funny. The stick drill by the Guy Brothers was also very good, and they did some fine dancing. The horizontal bar performance by Vanerson and McDonald was above the average. W. H. Guy is a clever comedian, and his dialect is very good. Eddie McDonald, the contortionist, is one of the best of his kind that has been in Montreal for some time. The performance concluded by a farce, "Save the Pieces," four of the Guy Brothers taking the parts, and doing some good work.

School Opening.

On the evening of Friday, Nov. 24, a pleasant time was spent at Brick street, on the occasion of the opening of the new public school. The large and intelligent audience were very pleasantly and profitably entertained by Miss L. and Mr. H. Poule, of Lambeth, who rendered a number of solos in their usual effective manner. Miss Beling, of London, seemed to win the admiration of her hearries as a wocalist, and sang three zolos in an easy and pleasing way, which were heartily appiauded. Several solos of Mr. Lewis', of London, were highly appreciated, as were also the violin selections by Messrs. Topping and N'xon, of Lambeth. Miss Anderson, of Strathroy, touched the hearts of all the Scotchimen present by her exquisite recitations in the Scotch dialect. An instructive address on school matters was delivered by Mr. J. Dearness, public school inspector. Mr. J. Dearness, public school inspector The chair was occupied by Mr. Allar

Arrested for Desertion. On Nov. 20, Annie Biggs, of London West, entered the office of J. B. Smyth and On Nov. 20, Annie Biggs, of London West, entered the office of J. B. Smyth and swore out an information against her husband, Robert Biggs. The charge preferred was that of selling the household furniture on the market on Oct. 9, and deserting his wife and little 9-months old child, and lesving her with but a small sum of money. The whereabouts of Biggs was unknown until yesterday, when Constables Ward and Ward, of London West, drove out to the residence of B. Cushman, on con. 15, London township. Here they found their man, who accompanied them to the city without hesitation. Biggs has been married about three years, and up to this time has borne a good reputation. He says that he will support the child but not his wife, and also says that the reason of his acting in such a manner was that the latter was constantly away from her home, and not attending to her household duties. When asked by Squire Lacey if his father would be sent for to go bail for his appearance, Biggs said that if his word was not good enough for his appearance he would not allow any person to go as security. He was accordingly remanded till Tuesday. Mrs. Biggs has since been living with her parents in Komoka, and at the trial the only persons who will be examined will be the plaintiff and defendant in the case.
