PARIS, March 1-The head of the column o the 11th corps under Gen Von Bose entered Pont de Jour and Porte Neuilly, and are moving toward Arc de Triomphe.

No hostile movement of the populace has vet been made and fears of a collision are diminishing. At the appointed hour - 10 o'clock-the first representatives of the victorious army entered an enceinte under the eye of His Imperial Majesty. In accordance with the programme the eleventh corps, numbering 30.000, with ninety pieces of field artillery and the usual proportion of cavalry under command of Gen Von Bose, advanced in two columns, one at Porte Neuily and the other at Pont de Jour. They advanced at a rapid pace up the Avenue Grand Arme and directly Sailed - Brig Perpetual, Columbia river, 10: Arc de Triomphe; the French troops vacating the streets as the Germans approached. Another column entered Pont de Jour, below the Auteuil, and commenced to march along the quay on the north side of the Seine directly for the Place de la Concorde, which had been fixed as a place of rendezvous for the 2d column of troops, preceded by a long line of artillery, took positions from Pont de Nuilly to the Place de la Concorde, and from Pont du Jour to the same point, as a precautionary measure. Lordon; March 1—Advices from Paris of the 28th ult say that the proclamation of Thiers and the order of Vinoy produced a good impression on the Paris military. Precautions were taken to prevent any disorders. The proclamation of Thiers says the French army occupies the jet side to insure the execution of the convention; and he urges the ipeople not to break the convention and thus entail frightful misfortunes on France.

In the Order of the Day Vinoy says; The Government unhesitatingly confided to the National Garde the care of the city, and trusts to their devotion and intelligence to maintain order. The least agitation will provoke an indiscribeble misfortune. Only calm dignity can avert the danger.
