returning upon their tracks in the most aimless way, as if they had lost their bearings and were wandering hopelessly about in search of a road of escape.

AT THE BRANCH.

A very amusing incident took place the other day at a summer resort near Toronto. A party of young men from the city, who were camping out, had had a case of provisions sent them by the steamer. This had been deposited on a smaller wharf, and two of the young fellows, resplendent in duck and blazers, came along in their canoe to transport the eatables to the camp. The box was placed on the end of the little dock, and the boat ranged broadside, one of the men in each end standing with one hand grasping the deck, the other the ends of the box. Then they attempted to lift the case into the boat, but their efforts in doing so forced the canoe outwards, and they were powerless to stop it, as the box was balancing between canoe and wharf. Finally, as they worked out the weight on one side upset the boat, the men went in, and the box, which they had not been able to push back, on top of them. The little comedy was ludicrous in the extreme, and those who witnessed it are wondering if the men are still hungry.

A GLORIOUS AGE IN WHICH WE LIVE.

We ought, more frequently, to cast our thoughts upon the marvelous achievements of the age in which we live. In the department of medicine alone there has been an advance all along the line, securing to mankind ever increasing exemption from pain and suffering.

Perhaps the discovery most important to that large class of sufferers known under the general designation of "Nervous"—those people all run down in nerve and muscular force—is embodied in the preparation known to doctors as "Maltine with Coca Wine."

A builder-up of nerve and muscular tissue is this—as of buoyancy and verve—not, indeed, by a fitful galvanizing that speedily exhausts itself, leaving the last condition even more deplorable than the first. No! Maltine with Coca Wine gives the needed impetus to the flagging power of body and mind; strengthens the digestive organs; improves the assimilative functions, and sustains the vital forces until, by the improved conditions it brings about, the equilibrium of functions is re-restored and health renewed. Maltine with Coca Wine is sold by all druggists.
