Bay de Verde Notes.

The fishery up to date is an average one. There are 120 traps used in the prosecution of the fishery here. About 25 traps in Baccalieu Tickle have secured good catches, the remainder will average about 50 qts. The trap voyage on the whole is considerably behind that of last year. Some crews with three traps have only 100 to 150 qts. This time last year they had from 500 to 600 qts. Present prospects are not encouraging for securing much more fish in traps and it is the opinion of the fishermen that the season's trapping is nearly over. The hook and line men have done fairly well and the chances are that the coming of squid will augment their catches.

The oil factories operating here report a poor yield of oil from the livers and as a result there is a great shortage in the quantity of refined oil manufactured. Under the circumstances we do not believe that the decline in price is warranted as there is no doubt that there will not be nearly as much oil manufactured. Mr. W. A. Munn is the man that manufacturers trust to, to give them fair value for their oil and we have no doubt that Mr. Munn will see that manufacturers are fairly treated and that he will not be influenced by other purchasers who are striving to keep the price down. Keep away from the combine, Mr. Munn, the people trust you to do what is right.

MIRACLES.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Does the truly miraculous character of many of the things we have come to take for granted ever come to you in a flash?
 We have recently had electric lights put in our summer home. The first morning that we cooked our breakfast on the little electric stove I had one of those flashes of realization in which for an instant I saw the miraculous character of a convenience we usually take for granted, just as one sometimes for an instant sees familiar things in a totally unfamiliar aspect when one catches sight of them in a flash of summer lightning.

The Miracle of Civilization.
 Of course the marvel of a stamp's service is somewhat different from the wonder of the telephone and the electric light, and yet is not the civilization that the passage of one letter connotes, just as much a miracle in its way as either?

JULY.

July's a month I don't admire; it's hotter than a house afire. It drives me wallowing to the shade, so lap up tubs of lemonade, the while I twang a mournful l y r e; July's a month I don't admire. The sun is like a ball of brass; it shrivels all the leaves and grass; it burns my neck and pees my nose, and multiplies my weary spire; July's a month I don't admire. The couch to which I drag my form, when evening comes, is much too warm. And there I toss the long slight through, and tear the sheets and groan and stow, and kick the foot-board from the bed, and vainly wish that I were dead. When morning comes I sadly rise, and brush the cobwebs from my eyes, and see the same old sun on deck, determined all the world to wreck. The breeze is dry and lacking juice; 'twas fried before they turned it loose. The birds flop round on wilted wings, and not a blamed canary sings. The hens are squawking here and there, disgusted that they cannot swear. All nature has a parboiled look, and steam is rising from the brook, and half cooked fish climb out to get a breath of air, already yet. The men and women sady go on bootless errands to and fro; they view the hot and glaring sky and speak blue words about July. The landscape's like a widespread pyre; July's a month I don't admire.

The Heat Comes Twenty Miles to Cook My Breakfast.

I had thrust a little black plug into its socket and at once the bacon had begun to sizzle and then the coffee—just this a miracle, here I simply thrust in that plug and straightway all the way from P. (twenty miles away) comes that heat and cooks my breakfast for me.

Talking to a Hole in the Wall.
 I had a similar flash one day last winter when I wanted to telephone a friend from a shop and there being no booth vacant I was directed to the open telephone on the wall of the store. Something in the unaccountedness of standing out there in the aisle and talking to the wall instead of sitting down in a booth as one usually does, seemed to put me in a new relation to the phenomenon I had so long taken for granted and I saw the familiar act in a new light. "Just think," I said to myself, "I am asked with a desire to talk to my sister and all I have to do is step up to a hole in the wall, drop in a dime, and talk into that wall and she hears and answers me from fifteen miles away. Truly there are now more things in Heaven and Earth, Horatio, than even were dreamt of in your philosophy."

A Scrap of Colored Paper.
 Another day the Authorman was posting a letter and as he pressed the stamp on, he said whimsically, "Funny

THE LODGE OF DEATH.

"Hail!" said the sentry at the Lodge of Death.
 "Who stands without and seeks admittance here?"
 "A pilgrim soldier from the Land of Death."
 "The outer guard replied in accents clear."
 "Is he of age and properly prepared?"
 "He stands erect. To death his breast is bared."
 "What does he seek from us that men deny?"
 "And is it of his own free will he comes?"
 "What, with his life, does he expect to buy?"
 "And has he ever marched to rolling drums?"
 "He answers that his life he waits to give."
 "That other men in happiness may live."
 "And he has marched for many dreary miles Sustained alone by love of truth and right."
 "Hungry and footsore still he bravely smiles."
 "Admit him to our company this night."
 "I vouch for him. He well deserves our trust."
 "Long has he fought against the tyrant's lust!"
 "Pilgrim, it is my duty now to say That ere you join this splendid Lodge of Death There is a price supreme that you must pay: For freedom you must leave the Land of Death. There yet remain one cruel bitter test: Ave you prepared to die for what is best?"
 "I am!" "Remove the hoodwink from his eyes!"
 "Receive him, brothers, as his life he gives!"
 "Pilgrim, from death's dark cavern now arise And learn that he who dies for freedom, lives."
 "Behold the splendid souls who died for truth And take your place among them, noble youth."

SOME BEAUTY DESTROYERS.

Many a woman suffers from indigestion simply from lack of exercise. If this is brought about by wealth or indolence, I have but little pity to express, even if she loses her beauty on account of it. Indigestion is usually the result of a continued wrong diet.

To begin with, not fruit enough is eaten, it is looked on more as a luxury than as a food. Abroad it is quite the opposite and the table at nearly every meal is supplied with fruit. If everyone would eat more fruit and less meat many a doctor's bill would be avoided. We would then realize that our garden and orchards are the best drug stores in the land.

One of the best fruits is the apple. The large percentage of phosphorus it contains makes it a brain food of high value. The acids of this fruit are most useful for persons of sedentary habits, whose livers are sluggish in action and need of stimulation. In fact, one might justly call the apple, "nature's cathartic." I might also add that the eating of apples is most beneficial to the skin and complexion.

Overwork and worry often cause nervous physical collapse. In such cases food and sleep should be prescribed. Perhaps one will have no desire to eat, nevertheless it is imperative for with plenty of easily assimilated food and plenty of rest, and fresh air, the sooner will nervousness and weariness be overcome.

In case that one has really no appetite and eating is an actual effort liquid foods should be taken. Raw eggs and milk rank high in value. In fact they not only satisfy hunger but are also quite nourishing.

To live above worry is no easy task, especially for persons of a nervous temperament. Nevertheless it is possible and can be attained through the power of the will.

This is to certify that fourteen years ago I got the cords of my left wrist nearly severed, and was for about nine months that I had no use of my hand, and tried other Liniments, also doctors, and was receiving no benefit. By a persuasion from a friend I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and used one bottle which completely cured me, and have been using MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family ever since and find it the same as when I first used it, and would never be without it.

Household Notes.

To remove dust from a black straw hat, use a tablespoon of salt to a quart of water. Use small scrubbing brush, and rinse hat by dipping it into clear water.

To make a small portion of mayonnaise dressing go a long way, add it by the spoonful to the beaten white of an egg and continue beating until all dressing is used.

An old worn bedspread will make a pretty tablecloth. Trim off the worn portions and dye it a pretty color, then turn a two-inch hem around the edges and finish with a fringe.

If breadcrumbs are kept tightly covered in a fruit jar, they are apt to become strong. Try tying a piece of muslin over the top; this gives ventilation and keeps out the dust.

When laying matting you will find it much easier to lay into corners if first thoroughly with a brush dipped into a pail of water to which a cupful of salt has been added.

Water spilled on the bed when someone is ill may be quickly dried by filling a hot-water bottle full of boiling water and placing it between the mattress and the bed clothing.

To break a glass jar evenly, soak a cord in turpentine and tie it around the jar where you wish to have it broken. Fill glass with cold water up to the string and set fire to the string. Oil pickles are made of 30 medium-sized cucumbers and 4 onions, all sliced. Let stand 4 hours in salted water. Drain and pour over them 1 quart of vinegar and 1 quart of olive oil.

To clean silk embroidery, dip a camel's hair brush in spirits of wine and brush over embroidery until it is clean. The brush should be frequently rinsed in spirits to remove dirt.

Bacon is much more delicate and soft if first parboiled until the fatty part is almost cooked, then lay each piece out separately on a cloth to drain and fry quickly to a very light brown.

The wooden skewers which come with the joint of meat from the butcher's are most useful. Dampen the point with brick dust; it will reach any corner or crevice and remove stains or dirt.

Hard-water stains can be removed from the bathtub by taking equal quantities of soft soap and whitening, apply with warm water and polish with chamomile.
