His Lordship of Huron Indorses the Three-Fifths Clause.

BETTING AND GAMBLING EVILS

Referred to It at Length and Condemned — Laymen's Missionary Movement Referred To.

That church union, at least as far as the Anglican Church is concerned, is a very remote possibility, was the only opinion that could be drawn from the Bishop of Huron's charge to the synod at the afternoon session of that body yesterday.

He made it very clear that such an organic union could only be considered on the basis of a concession or the part of the other churches concerned, which so far the Anglicans did not seem willing to accede to. And beyond that, he agreed with the opinion of the general synod that no union that did not comprise the whole church, not only of Canada, but of England and Scotland as well, could ever be made effective.

The Three-Fifths Clause.

Another important matter mentioned by his lordship was in regard to the three-fifths clause. "The principle is altogether right," he said. seem to eager advocates to delay the advent of their ideal, but it is the surer way, and will not have the de moralizing effects that are apt to follow and did follow the adoption of the law by bare majority."

Recompense Hotelmen.

That hotelmen deserved some con aideration in the matter for the loss of their license was another contention Four Dollars a Year Here, But Only of his lordship. He held strongly to the idea of compensating them for their loss. "When a man," he said, has invested money in good faith in a business, which is protected by law like any other business to pass a law that makes the investment all but a total loss is to break faith, and is price to householders. practically confiscation. The process The British way is the that amount. best, and the British way is for the state to make compensation to private individuals when it suppresses by law a legitimate trade."

Evils of Gambling.

His lordship spoke in no measured terms of the evils of betting and gambling. "However widely practiced and however called," he said, "they are morally wrong and degrading to character. The amount of the stakes makes no difference in the principle. It is robbery, no matter by what name you call It is getting something for which you have given no equivalent, and simply means that some man will have to work for nothing to compensate for it, therefore it is morally wrong."

Missionary Movement.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement," said his lordship, "had so far water in London, and in Detroit, a city gained only a slight hold on the diocese, and he thought that in a vigorous advocation of this movement lay the solution to the vexed question of the intake pipe and machinery to provide raising of the apportionments of the for. diocese, as well as stimulating the forward movement of the church. Great Advances.

spoke first of the great advances made in the work of the church during the past year. Special attention was paid to the two great gatherings of the past year. The Pan-Anglican Conference, which was addressed by some of the most gifted speakers in the worl, and the Lambeth Conference. which followed the former, which propounded definite resolutions based upon the suggestions of the first gathering. Some of the questions consider ed at these conferences were discussed by his lordship, more especially the question of church unity and the formation of a central consultative body for the Anglican communion. 'It was made perfectly clear that nothing would be gained by whittling down our distinctive position or by sacrificing elements of truth emphasized now by the different communions. The committee deliberately reconimended to the church an ideal of reunion, which should include all the elements of truth now emphasized by separate bodies; that in a word ef forts towards reunion should be not compromise for the sake of peace, but comprehension for the sake of truth, and the goal not uniformity but unity.

rected towards studying and under-standing our points of difference from each other, even more than the points of agreement. The causes of separation lie, after all, in the points of difference; they lie in the fact that the different communions look at truth from different standpoints, or in the fact one communion ignores a truth

THE BISHOP AND THREE-FIFTHS CLAUSE

All does not seem to be quite harmonious in regard to the bishop's commendation of the three-fifths clause, and the matter of compensation for the cancellation of licenses, at the synod meeting yesterday afternoon.

These are matters upon which there is a good deal of diversity of opinion. Many of the clergy and laity favor the bishop's attitude, but there are not wanting many of both classes who are not only advocates of temperance, but who are the most out and out prohibitionists, and with these the bishop's attitude will find scant favor. The matter of compensation especially is looked upon with pronounced disfavor by these men, to them it seems a compromise with an evil which they do not wish to coun tenance in any way, and beyond a question it will bring up a warm discussion. The committee to consider the bishop's charge and report thereon, composed of Archdeacon Mackenzie, Canon Craig, Rev. Dr. Sage, Rev. R. Howard and Messrs. E. G. Henderson, F. Metcalfe, E. Rainsford and Dr. Moorehouse, was in session this morning, and it is generally expected that they will bring in their recommendation's towards the close of this afternoon's

Had his lordship's stand been less definite on the matters in question it is doubtful if more than a passing mention would have been made of these matters, on which there is so much difference of opinion. But under the circumstances the committee can hardly do oth er than definitely champion his lordship's position in the mat ter, or else place themselves as definitely in opposition to it. Which alternative will be chosen by the committee cannot be known till their report is pre-

Copper is going up at a considerable rate, and has already shown an advancement of over one-half cent per pound, with the possibility of going some higher. In fact, all trade journals state that copper will be 15 cents a pound within a few weeks. The price at which the city could have bought the copper was 13 2-10 cents a pound. Every half-cent a ound advance makes a difference in the city's price for copper, so if it goes to 15 cents a pound the city will

Police Court Today Was Scene of Lively Legal Battle.

NO DECISION FOR A WEEK

prieved until October by Mr. Justice If Case Goes Against the Chinamen They Do Not Want the Liquor Destroyed.

> The case of Chin Sue, charged by License Inspector Galpin with selling quor without a license and having iquor for sale, occupied Magistrate Love's time for four hours at the police court today, and proved most in> teresting. At its conclusion Magistrate Love decided to postpone judgment for a week. The defense then asked that if the verdict is against them the iquor be not destroyed.

> The Evidence. Inspector Galpin was called first and stated that on May 16 he went to the premises of Chin Sue, 359 Clarence street, with Sergeants McDonald and Downs, and found a large number of Chinamen there. On searching for liquor he found 42 bottles, each containing about three half pints, and a two-gallon jar. The bottles were found after considerable search hidden in a box of beans. The box had a false bottom. Another box filled with peas was also found to have a false bottom and was filled with bottles. In another box, filled with old straw and hay a dozen more bottle were found. Good Liquor This.

The liquor in this box was not so strong, and was put up in glass bottles The first two dozen were in stone jars. The remaining half dozen bottles were found scattered throughout the premises. The two-gallon jar was in corner of a shed and was nidden behind some boxes.

One Chinaman said the bottles contained salt. Mr. Cowan t had been said in the presence of Chin Sue, the court allowed it as testimony.

The bottles were removed and an analysis was made of three different varieties of the liquor by the provincial analysis in Toronte. The analysis showed that one variety of the liquor, taken from the stone jar, contained 87.97 per cent of proof spirits. The best grades of liquor for sale this country only contain 75 per cent. The other sample taken from the glass bottles was found to contain 65.97 per cent proof spirits. The two-gallon jar contained liquor bout as strong as ordinary whiskey.
