that a short time ago Michael O'Leary, a former member of the 10th Battalion, was captured at a German trench single handed after killing eight men and taking several prisoners. He was interviewed on Mike's work, and "I'm surprised he didn't kill myself with a stick coming from Macron Fair, and the too bad that Mike could only see eight, and him having a rifle and a bayonet."—The Journal of Commerce, May 18.
