The Wolfville Clothing Co. informs us that their recent remarkable bargain sale advertisement in this paper brought them the best returns of any ad. they ever published. Though they certainly made no profit they became acquainted with many new customers and cleared out nearly the whole of their stock, which was exactly what they hoped to do. Now that their new stock is coming in they are offering bargains of a different though equally interesting nature. Their new ad. in this issue is worth reading. It is not every day a man can make 10 per cent interest, payable as soon as his money is invested.

The Proper Treatment for a Sprained Ankle. As a rule a man will feel well-satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after spraining his ankle and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. An Interesting Book.

Inventors and manufacturers are frequently puzzled to know just how to proceed to protect their inventions and much valuable time is lost in acquiring information required. There is probably no profession in which technical questions are of such frequent occurrence as in patent soliciting, and there is no field of speculation in which greater care should be exercised before deciding upon a course of action.

A valuable invention, when properly protected by Letters Patent, procured by qualified technical experts, means a fortune to its lucky owner, but the same invention patented by unskilful persons may be practically of no value because of failure to properly protect the essential features of novelty which are of most value.

The reason for patent monopoly; possibility of secret use of an invention; nature and policy of patents; time required to procure a patent and the course and treatment of an application in the patent office are interestingly discussed in a recent publication issued by Messrs Marion & Marion, Patent Solicitors of Montreal, and called "The Inventor's Advisor."

In addition to giving a summary of the law and practice relating to patent matters, the book contains a large number of court decisions relating to patent law both in Canada, the United States and other countries, and much interesting information to be found elsewhere.

Questions of frequent occurrence relating to patents and inventions will be of great service to manufacturers and inventors.

The price of the book is One Dollar but we have made arrangements so that our subscribers will be supplied with copies at 25 cents each, provided they name this paper when writing to Marion & Marion of Montreal, for copies.
