Secure every department for the coming winter. Attend to your greenhouse; water sparingly, and give air when the weather will permit. Transplant fruit and forest trees. Protect all tender plants. Dig and lay out borders for the winter. Prune such shrubs as require it. Take off all suckers where they are not wanted. Manure all soils that are exhausted or worn out. Cover over with straw, and protect all plants likely to suffer from severe rains and frosts, otherwise the plants will rot and die.
