In the desperate struggle now being made by the consumer to force from the Gas Co. the rights given him by law, a settlement has been suggested by the Executive Committee of the City Council, and this strikes one as being a very unusual position to be taken by a successful plaintiff with a judgment in his favor giving him all he askedthe city having the same rights as Mr. J. T. Johnston—especially against a defendant guilty of breaches of the criminal law and of having as the judgment holds disobeyed a statute in consequence of which it has for years past systematically robbed the gas consumers of Toronto. But nothing less than a full and prompt compliance with the judgment should be entertained for a moment, and aldermen who express willingness to accept less will be held by their constituents to be sharers in the guilt of the company, and as trying to assist it to still further continue its career of extortion. And why should the citizens take less than what the judgment declares they are lawfully entitled to? Do the citizens desire to make further concessions and presents to this wealthy corporation that is never satisfied and that has done nothing for years past but grind and defraud rich and poor alike, and that has made enormous profits out of the gas franchise?
