THE MAIL ORDER HOUSE.

Notes From Harbor Grace.

Miss Madeline Cody's music school reopened on Friday last. Miss C. is doing excellent work training the young in music. She has a number of prizes ordered for her pupils and will present them on arrival.

The ladies of Christ Church are having a sale of work in the British Hall on Wednesday and Thursday nights this week. The British band will be in attendance.

Mrs. George Bussey, of St. John's, who spent Christmas with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Walsh, of LeMarchant Street, returned home on Wednesday.

Mrs. W. H. Barker (nee Miss Nellie Parsons) is in town visiting her relatives and friends, who are all glad to see her in her old home.

At the opening of the school hall at North River on Wednesday last, Miss Mary Casey, teacher, on behalf of the church choir and pupils, presented Rev. Dr. Whelan with an address accompanied by a token of their esteem. The address was printed on white satin at the Standard Office here, and was ornamented by our talented townsman, Mr. James A. Power. The Rev. Dr. expressed his pleasure in very suitable terms. The concert given by the Knights of Columbus on the above occasion netted the handsome sum of $165. Congratulations to all.

The Masonic brethren of this town and a number of St. John's brethren held a most enjoyable time here on Thursday evening last, the occasion being the installation of officers for the current year. As the principal of your staff was here and took in all the ceremonies, including a portion of the other good things, no need for me to write a synopsis.

Late papers to hand from Chelsea, U.S.A. tell of the terrible destruction there recently owing to an extraordinary high tide. Many Newfoundlanders, and some of them Harbor Gracians, are living in Chelsea, but we hope they have all escaped.

The Victoria Street school opens after the Christmas holidays at 9.30 to-morrow morning.

Miss Gladys Oke and Master E. L. Oke returned to St. John's by this morning's train to resume their studies at Spencer and Bishop Feild Colleges respectively.

Mr. Ernest Davis, of the Simmons' grocery store, is in St. John's visiting friends.

A similar fate overtook Lord Rothschild at Wolverton, where a crowd of Radical hooligans rushed the doors. Lord Rothschild stood for a long time facing the deafening howling and cheering, but was obliged to content himself by addressing the reporters.

Sir Wm. Bull, member of the House of Commons for Hammersmith, while speaking before the select committee that constituency, was rudely heckled by a man in the crowd. He threatened to punch the man's head. "Come on," shouted the man. Sir William forthwith descended and the crowd formed a ring. A stand-up fight ensued until the police separated the combatants. Sir William, speaking of the affair, said he was none the worse for the encounter. "There's been a great deal of unfair Radical rowdiness lately," he said. "This affair may clear the air, for English like a fair fight and no fouling."

A resident of the East End, near the Custom House, had a line full of clothes stolen a few nights ago. Of course this is only a trifle compared with stealing a 900 lb. anchor in the daylight. But we can't expect such big things as St. John's.

Calendars for 1910 are very scarce here. We would appreciate it very much if some of your insurance companies or other business men would take compassion on us and send a few.

We regret to hear of the death of Mr. C. Alcock, the genial and popular officer of the Shipping Department, St. John's.

Mr. Willis Gosse, of Spaniard's Bay, met with a heavy loss early on Friday morning when his dwelling house with all its contents was reduced to ashes. It is not known how the fire occurred, but he had barely time to save his wife and his five children. He is now reduced to poor circumstances. CORRESPONDENT.

CURE ECZEMA QUICKLY. Nothing can be more tantalizing than to treat Eczema with a poor remedy. Only an Ointment that's powerful and healing can restore the texture and integrity of the skin, can subdue the fiery itching and pain. Physicians who have watched the success of Dr. Hamilton's Ointment say it cures thoroughly. It penetrates under the diseased skin, forms a new outer covering, subdues irritation, destroys every trace of the disease. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Ointment in 50c. boxes. 11

Mirard's Linctum Cures Distemper.

COLDS Quickly Cured

Everybody has a cold. Some resort to tablets and powders that contain dangerous drugs, and death from heart-depressing remedies is not infrequent.

It's poor policy to neglect a cold—especially when it can be cured so quickly without medicine.

You can send the soothing vapor of the pine woods, the richest balsams and healing essences, right to the cause of your cold by inhaling Catarrhose.

Little drops of wonderful curative power are distributed through the whole breathing apparatus in two seconds.

Like a miracle, that's how Catarrhose works in bronchitis, catarrh, colds, and irritable throat. You simply breathe its oily, fragrant vapor, and every trace of congestion and disease flees as before fire.

Catarrhose Cures

No trace of the disease remains after Catarrhose is used—no more matter to clog up the nose and cause you to cough and spit—no more headache and buzzing ears.

Cure is absolute. Because Catarrhose contains such healing balsams and soothing antiseptics it can't help curing every kind of catarrh, throat, lung and bronchial trouble.

Don't experiment longer—Catarrhose means sure cure. Two months' treatment (guaranteed), price $1.00; smaller size, 50c., at all dealers, or the Catarrhose Company, Kingston, Ont.

Fads and Fashions.

Chantilly figures on "crackle" backgrounds are among the close mesh novelties in veils.

The flat rolling collar is a necessary adjunct to the open back blouse, many of which still appear.

Striped flannel, linen and madras are being used in morning shirt-waists as a change from white.

Lace collars are extremely fashionable on dressy gowns and blouses, with a black velvet or satin tie.

Long, separate coats, worn over smart princess dresses are proving dangerous rivals of the two-piece suit.

Dark green velvet is in real favor for street suits, though of course no rival for the predominant velvet.

Word comes from Paris that to sprinkle the collar with gold powder is one of the latest dictates of fashion.

Colored satin or silk stock collars are always worn with a turnover, which may be of plain lawn or embroidered batiste.

The silk waist is widely accepted this winter for wear with the coat suit, as it can match the suit exactly in color.

Seal plush coats, made up after real seal models, are in demand. Some of them excel the imitation seal coats made of skins.

Lavender in the bluish shades, tea rose, plum, grayish rose tints and navy blue, is fashionable for middle-aged women.

Paris novelties include muffs of puff velvet, banded with fur. There are usually three bands of fur and five of velvet.

Satin charmeuse remains the favorite fabric for ball and dinner gowns, and, in fact, for evening gowns of all descriptions.

The dominant note in winter waists is harmony of color—harmony with the exact shade of the skirt and coat that go with it.

For evening wear satins of more or less lustre are holding on tenaciously and may go through the winter as a favorite material.

Very pretty with coats and colored blouses is the deep cuff of linen with embroidery buttonholes scallops and platted lace trim.

Wrapped, swathed and draped effects, with huge flat or flapping bows are at present the fad in millinery, and only broad ribbons can be used.

All silk goods of the "cashmere" finish class are, in excellent demand for the voluminous wraps and evening coats now in the height of fashion.

Seeing Over the Wire.

Element Which Acts Like the Human Eye.

The apparatus invented by Dr. Rubin to enable two people at the ends of a telephone wire to see one another in the same way that they now speak with one another, as described in our issue yesterday, has been gradually evolving from the nucleus idea for a great number of years, and though he hopes to have a "life-size" apparatus ready to serve as the "clou" of the Brussels International Exhibition next year, his present instruments only enable a small object or pattern to be seen at a distance.

Photographs sent by telegraph are now reproduced almost daily in The Daily Mirror, and television is in reality the telegraphing of a photograph instantaneously instead of in ten or twelve minutes. The secret of television rests in the almost human powers of the metal selenium to appreciate light. If you see a white and a black object together, your eye transmits the knowledge to the brain that one is bright, the other dark. The selenium cell as used for television is just like an eye, but ten thousand cells would be used, so that your head and shoulders, projected by a lens on to a screen composed of these ten thousand eyes would give to each the impression of light or shade corresponding to a different part of your figure.

The image of a white collar would perhaps fall on three or four adjacent "cells," and they would be brightly illuminated; the image of a dark eyebrow would fall on another, giving it dark—i.e., less bright illumination, and so on. Your image, in fact, would be analysed into ten thousand tiny component parts, and each selenium eye, according to the brightness it saw, would vary the strength of an electric current sent through it to the person watching for the television image.

Every Movement Seen.

Sitting in his chair at the other end of the line, perhaps speaking with you at the same time, he would watch a screen almost identical in appearance with that used for transmitting. On this screen he would see any movement; whenever you changed your position, the movement would be instantly telegraphed by the watching selenium "eyes." The receiving screen is divided into ten thousand parts, each part illuminated by a mirror attached to two delicate wires and forming the moving part of what is called a galvanometer. Each mirror would control the amount of light reflected from a lamp upon that portion of the screen corresponding in position to one selenium cell in the transmitting screen. Thus the whole image would be reconstituted.

How the whole of the ten thousand electric currents are transmitted in an instant over the telephone wires remains for the present a secret, but I have been permitted to see it is controlled by a mechanical device which is quite within the limits of practical work.—Daily Mail.

A satin cord with numerous short loops and ends, tied close at the base of the white collar, adds a touch of color that is fashionable in neckwear.

Mr. R. Hayse and son arrived from the city by Tuesday's train.

Mr. George Carly was here last week on legal business.

A very pretty wedding took place in the Sacred Heart Church Saturday, when Mr. W. J. Walsh led to the altar Miss A. Kemp. The groom was assisted by P. J. Mansfield, while the bride was assisted by her sisters Pauline and Maggie. After the wedding the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride, where a sumptuous dinner was partaken of, after which Mr. and Mrs. Walsh joined the train for Holyrood, where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride and groom were the recipient of numerous and costly presents, which showed the esteem that this young couple were held in. We wish them many happy years of wedded life.

Mr. J. Hunt and Miss M. Tobin were also united in the bonds of matrimony on that day. After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Hunt proceeded to the groom's home, where dancing was kept up until the early hours of the morning. We wish them every success in the future.

Saturday's train took out as passengers W. J. Walsh and bride, Messrs. M. Collins, L. Collins, M. Leonard, M. Mallowney and L. Grant.

Horse Swapping Case.

A horse swapping case that was down to come before Judge Conroy today, but the solicitors, Messrs. Carly and Higgins, settled the case out of court. John Gibbs, the cabman, and Peter Joy, carman, the defendant, swapped horses on the stand last Wednesday. Both were well satisfied at the time. Joy, however, came down to the cabstand on Water Street, and without seeing Gibbs took his whole outfit—horse and Victoria—off the street and went home. Gibbs then took out a summons for Joy. When the parties and their lawyers met in court this morning Joy agreed to give back his horse. This ended what would have been an interesting case.

After hearing the solicitors on both sides judgment for $10 was given in favor of the pilot.
