spring medicine means more now-a-days than it did ten years ago. The winter of 1888-89 has left the nerves all fagged out. The nerves must be strengthened, the blood purified, liver and bowels regulated. Paine's Celery Compound—the Spring medicine of to-day—does all this, as nothing else can. Prescribed by Physicians, Recommended by Druggists, Endorsed by Ministers, Guaranteed by the Manufacturers to be

The Best Spring Medicine.

"In the spring of 1887 I was all run down. I would get up in the morning with so tired a feeling, and was so weak that I could hardly get around. I bought a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and before I had taken it a week I felt very much better. I can cheerfully recommend it to all who need a building up and strengthening medicine." Mrs. B. A. Dow, Burlington, Vt.

CATARRH.

A New Home Treatment for the Cure of Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness, and Hay Fever. 5/52

The microscope has proved that these diseases are contagious, and that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the linings of the upper air passages and eustachian tubes. The eminent scientists—Tyn-dall, Huxley and Beale—endorse this, and these authorities cannot be disputed. The regular method of treating these diseases is to apply an irritant remedy weekly and even daily, thus keeping the delicate membrane in a constant state of irritation, accompanied by violent sneezing, allowing it no chance to heal and as a natural consequence of such treatment not one permanent cure has ever been recorded. It is an absolute fact that these diseases cannot be cured by an application made oftener than once in two weeks, for the membrane must get a chance to heal before any application is repeated. It is now seven years since Mr. Dixon discovered the parasite in catarrh and formulated his new treatment, and since then his remedy has become a household word in every country where the English language is spoken. Cures effected by him seven years ago are cures still, there having been no return of the disease. So high are these remedies valued, and so great is the demand for them, that ignorant imitators have started up everywhere, pretending to destroy a parasite of which they know nothing—by remedies the results of the application of which they are equally ignorant. Mr. Dixon's remedy is applied only once in two weeks, and from one to three applications effect a permanent cure in the most aggravated cases. N.B.—For catarrhal troubles peculiar to females this remedy is a specific. Mr. Dixon sends a pamphlet describing his new treatment on the receipt of one cent in stamps. The address is A. H. Dixon & Son, 303 King Street West, Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.

Sufferers from catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

household Hints.

VEAL LOAF.—Chop two pounds of veal with half a pound of fat pork, roll a dozen stale crackers, and wet with half a teacup of milk. Mix all together, and season with pepper, salt, allspice, a little grated nutmeg and lemon peel. Bake an hour and a half. When perfectly cold slice thin.

AFTER a too hearty dinner, if you feel dull and heavy, take a dose of Campbell's Cathartic Compound.

YELLOW CAKE.—Two cups of sugar, four eggs, one half cup of butter; one cup of sweet milk, three teaspoons baking powder, three cups of flour.

THE FAVORITE MEDICINE for all classes—Perry Davis' Pain-Killer.

SWEET PICKLED PEACHES.—To seven pounds of peaches allow three and three quarter pounds of sugar, one quart of vinegar, two ounces of cloves, and two ounces of stick cinnamon. Pare the peaches and stick one or two cloves into each one. Boil the sugar and vinegar, with several sticks of cinnamon, for five minutes, then put in the peaches, when cooked thoroughly done, take them out. Boil the syrup, reducing it to nearly half, and pour it over the peaches.

THE best Cough Medicine we know of is Allen's Lung Balm.

BOILED EGGS.—The nicest way to boil them, according to my idea, is to put them into a stew pan of cold water and place it over a brisk fire. As soon as the water boils, the eggs are sufficiently cooked. There must be enough of the water to cover the eggs. Another nice way is to put them into boiling water, cover them closely, and let them remain about six minutes, having the dish removed from the stove. The lady in the story probably put them into a tin pail with a cover on it, and then dropped the pail in a kettle of boiling water. They are nice cooked that way.

Minard's Lintment cures garget in cows.

POACHED EGGS.—Poached eggs are those boiled without the shell on. The water should be boiling when they are dropped in, and the saucepan should then be drawn to the back of the stove where it will not quite boil. Let the eggs remain in it for about ten minutes, when they will be thick and creamy. If the water is allowed to boil, the eggs will be tough; and if it is not hot enough they will be ragged. More care is really required in poaching eggs than in cooking them in any other way; but when well poached they are so easily digested that they are especially suitable for invalids. They are usually served on slices of toast, or on daintily toasted crackers.

Do tell me the name of that delightful perfume you use with pleasure. It is the "Lotus of the Nile."

TOMATO SALAD.—Choose, smooth, red tomatoes, peel them and cut them in halves. Beat two eggs, and add a small teaspoon salt, two of sugar, a pinch of red or black pepper and three tablespoons of vinegar. Let it boil until it thickens, stirring constantly, then set it away in an earthen dish, in a cool place. Put the tomatoes, also, where they will be cool. When the dressing is cold, dip each piece of tomato in vinegar and lay it on a platter, then dip the dressing in spoonful upon it. It will be like jelly.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate. A brain and nerve food. for lecturers, teachers, students, clergymen, lawyers, and brain-workers generally.

CHICKEN SOUP.—Take all the bones of a chicken, crack them, and add the dark meat; cover with water and stew for three or four hours. Flavour with some thinly-cut lemon peel; salt to taste, add a little sage tied in a piece of muslin.

AN INTERESTING REPORT. The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of about thirty pages, which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder, and which shows that the majority of the goods in the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Prof. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking powder is an excellent powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be sufficient.

SPICED BEEF.—Chop two pounds of beef and a small piece of suet together. Season with pepper, salt, and sweet herbs. Add two raw eggs, half a pint of grated bread crumbs, two tablespoonsful of butter, and scup stick to moisten. Work in a roll with flour to keep together, and bake in a p. n. Slice when cold.
