

in case of need - with which object, perhaps, the farms were decided on - would show how preposterous it would be for the instructors to have expected to turn the whole farm - stock and all, to their own private account. Such an idea as that suggested by your letter will not be entertained for a moment by the Government.

I have the honor to be,
Sir

Your obedient servant,
J. S. Dennis
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.
