My dear Senator Dennis:

Back last March I gave Mr. W. G. Clark a letter of introduction to you. As you know, I saw quite a lot of him and his wife and family while I was in Halifax this Fall. Everything seemed at that time to be all right, but I am very much afraid from information just received that things are not all right now and were not even at that time. You have been exceedingly kind to Mr. and Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Clark is deserving of it all, and indeed I believe his children are as well, but from information received just in the last two days I am very much afraid the same cannot be said of him. I heard nothing until Mrs. Clark's uncle spoke to me the day before yesterday. The information he gave was confirmed last night and I hasten to advise you accordingly. I am aware, though, that you know something of the facts already.

What I do want to do is to apologise for having commended him in any way to you and to express the hope that you have not obligated yourself financially on his behalf. Some way or the other I have worries in this connection. It would be a relief to know that you have not.

Very sincerely yours,

Hon. Senator W. H. Dennis,
