KING EDWARD THE PEACEMAKER

A Man of the World Who Loved Peace

But Exerted Little Influence in Political World.

Estimate of His Character by Sir Sidney Lee.

New York, June 10.—A cable from London to the New York Times says: New light on King Edward VII. is thrown by the story of his life, written by Sir Sidney Lee, in the supplement to the Dictionary of National Biography.

It is often assumed that a constitutional monarch has no opinions. Sir Sidney Lee shows that King Edward, while acting strictly as a constitutional ruler, not only had opinions, but also did not hesitate to make them known in the proper quarters.

The King disapproved to any alteration in the status of the composition of the Upper House, which, in his view, was the backbone of the constitution.
