THE FREE PRESS, LONDO SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1906.

R.)UNG & CO.

He depended wholly upon Father Chaumonot's knowledge of the tongue and the legends; and during the first three nights he and Chaumonot divided a table between them, the one to scribble his lore and the other to add a page to those The Chevalier watched them both from a corner where he sat and gravely moked a wooden pipe. And then the manuscript of the poet was put aside. "Why?" asked Chaumonot one night. He had been greatly interested in the asked Chaumonot one night.

victor flushed guiltily.

"Perhaps it may be of no value. There are but half a dozen thoughts worth re-

"And who may say that immortality does not dwell in these thoughts?" said the priest. "All things are born to die but a single thought which will alleviate the sufferings of man or add beauty to his existence, one does not live and die in vain."

Chaumonot's after thought was: "This good lad is in love with one or the other of these women." But Clio knew Victor no more. On

But Clio knew Victor no more. On the margins he drew faces or began rondeaux which came to no end. "Laughter has a pleasant sound in my ears, Paul," said Victor; "and I have not heard you laugh in some time." "Perhaps the thought has not occurred to me," replied the Chevalier, glancing at the entrance to the palisade. Madame had only that moment passed through, having left the vicomte. "I have lost the trick of laughing. No thought of mine is spontaneous. With a carpen-ter's ell I mark out each thought; it is "Mons

"Something must be done, then, to make you laugh. Madame and made-moiselle have promised to take a canoe trip back into the hills this afternoon. come with us." . . . ?" the suggested

They Chevalier stammered. "No. But haven't you the right? At least you know madame. 'Madame?' "Madame, always madame. Here for-malities would only be ridiculous. You will go with us for safety's sake, if for nothing more." "I will go it is to be that under-

"I will go ... with that under-standing. Ah, lad, if only I knew what "We wrother "We would still be where we are," evasively. The poet had a plan in re-gard to madame and the Chevalier. It twisted his brave heart, yet he clung Caprice is an exquisite trait in a Caprice is an exquisite trait in a woman; a woman who has it—and what woman has not?—is all the seasons of the year compressed into an hour—the mildness of spring, the warmth of sum-mer, the glory of autumn, and the chill of winter. And when madame saw the Chevalier that afternoon, she put a foot into the cance, and immediately withdrew it. "What is it?" asked Victor. "Is Monsieur le Chevalier going?" "Yes." Victor waited. "Why?" he said finally.

"Yes." V said finally. 'Nothing, nothing." Madame took her place in the canoe. "It is necessary for our general safety, Madame, that the Chevalier goes with

"There is danger, then?" "There will be none," emphatically. "Let us be off," was madame's re-joinder.

joinder. The Chevalier stepped in and took the paddle, while Victor pushed the canoe into the water. He and Anne followed presently. Madame sat in the bow, her back to the Chevalier, her hands rest-ing lightly on the sides. The rings which the Chevalier had seen on those beautiful hands while in Quebec were gone, even to the wedding ring. They ware doubtless bedecking the pudgy again, Gabrielle?" asked the poet. "I hope so; and soon, soon!" "How came you to sign that paper?" "He would have broken my arm, else. How I hated him! Tricks, subterfuges, lies, menaces; I was surrounded by them.

lies, menaces; I was surrounded by them. And I believed in so many things those early days!" "How softly breathes this last, linger-ing ghost of summer," he said. "How "How softly breathes this last, linger-ing ghost of summer," he said. "How lovingly the pearls and opals and ame-thysts of heaven linger on the crimson-ing hills! See how the stream runs like a silver thread, laughing and singing, to join the grave river. We can not see the river from here, but we know how gravely it journeys to the sea. "Can you not smell the odor of mint, of earth, of the forest and the water? Hark! I hear a bird singing. There he goes, a yellow bird, a golden rouleau of song. How the yellow flower stands out against the dark of the grassee! It is against the dark of the grasses! It is Lord Roberts, the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough and Lord Curzon, the all beautiful. It is the immortality in us which nature enchants. "See how the wooded lands fade and fade till they and the heavens meet and dissolve! And all this is yours, Gabrielle, for the seeing and the hearing. "Some day I shall know all things, but never again shali I know the perfect beauty of this day. Some day I shall know the reason for this and for that, why I made a bad step here and a short one there; but never again this hour." He picked up a chestnut-burr and opened it, extending the plump chestnuts The Duke of Mariborough, in propos-How delicately this man was telling her that he still loved her. Absently her hand closed over the chestnuts, and the thought in her eyes was far away. If only it had been written that she might love him! Recognizing the President's great qualmight love him! "Monsieur de Saumaise," said Anne, "will you take me to the pool? You told me that it would make a fine mirror, and I have not seen my face in so long a time that I declare I have quite for-gotten how it looks." "Come along, Mademoiselle; into the heart of the wood I had a norm to and hoped she would retain for Eng-

'Laughing at fate and her chilling frown, Plunging through wilderness, cavern and cave, Building the citadel, fortress, and town, and expressing the pleasures experienc-

Fearing nor desert, the sea, nor the Courage finds her a niche in the knave, Fame is not niggard with laurel or pain; hand.

pave: These are the hazards that kings disdain! Bright are the jewels they add to the crown, Levied on savage and pilfered from Inder the winds and the had to thank him for cementing the Fearing grave High shall the Future their names the peoples.

engrave, For these are lives that are not spent in vain,

Though their reward be a tomb 'neath the wave. These are the hazards that kings disdain "I will try to remember the last stanza and the envoi as we go along," added And together they passed down the ra-

And together they passed down the ra-vine, two brave hearts assuming a galety which deceived only the Chevaller, who still reclined against the boulder and was proceeding silently to inspect the golden plush of an empty burr. Two or three minutes passed; Victor's voice became indistinct and finally was heard no longer. Madame surveyed the Chevalier with a lurking scornful smile. Tais man was going to force her to love him!

"Monsieur, you seem determined to an-noy me. I shall not ask you to speak

Curzon and Marlborough Say Teddy Roosevelt is the Greatest Ever

UGHTER

London, June 29 .- The Society of American Women gave a luncheon to Ambassador Whitelaw Reid and Mrs. Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Longworth at the Hotel Cecil to-day.

The large banqueting hall of the hotel was filled with the American women and their guests, who included former viceroy of India. Mrs. Webster Glyne, who presided, in proposing the health of Mr. and Mrs. Reid said the welcome was arranged last year, but unfortunately was deferred on account of the death of Secretary Hay.

ing the health of Mr. and Mrs. Longworth, spoke of the interest Englishmen took in the political utterances of President Roosevelt, and in his great political career, saying that the President's high aims, courage and manliness commanded the admiration, goodwill, and enthusiasm of the British.

ities the British gladly welcomed his daughter, and now that they had met her he regretted her early departure, heart of the wood. I had a poem to recite to you, but I have forgotten part of it. It is heroic, and begins like this: land the kindly feeling and interest which England would retain for her. Mr. Longworth replied, thanking the American ladies for their courtesies, > ed by himself and his wife at the kindnesses they had met with on every

Lord Curzon, speaking for the guests, Pathways with blood and bones do they said it had been a great pleasure for them to meet the daughter of the greatest statesman of the day. President Roosevelt, he added, was making an enduring mark on the history of his times, but, above all, the British brown. nor desert, the sea, nor the good relations existing betwee

ELECTION LAWS REPORT

Not Likely That One Will be Presented This Session.

Ottawa, June 29-It is not likely that a report would be presented this session by the special committee which has been considering the election laws. The committee was called to meet this morning, but the only member who turned up was Hon.

Thos. Greenway. Two or three members are out of the city and others were attending the morning session of the House. The findings of the committee will

••••••

R. J. YOUNG & CO.

Laces, Silks, Ribbons, Straws, Hat Shapes, Sailors, Ladies' Umbrellas, Flowers, Dress Trimmings, Etc.

re say, the cream of this stock, we mean that we selected the best of everything-nothing but new, naterials, so new that much of it had not passed customs and much more had never been opened. tire lot is to be cleared in two days-

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

ly the choice stuffs can be had only by being here Nine o'Clock, Tuesday Morning. In addition to bods we advertise many lines from regular stock marked at the same clearing prices-just one half. EVERY ITEM CAREFULLY. EVERYTHING WILL BE PLAINLY MARKED.

s, or ie i- gof h	Any the stock at one price,
e n vys	Fanw Braids 1cluesday 1Cancy Straw braic and all col- ors, : yd. (No- tice no whites adve	SATIN VERVEIL- LEUX, Black and Ivory Only. Every thread silk, beautiful finish; Black Peau de Soie, Shot Taffetas, Plain Tamalines, Fancy Failles, British Tamalines and Japan Silks, in stylish hair-line stripes, with neat pattern; reg-			DRESS TRIMMINGS In assortment of Fancy Braids, worth regularly 8c, 10c, 12½c and 15' yard. Take your choic Tues. morning, at yd 5c. satin s; colors: castor strawise, yellow, maur and th regularly 20c	rose, cerise, ve, helio, nile to 35c. Your 10	ng TUESDAY A pieces Black Do 1/2 inche <sub>s</sub> wide, pieces Plain Co	1/2c RIBBONS, CLEAR- T, PER YARD, 5c. nuble-faced Velvet Rib- worth 12½c. rded Ribbon, two and s: nile hunter's green	200 pieces orange.	-inch Double Satin Ribbons, worth three inches wide; colors: nile, hunter's green, choice yard cardinal, brown, pink, helio; worth 10c, 15c yd. Job lot Silk and Satin Ribbons, all colors;

-Half Inch Double Faced

Velvet Ribbons

10. IUC

gone, even to the wedding ring. They were doubtless bedecking the pudgy digits of one Corn Planter's wife, far away in the Seneca country. The canoe quivered as the Chevalier's strong arms swung the narrow-bladed paddle. Past marshes went the painted canoes; they swam the singing shallows; they glided under shading willow; they sped by wild grape-vine and spreading elm.

The stream was embroidered with a thousand grasses, dying dalsies, paling goldenrod, berry bushes and wild-rose goldenrod, herry bushes and wild-rose thorn. A thousand elusive perfumes rose to greet them; a thousand changing scenes. October, in all her gorgeous furbelows, sat upon her throne. The Chevalier never uttered a word, but studied madame's half-turned cheek. Once he was conscious that the color on that cheek deepened, then faded. "It is the wind," he thought. "She is truly the most beautiful woman in all the world; and fool that I am. I have vowed to her face that I shall make her love me!" oldenrod, love me could hear Victor's voice from time

He could near victor's voice in this to time, coming with the wind. "Monsieur," madame said abruptly, when the silence could no longer be en-dured. "since you are here . . . Well, why do you not speak?" The paddle turned so violently that coe came dangerously near upsetting

"What shall I say. Madame?" "Eh! must I, think for you?" im

"Eh! must I, think for you." In patiently. The fact that her eye was not upon him gave a vestige of courage. "It is a far cry from the galleries of the Louvre. Madame, to this spot." "We have gone back to the beginning of the world. No word save Nicot's violin, which he plays sadly enough; no masks, no parties, no galloping to the hunt, no languishing in the balconies. Were it not pregnant with hidden dan-gers. I should love this land. I wonder who is the latest celebrity at the old gers, I should love this land. I would a who is the latest celebrity at the old Rambouillet; a poet possibly, a swash-buckler, more probably." "Move back a little. Madame. We shall land on that stretch of sand by willows. Madame did as he required, and with a dexterous stroke the Chevalier sent the craft upon the beach and jumped out. This manoeuvre to assist her did not pass, for she was up and out almost as non as he.

In a moment Victor came to the spot. The two cances were hidden with a cun-ning which the Chevalier had learned from the Indian.

from the Indian. Above them was a hill which was al-most split in twain by a gorge or gully, down through which a brook leaped and bounded and tumbled, rolling its musical "r's." The four started up the long in-cline, the women gathering the belated flowers and the men picking up curious sticks or sending boulders hurtling down the hillside.

the hillside. Higher and higher they mounted till the summit was reached. Hill after hill rolled away to the east, to the south, to the west, while toward the north the lake glittered with all the brilliancy of a coordinal's pate cardinal's pate. "Can it be," said Victor, breaking the spell, "can it be that we once knew Parls?"

Paris?" "Paris!" repeated madame. Her eyes took in her beaded skirt and moccasins and replaced them with glow-ing silks and shimmering laces. Paris! Many a phantom was stirred from its tomb at the sound of this magic name

Anne perched herself upon a boulder and the Chevalier rested beside her, while madame and the poet strolled a "Shall we ever see our dear Paris

Politely Invite

Your hotel waiter

Grape-Nuts

The Food will come.

to serve again." I shall hot as you to speak "Is it possible that I can still annoy you. Madame?" Madame crushed a burr with her foot probably be presented at the next session of Parliament, which will be him

grave:

in time for the framing of a new . . . and gasped. She had forgotten the loose seam in her moccasin. The delicate needles had penetrated the flesh. This little comedy, however, passed over his law before the general elections are held. head.

To be Continued.

A COMING ATTRACTION.

The Grand Trunk Railway system

exhibit car, which has just concluded Columbia, S. C., June 29 .-- W. O. a most successful trip of three months, Tatum, dispensary commissioner, has through a portion of the United States, just received information from Orangeis now visiting some of the principal burg that J. T. Parks, auditing clerk towns and cities along the main line of the State treasury and secretary of of the Grand Trunk. It will be open for inspection of visitors at the G. T. the State Democratic executive com-R. station at this place on Monday, mittee, and R. H. Covar, business man-July 2nd. All who can make it conager of the Orangeburg Patriot, were venient should not miss this opportun- mortally wounded there today in a ty of seeing a novel and instructive street duel. Both men were shot Art Gallery on wheels, in which is through the body. found an extensive collection of large

Parks formerly owned the Patriot, photographic prints depicting scenes in the many famous summer resort dis-the result of trouble over the settletricts reached by this up-to-date railroad. The special features of the car ment. are interesting to the tourist, sports-SEES HUSBAND DIE man and angler. Magnificent speci-mens of mounted fish and game are included in the exhibit.

HORSE IS KILLED.

Warsaw, June 29 .- A bomb was attached to the cab was killed. The man who threw the bomb escaped.

Pink Lips, Like Velvet, Rough, Chapped or Cracked Lips, can be ointment is always immediate and fatal results. certain. Dr. Shoop's Green Salve takes The hour for the ceremony was at ice excls charged that the out completely the soreness of cuts, burns, bruises and all skin abrasions. In the participation of the guests were assembled price of advanced from in the parlor. Young Reinhardt walk- $2.50 to. ton.

It is surely a wonderful and most ed into the room and levelled a rehighly satisfactory healing ointment. volver at his sweetheart. Three shots In glass jars at 25 cents. Sold by C. McCallum and Co. were fired at her in rapid succession at close range. The first bullet enter-

NEW INSECT PLAGUE.

Reinhardt then turned the pistol upon Niagara Falls, June 29 .- A plague himself and fired two bullets into his of insects of a new sort is afflicting own breast.

The cause of the tragedy is not stroy rose bushes very quickly, and known. The relations between the sweethearts had been happy.

The families of both parties are The insects have now attacked the among the best in this county.

DEPORTATION OF U. S. SILVER. to the Ontario Agricultural College.

The procedure at Ottawa in the DEPORTATION OF U. S. SILVER. Montreal, June 29.—The Government's arrangement with the Canadian Bank-ers' Association for the deportation of United States silver terminates to-mor-row, and it is stated in banking circles that the in-piled reason for the decision to stop further deportation is that the work has made no appreciable change in the demand 'or Canadian silver. Bankers, on the other hand, claim that if the work was carried on some time longer a difference would be shown. A large amount, has been deported, but there will be a large influx of foreign silver during the summer invasion of tourists. case of the steamer Arctic bears a remarkable resemblance to the Gamey episode in the Ontario Legislature. The Liberal majority in both instances voted a coat of whitewash tourists. for the accused. They satisfied them-Are You Using a Genuine "Foot selves with glossing over the ugly facts, and expected the country to be Elm" or Only the Cheap Substitute?

Ontario was not mocked, nor will the larger | ctoral body of Canada be deceived. Genuine Foct Elm always pleases and satisfies.

deceived thereby.

NEWSPAPERMEN SHOOT To day, 3c. Each Puts Ball Through Other and Both Will Die.

1. 2 and 3 inches wide: worth 8c to 15c.

Also. Millersburg, Ohio, June 29 .- While in the the minimum pen-P. Benedict, county prosecutor, left hrown at five o'clock this afternoon James Patterson and his wife, both alty undes. The court re- early today for Toledo, O., to study thrown at five o'clock this alternoon James Fatterson and his wile, both at the Chief of the Railway Gen-nearly 80 years old, were visiting serves ther to modify the the methods employed by the prosecu-sentencevelopments should tor there in obtaining the conviction darmes, Colonel Muradoff, while he their daughter, Mrs. Henry Woerk, was driving through the streets in near here, the old man fell down the a cab. The cabmen and gendarme, cellar steps and broke his neck. He victed n serving their senther delging for the con- trust.

who accompanied Colonel Muradoff, died instantly. His wife, who witwere severely wounded, the colonel nessed the accident, fell in a faint Lemmor be made quickly tences. in the Beard and CHICAGO CANADIAN VETERANS. was slightly injured and the horse and died shortly afterwards. and compers issued.

KILLS SWEETHEART AT ALTAK. PHILAFTER THEM TOO

ed her heart, killing her instantly.

Comfort, Tex., June 28 .- In the pres-Canadian Veterans' Association of '66, PhiladJune 28.-Warrants ence of the assembled edding guests, had an interview with Premier Whit. were is for the arrest of last night, at the home of his intended thirteen who are accused ney at the Parliament buildings this bride, Joseph Reinhardt shot and in- of enter combination to merning.

at bedtime, a light coating of Dr. stantly killed Miss Ernestine Kutzer, maintai prices. Prelimin-Shoop's Green Salve. The effect on the woman he was to have married ary heat held on Monday The Chicago veterans desire to establish a sectlement in the Rainy River the lips or skin of this most excellent and then shot himself with probably All of tlamed, with the exdistrict, at a point due north of Chiception e members of the cago, which can be reached by 24 hours' journey from the Windy City.

> "Why did you give up your white goods business?"

Toronto, June 29 .- Mr. H. J. Dono-hoe, chairman of the land grants committee of the Chicago branch of the

TO SEDO METHODS. "Because I had to go into mourning."-Wiener Witzblatt. Indian June 28 .- Charles

3,800,000; Assets, $34,000,000; Reserve, $4,200,000. Eomy In The Home ter of systematic payments. Keep an account here vill pay you.

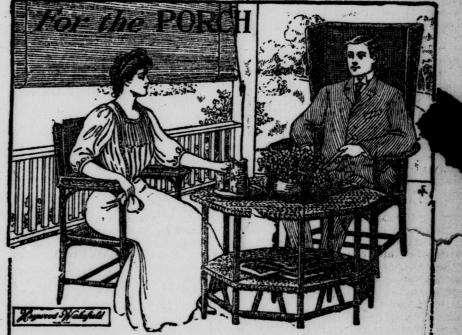

ir city office is a special banking room for women. enient and assists economy.

so helps you save money. A dollar will open an cial banking room for ladies at city office.

BANK OF TORONTO

Cond and King Sts. Corner Adelaide and Dundas Sts. F. L. COULSON, Manager. INGLE, Manager.

Castor, brown, cerise, black; worth yard. To clear

ZC

Silk Valenciennes Insertions, 1-Inch Wide,

For 5c Yard

The balmy air of this season invites one to outdoor life. We have the ideal porch furniture in the famous HEYWOOD-WAKEFIELD make. It is strong and light. It will stand exposure to the weather, yet it is comfortable and attractive looking.

This well-known Company makes practically everything in porch furniture and we carry a complete line of it. There are taborettes, tables, chairs, davenports and settees in reed and rattan or in the natural finish porch furniture.

We carry what is probably ## the most complete line

of these goods in this city. If you want your porch to look attractive and to afford the maximum of comfort at minimum of cost, ask to see our HEYWOOD-WAKEFIELD porch furniture.

Mrs. John Sullivan, of Chichester, The R. T. Booth Co., of Ithaca, N. Que., was killed by a lightning bolt Y., has gone into the hands of a rethat passed over that section Thurs- ceiver, Fordyce A. Cobb was appointed day night.

RESEMBLANCE.

name the insects or tell how to resist them. Specimens have been sent

